a sufficient indorsement that this china must be all right.

Besides our regular open-stock patterns, running in price from twenty-five to one hundred and fifty dollars, we have just received a large assortment of holiday pieces, such as berry sets, berry bowls, salad sets, chocolate sets, chop dishes, sugars and creamers, muffin dishes, bouillon cups, service plates, comports, olive shells, nappies, spoon trays, condensed creamers and many other pretty pieces. These are all new decorations and will not be found in other stores.

The prices of these goods you will find no higher than commoner patterns of French china.

Our clerks are always pleased to show this china and to explain how we give away a dinner set every three months.

BUT GIRLS WERE HORRIFIED WHEN THEY LEARNED WHO YOUNG CORBETT REALLY WAS.

Speaking of Corbett's rosy, chubby cheeks, reminds one of a story. A few years ago the writer was standing talking years ago the writer was standing talking to Corbett and a few others at the corner of Sixteenth and Curtice streets, Deuver, when a group of high school girls passed on the opposite side of the street.

They passed up, crossed the street and returned past where the group was talking. The little fellow in the immaculate white sweater and neat suit of gray had a special attraction for the young misses, and the glances they threw Corbett's way would have penetrated the heart of the most staid bachelor. Shortly afterward the narrator had oceasion to enter a drug store, and there the girls were, eyeing Corbett through a window. "Say," said one of the girls who was acquainted with the writer, "who is that cute little fellow?"

is that cute little fellow? "Do you want an introduction?"

"Well, wait till he gets away from the crwod and I will introduce you." Finally Corbett strolled down the street and was overtaken, by accident, of course. "This is Miss S-----, Mr. Rothwell."

Then the other fellow found occasion as early as possible to sneak.

The rosy-checked "Kid" and the blushing girl, who was overjoyed at "beating the other girls to it," strolled off on a side street. The next day the young lady had occasion to drop by again and of course thank the introducer.

the introducer.

"How did you like my friend?" she was asked.

"Oh, he's just the finest ever, so polished and so jolly. Tell me something about him."

"Well, that was Young Corbett, the fighter.
"Oh, mercy! a dirty old prizefighter!
What will mamma say? Why didn't you

"Wasn't he all right?"

"Wasn't he all right?"

"Well, yes, he was, and I don't care; he's a perfect little gentleman, and I thought he was a boy. Why, he isn't tough at all. I thought prizeighters were horridold ugly fellows. Now, don't tell anybody, will you?"

As she stared to leave, she remarked: "He's a cute kid, just the same, and I don't care what they say. There!"

Corbett had many good laughs over the incident, and the girls all envied the other because she had met and talked with Young Corbett.

SAYS JACK IS GAME

HARRY TUTHILL BELIEVES MINER WILL MAKE THEM ALL GO SOME IN HIS DAY.

Corbett for his bout with Hanlon, was behind Jack Munroe the night the latter met Peter Maher in Philadelphia. He tells a different story of the bout than that which appeared in a number of papers. Tuthill believes Munroe is a good man, and will make many of the big ones hit for the sage brush before he is put out of the game.

sage brush before he is put out of the game.

According to Tuthill, Munroe was boosted so high by the newspapers when he stood off Jeffries that the Eastern sports got the idea that Jack had the swelled head, so when he appeared in the ring with Maher they wanted to see him licked in a punch. While he was fighting the gang around the ring showed their hostility by yelling: "Knock his swelled head off, Peter." This so rattled Jack that he swung wild and fought like an old woman shooing ducks into the barnyard. "Munroe is one of the gamest men I ever saw in the ring," says Tuthill. "He stopped punches in the first round that would have put many good men to the bad. Maher landed a right square on the miner's chin, and the latter went right down on his head. He came right back, smiling, and for the next three rounds made it about as fast as a heavyweight can go."

CORBETT PLAYS BALL DURING HIS TRAINING

Young Corbett has been entertaining admirers with his favorite pastime, baseball, while training for his coming fight with Hanlon.

