TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1902.

A WORD WITH YOUNG MEN.

In a recent speech Senator Fairbanks of Indiana addressed himself particularly to the young men of the country who are just entering the political arena in that they are casting their first ballot. Not many years will pass until these same young men will be those who will be active in affairs and guiding the affairs of the nation. The fact was emphasized that the most sacred privilege of American citizenship is the elective franchise which is the heritage secured to all of the sons of the republic through the blood and sacrifice of our fathers. Not only is this elective franchise a privilege, but it should be regarded in the light of duty that demands to be intelligently discharged for the best interests of the country.

Young men who are about to step into the active participation of governmental politics owe it to their country to make a thorough and exhaustive study of the history of political parties that have played such prominent parts in the national affairs of our country. It will not serve the country to any great extent than a young man becomes a partisan because his father belonged to that organization. Such a follower will not have the intelligent and convincing force of the man who joins his party because he is convinced that it is right and just.

That party will gain most strength from the young men who have begun by considering governmental doctrines from a neutral standpoint and investigated them by means of the scientific method. Such converts will come into the ranks of the party with which they cast their lot, with a fullness of conviction that will radiate a force and influence that must contribute to their party's potentiality.

Considered dispassionately in this light we believe that it will be found by most young men that the republican party has thought well and acted wisely in the past. It has maintained an unswerving position grounded on sound politics which have always looked ahead to future growth and national prosperity.

Questions may have two sides, but only one of them can be right. As opposed to each other the democratic and republican parties are diametrically at variance. When the young man is investigating the history of these parties, let him not lose sight of this fact. Be it remembered that since the accession of the republican party to power the democrats have never failed to be on the wrong side of the question. A cat never fails to light on its feet, but the democratic party always drops wrong-side up. Here is a vital point for the young men to keep in mind.

Since the republican party has always kept on the right track in the forty years of its existence, than which there is no grander period in the history of any nation, it is reasonable to believe that it will continue so. The republican party has faced many crucial periods and never been compelled to retreat. Like a valiant general the republican party is always moving forward. It knows no facing to the rear. Its policies aim at progress and secure prosperity. They safeguard the nation's welfare by means of conservative statesmanship.

Young men of Montana as well as every other state in the union should join the forces of the republican party and do their part in carrying forward its great work. Dreary wastes and failure mark the course of democracy, while the path beaten by the onward march of republicanism is indicated by unparalleled achievements in the advancement and well-being of the American people.

FACTS FOR VOTERS.

Representative Otjen of Wisconsin has presented some facts that cannot fail to go straight home to every thinking voter. In a recent address to his constituents, he said that the productive energies of the people of the United States for 1901 amounted to $20,660,000,000. Of this great sum, $1,460,000,000 found its way into foreign markets, while the remainder, $19,200,000,000, was consumed in our home markets.

In other words, for every dollar of productive energy of our people that went abroad, more than $14 was expended here at home. Consequently good business sense would dictate a policy which will not in any way imperil the $14 market, and at the same time it should also seek to extend the $1 market by every known means, short of sacrificing our greater home market. Level-headed Americans—business men and workmen as well—are not likely to fall in with the tariff tinkering shouter, when they grasp the true significance of the situation in this light. A little time spent in sober reflection on such striking facts as these must convince all intelligent voters that a protective tariff is essential to a continuation of our present condition of prosperity and well being. The lesson of experience and its logical condition, demand that republican principles should be indicated at the polls for the preservation of peace and plenty, progress and prosperity.

In furtherance of this desirable end, the citizens of Montana should roll up a handsome republican majority next month.

C. J. Stevenson, republican candidate for the important office of justice of the peace, is worthy of the office to which he aspires. He is the personal candidate of no one and stands for honesty and integrity. He has lived in Silver Bow county for nearly twenty years, and during that period has been found to be an upright, honorable citizen. He is a stationary engineer and well fitted both by experience and education for the place.

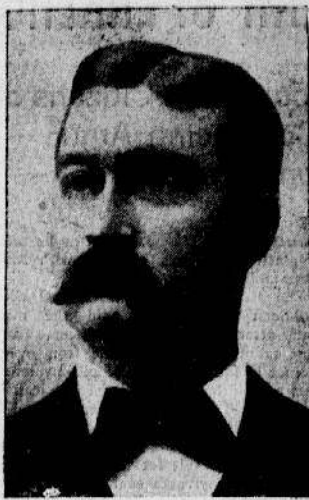

For county treasurer it is important that a man who is responsible and able to perform the duties should be secured. The people demand that their strong box be kept clean and safe. The republicans present the man for the place in the person of J. V. Long. He has lived in Butte for more than twenty-five years, and is much respected and honored. He is a man of good ability and in every way competent.

