

SOCIAL HEARTS.

received. The couple will reside on Eighth avenue.

Frank J. Kenck with his wife and four children left Helena Tuesday afternoon for the Bremen, Germany. They sail from New York on the steamship Lahn, Tuesday.

Mrs. T. J. Porter wishes to thank her many friends for the sympathy and assistance during her recent severe affliction.

The sale of cakes, mince meats, pies, etc., by the society of eighth avenue, entered into a fair sum, and many of the good things appeared on various Thanksgiving tables next day.

A dancing club, called the Newport, has been organized, and contains some of the best young men of the city. The first hop of the series will be given at Electric hall, Friday evening, Dec. 7.

The Sunday evening services of the Unitarian society will be resumed at the G. A. R. hall, commencing this evening. They will consist of a series of lectures upon "The Growth of Christianity."

Mrs. Wilson Redding, of Alhambra, sustained a fracture of her left arm above the elbow, last week. Dr. Holden, of this city, was called and reset the break and the patient is now doing nicely.

Miss Alice Bates, of Eighth avenue, entertained a few of her young friends at dinner Tuesday afternoon, those present being Sadie Merrill, Mina Hedge, Florence Knight, Veva Marks, Cora Reed and Della Mackay.

At Mrs. Rumley's there was a family gathering at the Thanksgiving table. Although some members of the family were absent, a pleasant time was had, those present being the families of Judge De Witt and J. G. Sanders.

The Wide Awakes have lost another member, P. F. Roosa, who left Wednesday for Lake. The club also gave him a banquet of six or seven courses at the Helena Cafe, wishing him in bumpers a prosperous and happy winter.

One of the pleasant dinner parties given Thursday was that by the Misses Wilson at their home on Fifth avenue. The guests were Misses Brooke and De Vore; Messrs. Keel, Sikes, Osborne, Coster, Morris, and Dr. Head.

Company C gave another of their popular balls, the eighth annual, at Electric hall, Wednesday evening. The company in their uniforms, and the large number present made a gay and lively scene, and all appeared to heartily enjoy themselves.

Miss Rockman, whose stay in Helena is welcomed by many friends, has several classes, of about four in a class, who are delighted to take lessons in physical culture, vocal technique, and the art of gesture from so well qualified and pleasant a teacher.

Among the departures over the Union Pacific were: Thomas Reynolds, for Oran, Cal.; J. R. Biddleman, Lincoln; T. Ott, Chicago; L. Sutton, H. Sutton, G. Sutton, St. Louis; S. E. Belles, Salt Lake; J. T. Ord, New York; B. Hart, Boston; C. F. Coughlin, Minneapolis; P. Quinn, San Francisco.

The Calumet club gave a complimentary party to Mr. Schott and his betrothed, Miss Boyer, Wednesday evening, at their hall, which was tastefully trimmed for the occasion. The ladies were all in beautiful evening dress, and the time was happily spent in dancing. Light refreshments were served, and the festivities kept up until a late hour.

Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. Hindson entertained in a charming manner some of the ladies of the O. E. S., those present being Mesdames Sturrock, Waite, Reed, Genzberger, Horsk, McGaughey, Weisenborn, Larkin, Misses Woodruff, Blackstone, Daisy Blackstone, Hopper, Donnelly, Frank, Buscher, Martine and Steadman.

The ladies of the Unitarian society gave a very pleasant social Tuesday evening in the G. A. R. hall. Light refreshments were served, and dancing was indulged in by some of the younger members. A general air of unusual sociability prevailed and the people left feeling that they would like to come again. The ladies expect to give these socials at intervals during the winter.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church announced that they will hold their annual supper and sale of fancy articles, Thursday, Dec. 13, in Fowles' old stand, on Broadway. The supper is always an enjoyable affair, and is a convenience to busy merchants, clerks and shopkeepers in this busy season. The cookery is celebrated, and the ladies have always had a large custom.

Some time after New Years, the Society of King's Daughters expect to give an Art Loan Exhibition. It is intended to have this one of the finest and most elegant collections of paintings, bric-a-brac, articles of vertu, etc., seen in the west. That these young ladies are taking heed of the movement is a sufficient guarantee of the elegance and beauty which will be seen at that time. The date and further particulars will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Bingham entertained the following guests at a Thanksgiving dinner: Messrs. and Mesdames M. Burns, Lewis, Ecklund, Watkins, Held, Connor, Clark, Mason, Minneapolis, Richards, of Unionville; Messrs. Fuchs, Bradley and Sullivan; Mesdames Penner, McNeal, Fretz, Andrew Fretz, and Miss Burns. The dinner was very elaborate, served in eight courses, afterwards dancing and music were in order.

