SAID HER PUP IS NO GOOD ANYWAY

MRS. COLTON HAS A GRIEVANCE AND WILL TAKE CASE INTO THE COURTS.

There was some excitement in Kemper avenue yesterday and there will probably be some more when the parties who created it are hauled up before Judge Boyle on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Today Mrs. A. B. Colton, a widow, living at No. 317 Kemper avenue, swore to a complaint charging the occupant of the house bearing No. 301 Kemper avenue, with disturbing the peace and an officer was sent out to the house to arrest the occupant, whose name Mrs. Colton does not know. She told Judge Boyle that the man walked into her yard with a dog and set the animal on her dog and when she protested he grabbed her by the arm and pulled her away so the dogs could fight. All of her neighbors, she said, witnessed the affair, as the excitement was great and it brought them out of their houses.

She says the man went away twice, but returned each time and made the dogs fight, and added insult to injury by telling her the dog she owned was no good anyway.

LOWRY CASE FALLS THROUGH

Man Accused of Taking Montana Jockey Club Funds Not Prosecuted.

In Judge McClernan's court this morning County Attorney Green filed a motion to dismiss the case of the Montana Jockey club against E. R. Lowrey.

Lowrey was accused of appropriating $85 of the moneys belonging to the club. The case fell through and the dismissal came about through a compromise.

KELLY CASE COMES BEFORE MCCLERNAN

then entered the contention that Mr. and Mrs. Haupt had complied with the requirements of the writ of habeas corpus by bringing the child into court at the time ordered originally, and that the petitioners should have asked for a proper disposition of the custody of the minor until the judgment was ordered. As this was not done and failing to have any one appointed, Mr. Haupt was not bound to the safekeeping of the boy.

"The code," quoted the attorney, "provided for the commitment of the child to the custody of the sheriff, or such persons as the conditions or the order of the court should require. The petitioner slept on her rights and simply allowed the child to go forth on the streets without proper precautions for his custody or safe keeping."

Habeas Corpus Complied With.

The substance of Mr. Thresher's argument was, inferentially, that the responsibility for the safe keeping of the child rested with the court after the boy had first been brought into court in response to the command of the writ of habeas corpus.

"If an order had been made," continued Mr. Thresher, "making Mr. and Mrs. Haupt the custodians of the child, and they were directed to produce him at the proper time, they would, in the event of failure, be liable to contempt proceedings. Failing in this, the petitioner is not able to prove contempt or liability."

After hearing testimony on both sides, Judge McClernan decided at a late hour to close the case until September 4, when it will be taken up again for re-hearing.

GOOD DOPE LIES IN THIEF SLANG

IF YOU ARE NOT ONTO THE LING, IT IS NO USE TO TRY TO READ THIS SORT OF THING.

THIEVES DO NOT NEED SPECIAL CYPHER CODE

They Have a Language All Their Own, as Letter Found by Butte Detective Well Shows—Make Something Out of the Epistle for Yourself, If You Can—It Is Easy When You Know How.

Jerry Murphy, Butte's city detective, is a tolerably good master of the English language, but there is a language that he is familiar with that is far more effective than English for much of the work that he is called upon to do. It comprises the whole category of the slang phrases used by crooks.

"What do you think of that for a means of transmitting thought," said Jerry as he pulled a letter out of his pocket at the police station this morning.

It was a strange looking missive, in places the spelling was enough to make old Noah Webster turn over in his grave, but as the Sherlock Holmes of Butte put it, "it was pretty strong dope for the party to whom it was intended."

"I took that from a book the other day and I wish I could get him for something more serious, as I have a strong hunch that he is a pretty bad egg."

Greek to the Uninitiated.

The letter did not mean much to one untutored in the parlance of the thug. The spelling is not reproduced. It read:

"Dear Pal:

"I guess you thought I got it all in the nut college, but I am a little leery of going to Butte this summer. There's lots of slow grafters up around there now and so I copped the rattler at Council Bluffs and lit out for here.