A Profound Secret.

[Flegende Blaetter.]

"I suppose your engagement to the baroness is still a secret?"
"Yes; only my most intimate creditors know it."

PEOPLE WE MEET.

THOMAS M'TAGUE.

COLONEL THOMAS M'TAGUE, the well-known and popular prison contractor of Deer Lodge, is in the city today shaking hands with his many friends.

Asked as to political matters in Powell county, Mr. M'Tague was non-committal as to the chances of the respective tickets. "I am a democrat," said the genial colonel, "and, of course, I am for the democrat local ticket, but I realize the fact that Powell county is close and that the republicans have put up a very strong ticket. For instance there are few more popular men in the state than Conrad Kohrs, candidate for the state senate, and the better he is known the more popular he is. The democrats have also a strong man for the same place, Mr. Ed Scharnikow, and the vote between these two will show the relative strength of the democratic and republican parties.

"No," said he in reply to a question, "we are not afflicted with any other party—the republicans and democrats will fight it out."

Mr. M'Tague is conservative in political affairs and as Powell county is a new county it is yet to be determined which party has the majority.

STATE BOARD OF MEN WHO AUDIT OUR BILLS

Examiners Meet in Helena and Put Out a Lot of the Money They Have Been Raking Up in Taxes.

[SPECIAL TO INTER MOUNTAIN.]

Helena, Oct. 21.—The state board of examiners met yesterday and allowed a large number of bills. The accounts of the contractors of the prison and insane asylum were large on account of the fact that five weeks had elapsed since the date of the first meeting of the examiners.

A bill of Dr. Peter F. Müssigbrod for $11,664.90 was ordered paid. The bill of Conley & M'Tague, state prison contractors, was allowed, but not ordered paid, owing to the fact that it cannot be met until the fund from which it is to be drawn has been replenished. The fund has been depleted during the past few months, and it is thought that the contractors will not be able to get their money for at least three months. A question has arisen as to what claim for interest the firm can make on the back bills. It is believed that this problem will have to be met by the incoming legislature.

THEY THINK MILLER IS LEADING THE RUSTLERS

Man Arrested in Livingston Is Said to Be Responsible for Cattle Stealing Done.

[SPECIAL TO INTER MOUNTAIN.]

Livingston, Oct. 21.—Lew Miller, who is believed to be the ringleader of a gang of cattle thieves operating in the upper Yellowstone valley, has been arrested by Sheriff Beley on a charge of cattle stealing. Miller was known to be in hiding in the timber around Rail creek, and a warrant for his arrest on a charge of misdemeanor was issued, the penalty being only $50. The ruse worked well, for Miller hearing of the charge and the light penalty, came in and gave himself up. When the case came up for hearing the charge was changed from that of misdemeanor to one of grand larceny, and Miller was up against it. He was bound over to the district court and his bond fixed at $2,000.

OUR NEW CRUISERS ARE NOT GOING TO BE FAST

Naval Board Thinks Speed Had Best Be Sacrificed to Armament in Ships to Be Built.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Oct. 21.—The naval board of construction has finally decided upon the features of the armored cruisers authorized by the last congress. Speed has been sacrificed in a measure to power. Chief Melville's proposition to have the ship 25,000 horse power and speed of 23 knots at a minimum was rejected and the horse power will stand at 23,000, which he estimates will actually bring the speed down to about 21½ knots.

The new boats therefore will be three and one-half slower than the famous English armored cruisers of the Drake class. To offset this lack of speed, the Tennessee class will have a much more powerful battery, namely four 10-inch guns in two turrets, against two 9-inch guns in the Tennessee class also will have more protection.

BRITISH SEND WARSHIPS

Mean to Find Out Why the Chinese Do Not Avenge Death of Missionaries.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Shanghai, Oct. 21.—Four British gunboats have been ordered from here to the Yangtze River, to Hankow, because of the failure of the Chinese authorities to deal with the murderer of Bruce and Lewis, the English missionaries who were killed.

It is said that the Chinese authorities are alarmed at Great Britain's step and that Prince Ching, president of the foreign office, will confer in the matter with Sir Ernest Satow, the British minister to China.

WHAT HAPPENED TWENTY-ONE YEARS AGO TODAY?

Why Just Read These Extracts From the Files of the Inter Mountain of That Date and Be Made Wise.

The centennial of the surrender of Cornwallis, which ended the American revolution, was celebrated amid great eclat at Yorktown, Va. The president and his cabinet reviewed the regular army which was commanded by General Hancock.