Sometimes the little fighter knocks out a few flies to the boys and then takes the field and chases high ones like a professional. "This trains the eye," said Corbett, recently, as he captured a long one. "And this leg work is the real thing. It keeps a fellow warm and takes a few drops of the brine out of him."

"You do not see any fat on him now," said he, admiringly, to a group of friends recently. "He has fought so often lately that he is in excellent shape and is only some five pounds off. He will get to the weight. The forfeit is too big to lose."

Corbett will do a little road work and lighter stunts and work out with his sparring partner, Billy Otts.

As a result of Mexican Pete Everett's rudeness in swatting Tom Tracey in Oklahoma territory, the two pugs have been bound over to the federal grand jury in the sum' of $1,000 cach. This is Uncle Sam's way of looking at prize fighting. In Colorado if you are a member of the militia, shoot your man, or club him over the head with a own-it's great sport. Then militia, shoot your man, or club him over the head with a gun—it's great sport. Then if you want to stand well in the com-munity in one of the abbreviated territo-ries of the union, get out your gun and settle the argument as quickly as possible, but if you wish to decide a question of su-periority of muscle, better get an airship and sail away from Uncle Sam's domain. Pete and Tom should have studied the so-cial ethics of Oklahoma before intruding their values meatices mon the culture and cial ethics of Oklahoma before intruding their vulgar practices upon the culture and refinement of that neck of the woods. They got just what they deserved. The idea of introducing such brutal practices into a community which boasts at least one killing a week in even the slowest bailiwick! The price of guns was threatened with a severe drop, and the merchants had to be protected and the sheriff given something to do.

Does Dick Lewis want to fight? If he Does Dick Lewis want to fight? If he does, he can be accommodated, for Jack Clifford is willing to meet him on the same conditions he proposes to any 135-pound man who wants a go. If Lewis will agree to fight Clifford the latter is willing to post a forfeit with the Inter Mountain at any time, and will sign articles, winner to take all, to either fight before a club as a principal match or go on as a preliminary to the Herrera-Long bout in Anaconda. Jim Jeffries has at last found something that can take his measure and beside drawing the color line on fighters he has put the ban on automobiling. Recently Jeff has been spinning about the boulevards of New York on the McCoyesque style. And Kid McCoy is to blame for Jeff's foolishness.

The Kid owns a spanking new auto, and when Jim saw him putting on "dog" with a bunch of howling swells it was too much, "What, this has-been sporting an auto an' me to the pedals. Well, I guess not."

So Jeff took a machine out for a spin. He liked it so well that he became a prominent figure on Fifth avenue. Then he began to figure out his chances in a mix-up with the machine and the result has been that he has decided to let Kid McCoy but the smashup if he wants to, but not for into a smaship if he wants to, but not for your Uncle Jimmy. "I would be a dead man in a few weeks if I stuck to the auto, and do not think I will ever own one. I still have championship aspirations, and so will cut out the auto," and Jeff has stuck to the trolley car and cabs since then.

REV. DR. MINOT SAVAGE OF NEW YORK ON TEACHINGS OF THE PHILOSOPHER.

New York, Dec. 15.—In a sermon on the life of the late Herbert Spencer, Dr. Minot Savage, in the Unitarian Chuch of the Messiah, has given the theory of evolution credit for having "forever destroyed intelligent belief on the part of anybody in the Garden of Eden, Adam, Eve, or the fall of man.
"Evolution," he said, "has forever removed those stories and kindred ones to the land of myth, where they belong."

In concluding his remarks Dr. Savage said.

"Humanity has been on this earth 200,000 or 300,000 years at least. Hu-manity, however, slowly has been evolving, nanity, however, slowly has been evolving, claiming from the far-off beginning there has never been a fall. Evolution has wrought out, not the fall of man, but the ascent of man. This means the complete reconstruction of the theory of Christendom. It is coming. It has got to come. There are thousands of the church in which the Eden story is rejected as though it was poetry or allegory. There are thousands of others where it is quietly laid to one side." laid to one side."