"This gun can non business got a little too slow for this laminate and I saved if I stayed long enough I'd givened. I had to get fall money for the Kid, who was pulled for a heel when Dick copped him at a damper. Next time he'll tackle a pete and cut out this bum show. The harness bull was out with the big mitt and I turned the kid over to a shack and the last I saw of him, he had a dose on the beam of a John O'Brien and was pulling South.

To Have a Murder Soon.

"How is the slum coming in Butte anyhow? I saw where an amateur elbow put Partin in the stiff car with a smoke wagon. That's what comes from hop-scotchng.

"I hear you're going to have a murder up there soon. Ought to be a good chance for a hotel man. Don't much chance to get down below if you don't get mixed up with a lobster. Write to me soon to the general delivery here."

The letter is signed "Bud."

The letter was postmarked Omaha, and there was no further information as to the identity of "Bud."

Translated by Jerry Murphy it reads as follows:

"I guess you thought I had got a life sentence in the insane asylum, but I am a little afraid of going to Butte this summer. There are lots of daylight burglars up around there now and so I caught a train at Council Bluffs and came here.

"This pickpocket business got a little too slow for this fugitive from justice and I saw that if I stayed long enough I'd get arrested. I had to put up money for the Kid (fall money is put up for a man in trouble) who was pulled for being a sneak thief when a policeman caught him at a money drawer. The (uniformed) policeman was susceptible of bribery (incredible assertion) and I turned the Kid over to a brakeman and the last I saw of him he had a seat on the beam of a freight train going South.

The Penalty of Carelessness.

"How is the plunder coming in Butte, anyhow. I saw where an amateur officer put Partin in the hearse with a six-shooter. That's what comes from being too careless.

"I hear you are going to have a big gathering up there soon. It ought to be a good chance for a hotel thief. Not much chance to get in the penitentiary unless you get mixed up with a poor partner."

It was evident that Bud was acquainted with the Martin, the sneak thief, who was shot last month by Hugh Anderson.

The "murder" that is coming to Butte soon is evidently the Mining Congress and the writer thinks it would be a good chance for a thief who makes a specialty of robbing hotels and apartment houses. It is apparent from the letter that the writer has been in Butte before, but then, as Jerry said:

"There isn't a thug in the United States that doesn't drift into Butte at one time or another."

A Summer Trip Through Zion and the Rockies.

A trip to the East by way of Salt Lake City and the Rio Grande lines is the greatest on the American continent, passing as it does along the shores of Salt Lake and Utah lakes, through Utah and Colorado's fertile valleys and the heart of the Rocky mountains. No European journey of equal length can compare with it in splendor of scenery or wealth of novel interest. A stop-over at Salt Lake City is allowed on all classes of tickets via this route. Mrs. Jennie Algro of Dietz, Wyo., a sister of Rosa Bergotta, who killed herself in a cabin at No. 440 Indiana avenue, last Tuesday arrived in the city yesterday to attend the funeral of the dead woman. The funeral will take place from Tachell's undertaking rooms tomorrow.

One of the Raymond-Whitcomb excursion parties will arrive in Butte tomorrow on the Northern Pacific from Livingston, through the Yellowstone park, and will leave over the Oregon Short Line for Salt Lake. The travel through the park via Monida, on the Short Line, this season, is unprecedented.

TRACEY WORSTED IN FIERCE BATTLE

man when she would return.

She was gone about two hours, it took so much time to put the jewels away and do a few chores that had escaped her memory. So when she returned the restaurant proprietor asked her what sort of ethics there was in her behavior. He was disgruntled because she let the vials cool. Wrath got the better of both, and he said she was a black something or other and she replied that he was just a little worse.

Tracey Got the Worst of It.

Then she went away and in a little time Rhodes strode in and demanded an explanation of Tracey. Tracey gave it to him, but it proved unsatisfactory, and he stood beside a table and hurled a pepper canister at the restaurant man. The vinegar cruelt followed that, and then a stream of Worcestershire sauce bottles, mustard bottles, oil cruets and the like darted through the air at Tracey.