The Mississippi river has risen 13 inches during the last 24 hours. Two miles above Scott's Landing, Ill., the levee gave way and great torrents of water are flooding the country.

The house of representatives is busy considering speakership timber. A dozen different republicans are being considered. Among them are Butterworth, Calkins, Davis, Hoar, Houck, McCook and others.

Late advices report a damaging earthquake in the Hawaii islands on September 30.

Confederate bonds have come into demand. A Richmond banking house recently purchased $2,000,000 worth and other banks are taking up all that are available.

Memorial exercises for the late President Garfield were held in Tremont Temple, Boston, yesterday.

Hawarden Castle, where Gladstone is staying, has been protected against a threatened assault.

The treasury department has purchased 430,000 ounces of fine silver for the mint. The Butte real estate dealers report the market level at high prices.

Mr. Salton Cameron, who has just returned from the Cable mine with gold bar No. 8 from the Pyrenes mill, states that the property is in superb shape and that extraction of ore is going vigorously forward.

The Inter Mountain contains the business cards of Irvin and Waterbury, notaries public and accountant.

Frank W. Reynolds is registered at the St. Nicholas.

Addison Smith, a veteran editor of Deer Lodge, is visiting in Butte.

Amusements.

James Neill Coming.

"Under the Red Robe," in which James Neill and the splendid Neill company will appear in this city next Sunday evening at the Broadway, is a remarkable costume play, adapted by Edward E. Rose from the novel by the same name. The story is one of death, hazardous intrigue, love exposure and matrimony.

In the palmy days and olden, when Richieu held sway in the French empire, he forbade dueling, but Gil de Berault, a gambler and noted swordsman, could not follow the edict, but quarreled while at cards with one Sir Thomas Brunt, who falls a wounded victim of the sword of Gil de Berault, better known as the "Black Death." He is imprisoned, but at one time having saved the life of Richieu, the cardinal does not condemn the swashbuckler to death, but leniently sends him to a neighboring province on a most dangerous mission to obtain jewels and a desired prisoner. While on this mission a shaft from Cupid's quiver pierces his heart and causes him to set his prisoner free, as the latter is the brother of the woman he loves.

The advance sale for Mr. Neill's engagement in this city will commence next Tuesday morning at the box office.

"Pennsylvania."

A play revealing a set of some very quaint and other heroic characters derived from actual life in the mines adjacent to Wilkes-Barre, couched in language easy and often brilliant and witty, thrilling in strong dramatic climaxes and scenic sensations as intense as any ever seen even in this age of mechanical marvels—such is "Pennsylvania," the latest state-named play. It is the joint production of Daniel L. Hart of Wilkes-Barre, author of Dan Sully's success, "The Parish Priest," and C. E. Callahan, writer of the well-known "Fogg's Ferry," and "Coon Hollow."

"Pennsylvania" is bright and crisp in dialogue, and abounds in humorous and heroic characters, has some hair-raising climaxes and startling scenic sensations. One of these depicts the destruction of a coal mine by an explosion. Coal cars, a real elevator, miners at work with regulation lights on caps, and the introduction of specialties by the Eagle Quartet are features of this scene. "Pennsylvania" will be at the Broadway theater tonight and tomorrow night, with a special matinee on Wednesday.

It Is Their Busy Week.

Missoula, Oct. 21.—Frank Mordant of Butte has been received at the Northern Pacific hospital for treatment. John Connors of Ellensburg, Wash., is confined here with typhoid fever. Frank Durasse, who was injured about the head near Palouse, was also brought in yesterday.

Pushing Montana Railroad.

Lewistown, Oct. 21.—McShane, Elmore & Co., contractors for the Montana railroad, are in town with their railroad outfit, preparing to begin grading operations. A large number of sub-contracts work will be pushed as rapidly as possible in order to take advantage of the fine weather this fall.

A Creditable Magazine.

Missoula, Oct. 21.—The first number of the Kaimin, the state university magazine, has just made its appearance. It shows careful supervision and contains some very interesting articles. The present board of editors are hustlers, as the publication shows.

They Terrorized the Town.

Missoula, Oct. 21.—Pay day having been in order at Fort Missoula recently, there have been scenes of celebration in Missoula during the last few days. The boys in blue terrorized the city guardians of the peace and caused the people to keep on the jump. No serious damages were done and as the money is all gone, everything is quiet along the Missoula once more.

Will Improve Fort Missoula.