The bombardment found him unprepared, and his head received several jolts. He told Mr. Lynch that he had a pistol behind the counter where he was but refrained from using it because Harvey Holmes, the notorious colored dive keeper, was in the way and he was afraid of shooting him.

Rhodes gave himself up to the police and has been in the county jail since Saturday night.

FLOURISHES RAZOR IN MRS. JONES' FAIR FACE

With Remark That He Might as Well Do It Then, Laurin Starts for Lady With Dire Intent.

Dr. Edgar Laurin, a white man, was arrested yesterday for flourishing a razor too near Mrs. E. C. Jones, proprietress of the Jeffrey lodging house at No. 26 East Park street. Why he did it no one seems to know; in fact Laurin himself does not know why he did it.

Mrs. Jones believes that Laurin would have carved her had she not screamed and attracted the attention of her husband and Dr. DeZelle, who captured Laurin, took the razor from him and turned him over to Policeman McGillie.

Dr. Laurin is said to be a confirmed user of morphine. It is also said that there are times when a small chunk of the poison looks good to him. It is not known whether he had any of the stuff yesterday. According to the story of the flourish, he appeared at the door of the room occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jones, in the back part of the lodging house, and seeing Mrs. Jones alone, drew his trusty blade and informed her that he might as well do it then as any other time. The remark was suggestive, and Mrs. Jones screamed. Mr. Jones and Dr. DeZelle, who were in another room, responded and soon had the wild man in tow.

It is believed that Dr. Laurin is demoralized, as he has been acting in a peculiar manner. When questioned concerning his actions yesterday, he pretended to know nothing about his doings. His mental condition may be the subject of investigation. In the meantime he will be held on a charge of assault in the second degree.

M'DONALD WILL SPEAK AT LABOR DAY MEETING

President of American Labor Union Has Accepted Invitation of Lewiston, Idaho, Trades Unions.

President Dan McDonald of the Western Labor Union has received many invitations from different towns to deliver the Labor day address. He has decided to speak at Lewiston, Idaho, on that day, and the people there are already making preparations for a big celebration.

"Lewiston is one of the strongest union towns in the West," said President McDonald this afternoon, "and the people sent me such an urgent invitation to speak there Labor day that I decided to accept. I got several invitations from mining camps in Colorado and from towns in several states, but I couldn't speak everywhere, so I thought it best to go to Lewiston."

Parade Meeting Tonight.

There will be a meeting of the Labor Day committee on arrangements tonight at the office of the Labor World to decide definitely on the plan of the parade. The games have all been arranged and the program is now complete except certain features of the parade and these will be discussed and acted on tonight.

A strike has been ordered throughout the country by the International Gold Beaters' union. The men are paid generally 4 1/2 cents a book of 25 leaves and make from $2 to $2.50 a day working piecework. The demand of the union is for 8 cents a book, or a weekly wage of $2.

GREAT NORTHERN SECURES CONTROL

RICH MINING DISTRICT IN STATE OF WASHINGTON THROWN OPEN TO THE WORLD.

Archie Gray, agent of the Great Northern, has received an official communication from the road officials at Marcus, Wash., saying that freight service has been inaugurated over the road that runs from Marcus, Wash., to Republic, Wash.

This means much to the smelters of Montana, as the ore that has hitherto been treated at Trail and other Canadian points, may now be shipped to Butte and other Montana points for treatment. The road runs a distance of 73 miles. It starts in Washington, runs through many rich mining camps, touches at points in British Columbia and then diverges again into Washington.

Heretofore, the road has been under the direction of the contractors and they saw to it that Canada smelters treated the ore; now, however, the Great Northern road assumes direct control and one of the richest mining sections in the northwest is thrown open to the world.

MARTIN'S ATTORNEY ASKS FOR NEW TRIAL

Morrin Is Before McClernan With Appeal for Another Hearing for Alleged Murderer of Williams.