Missoula, Oct. 21.—The government contemplates making a number of improvements at Fort Missoula in the near future. This is one of the most desirable posts in the country and in all probability it will be made a permanent fort. When inspected recently by General Miles he was very well pleased with Fort Missoula and promised to give it his heartiest endorsement.

MANTLE ADDRESSES BIG CROWD IN DILLON

the republicans is to lift up the fair name of Montana from the rut of degradation and place it on the pinnacle of prosperity."

Here he paid a fine tribute to the gentlemen who are on the state ticket nominated by the republicans.

The speaker grew eloquent when he said that he did not believe there was a true democratic party in the state of Montana. There was, however, a political camp, divided into warring factions, which have seized the political machinery of Montana and are using it to promote the selfish aims of millionaire capitalists or corporations.

"The democratic party has descended to a party without an issue and no party like that can look for the support of honest people. It is only a matter of time until the bung-hole in the barrel is closed, and the source of inspiration will be dry, for even the fortunes of multi-millionaires have sometimes an end, and especially when the aim for which the Montana millionaires have been striving for has been gained.

"The republican party will insure a pure judiciary, a pure legislature, a pure administration of public affairs and will once more make the name of Montana respect at home and abroad."

As to Joe Dixon.

The speaker said he knew Joe Dixon personally and that he is an able man, there is no question. He said Montana needed a man in congress who would be in accord with the administration and one that could catch the speaker's eye and not be a nonentity in the halls of congress of whom nobody ever heard, or one who would have to be introduced by the doorkeeper, as it was a year or so ago.

"Send Joe Dixon to Washington, and not only every man in the house will know him, but he will become known all over the land." The speaker had not seen Edwards' name more than once or twice during the two years just past, and he doubted if there were 50 people in the house who knew the name of the representative from Montana.

Mr. Mantle made an earnest and winning appeal for Judge Holloway, paid a high character to his ability as a jurist and a man and refuted the silly stories mouthed by the democratic press in their denunciation of his indorsement by other parties and said the democrats should be the last to raise a cry of this kind, for they owed their place in Montana politics today to the various fusions which wrested the state government from the republicans six years ago. He said the populists and labor parties showed the only grain of sense they had ever shown in their careers when they indorsed Judge Holloway.

There Are Sixty-seven Varieties.

In enumerating the different brands of democracy in Montana, he said there were so many of them that he would have to read them. He could not remember them and this is the list that he read, and its reading caused great amusement in the audience: "Daily democrats, Clark democrats, Heinze democrats, independent democrats, Amalgamated democrats, Joe Toole democrats, social democrats, trust democrats, anti-trust democrats, democrats for revenue only and the real simon-pure, unwashed and unperfected democrats."

He said that a picture of interest is presented to the people of Montana, that of Clark and his ancient enemy, John Toole, sitting on a barrel smoking the pipe of peace together. Behind them stands Heinze with a stick of dynamite in one hand and a lighted match in the other and the earnest prayer of the republican party is that he would light the fuse before the 4th of November.

He Goes After Evans.

The speech which Judge Evans made in Dillon some short time ago came in for a raking over the coals and one that will be remembered by the Dillon audience which heard it for a considerable time. The part which Mr. Mantle went after was the assertion that the flag should be pulled down from the Philippines and that it would have been better for the country had Dewey, after destroying the Spanish fleet, turned his fleet towards San Francisco and let the Filipinos have their island in peace.

The speaker showed that if the flag was pulled down it would be a rebuke to the body of young men who, when the alarm of war was abroad in the land and the appeal for volunteers was made, offered their services here in Montana to the government—the first in all the land to arm and equip and say "we are ready to fight for that flag." If Dewey had sailed away, it would have violated that law of nations which says that a victor who destroys a government must maintain another government and protect the non-combatants.

They Will Grow Wiser.

He made the prediction that ten years from now a man could not be found who would or will admit that he wanted the flag torn from the Philippine islands or who will say he was ever opposed to expansion. This has been the history of every expansion of our nation and no one who has ever come under the folds of that starry banner has ever a desire to be taken from beneath its protection. It floats over the Philippines as a beacon light of humanity and will never be torn down.

The lamented President William McKinley came in for an eulogy and of him it was said that he changed the map of the world and he added a new era to his country. The mention of President Roosevelt's name set the audience wild and the assertion that no power this side the grave could keep Theodore Roosevelt from being our next president, elicited applause which fairly shook the building.

Other national issues he touched upon but lightly, saying that the tariff was a settled issue. The county republican ticket came in for a deservedly favorable mention.

After the speaking, an informal reception was held in the headquarters of the Beaverhead club and at midnight the former senator returned to his home in Butte.