James Martin, who was convicted of the murder of John R. Williams, was brought before Judge McClernan again this morning on an application for a new trial.

Attorney Morrin, representing Martin, asked the court for leave to amend the bill of exceptions before pleading to the motion for a new trial and the court set September 3 as the date for hearing the argument.

GOODS BELONG TO COUNTY ASSESSOR

DANIEL BROWN IDENTIFIES PORTION OF SWAG FOUND IN OLD GRIP YESTERDAY BY POLICE.

Daniel Brown, the county assessor, inspected the valuables today found in a telescope by Policeman McGillie yesterday and identified a portion of them as his property. Among the articles belonging to him was a 22-calibre revolver, a gold ring, one of the two watches in the collection, eleven solid silver teaspoons and six silver coffee spoons.

In all likelihood owners will be found for the entire lot. Mr. Brown's house was robbed five weeks ago today, and the fact that he lives in Quartz street west of Missoula gulch shows plainly that the burglars who robbed him live in the southern part of the city. They are probably the gentry that robbed many of the West Side residences about that time and a few in their own neighborhood, including that of Attorney Thomas A. Morrin, at No. 817 South Main street.

WORKINGMEN AT CONGRESS

Men Named Who Are to Go to Mining Congress Session.

The Workingmen's Union at its regular meeting Friday night appointed five delegates to the Mining congress. The delegates are: William Cunningham, Thomas King, R. A. Felkey, Mike McCormick, Hans Boe.

MCCLERNAN TRIES TO SOLVE RIDDLE

TWO DECISIONS COMING UP FROM JUSTICE COURTS LAID BEFORE THE DISTRICT JUDGE.

There were two of those funny justice shop cases up before Judge McClernan this morning. One was that of Attorney Michael Doolan against Dr. H. M. Hall—a suit for attorney's fees, amounting to $300.

Justice Nelson found a verdict for the attorney and the transcript showed that a portion of the judgment had been paid. The defendant then took an appeal and the plaintiff asked the court to dismiss the appeal on the ground that the sureties had not justified.

Judge Wilson appeared for the appellant, but the case was ruled out on a decision of the supreme court, which made it imperative that the sureties or bondsmen should qualify.

The other case came from Justice Arnold's court on an application for a writ of review. The case was one in which Davis & Weinsay sued J. H. Millis for a bill amounting to $46.32.

Attorney Hinkle represented the relators and H. Lowndes Maury appeared for Millis.

The court grew weary of the many transcript readings in which, in connection with the returns made, Justice Arnold avowed his non-responsibility for any errors made by his clerk.

Attorney Hinkle was expiating on the fact that the justice had taken the matter under advisement at 10:30 o'clock at night and the next morning sued on a motion to amend and at the same time rendered a judgment in favor of the plaintiff.

The legal point hinged on whether the justice had followed the statute which commands that a judgment shall be rendered forthwith.

"It is a fact, according to the transcript," said Attorney Hinkle, "that the justice took the matter under advisement and—"

"Well, I'll take the matter under advisement, too," interrupted the court—and the case went over.

session adjourned to meet again this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Officers to Be Elected.

Officers for the ensuing year will be elected and installed at this afternoon's session. It is impossible to tell how the election will result, but it is rumored that Vice Grand President Nicholas Combelick will be advanced to the position of president, while Secretary Peter Eddy and Treasurer Thomas Cadden will be re-elected.

There are six lodges of the order of the Sons of St. George in Montana, with a total membership of 1,200. The Butte and Centerville lodge is the banner lodge of the order and has 540 members.

The meeting of the grand lodge will last through today and tomorrow. There will be a morning session tomorrow at 10 o'clock and another in the afternoon. Routine business will be taken up at these sessions and the various committees will report on the progress of the order in Montana.

The meeting will close with a big banquet at the Finlen hotel tomorrow evening at 9 o'clock. The officers of the grand lodge expect an attendance of at least 300 members of the order at the banquet. It is safe to predict they will have a royal good time.