The Helena High School Literary society held a meeting last Friday evening at which the study of Bryant was included. The debate, "Should Utah Be Admitted into the Union at Present?" was well argued, either side, and the judges after careful consideration rendered a decision in favor of the negative. The society will hold an open session on the 15th instant, at which the public are cordially invited to be present.

The ladies of St. Peter's Episcopal church expect to hold a doll fair on the 13th and 14th, at which time dolls, large and small, dresses in suits and uniforms, dolls cheap and dolls expensive, dolls to suit every taste and pocketbook will be for sale. It is to be held in the auditorium. In the afternoon an entertainment for children in the nature of a Punch and Judy show will be given, and in the evening something for the entertainment of the older people will be seen.

The Cavendish club met Friday afternoon with Mrs. Carter, the following members being present: Mesdames Balcock, Chadwick, Curtin, Tracy, Treacy, Kleinschmidt, Steele, Raleigh, Harwood, Henry Cannon. The places of those absent were filled by the guests, Mesdames Slich, W. J. Clark, Edgerton, O. Bradford. The first prize, a silver card case, was won by Mrs. Larsen, score 32; the second, a candy box filled with bonbons, by Mrs. Kleinschmidt, score 44. The usual refreshments were served.

A surprise party on Christie Lewis, of Phoenix avenue, last evening contained the following young people, who enjoyed themselves in the usual manner with games and dancing: Misses Clara Tietjen, Evelyn French, Agnes Flynn, Annie Gibson, Maggie McCaffrey, May Howard, Celia Wall, Minnie Malloy, Lydia Werth, Lydia Seefeld, May Montgomery, Mattie Cutler; Masters Elmer Whittley, George Holmes, Richard Howard, John Howard, Elmer Ray, Philip Beran, Willie Linnkhoe, Willie and Henry Lewis.

The Cincinnati Equivocal contains an account of a beautiful reception given by Mrs. Johnson Turpin Geard, of that city, in which Miss Maud Miller, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Barnard Brown, helped to give of pink and gold striped satin. The function was attended by a large number, among the names being that of Mrs. Maud Miller, who was the guest of honor. The announcement of the engagement of Mrs. Maud Miller to Mr. Arthur Stem, who is a cousin of Mr. Jesse Stoner, of this city.

Last Monday was the occasion of an enjoyable surprise party on John R. Bap-ty, the assayer of Braden Brothers' establishment. The evening was spent with music, cards, dancing and refreshments. Mr. Bapty was the recipient of numerous presents, among which were a gold head-umbrella, and an ornate chair. The party was composed of the following: Messrs. and Mesdames Higgins, Christman, Fisk, Waite, Little, Collins, Helmer; Misses Linda, Leinetta, Burns, Messrs. Morse, Clark, Cochran, Fitzgerald, Neffies and Brown.

A meeting of the Unity club was held in the parlors of Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, Monday evening, and an interesting discussion followed concerning the work for the ensuing year. The free lecture course which this club has carried on for the last two winters, and which the public has shown its appreciation of by a large and increasing attendance, it was unanimously decided to keep up, and the date for the first of the series will soon be announced. A committee of thirteen was appointed to determine the social action of the club for the winter.

An interesting programme was successfully carried out at the Oakes street M. E. church Thanksgiving night. Miss Maggie Smith read a paper on the "Origin of Thanksgiving." Miss Dora and George Elmer sang a duet; Misses Adams and Tietjen gave the duet, "Can You Tell Me, Pretty Birds;" quite a number of the children gave recitations; the Little Misses Englehorn rendered two duets on the cornet and clarinet; Miss Bertha Taft gave one of her best recitations and presided at the organ. The thank-offering was used in decorating the church.

G. W. Jackson has returned from a trip through the state, and wishes to announce to the Choral Union, that he is at home now permanently, and anxious to begin work in earnest. There is a great deal of musical talent in this city, and it ought to be the leading musical center of the state. It would be so, and be recognized as a musical power, if the majority of the musicians in the town would take hold of this movement. All the members are earnestly requested to meet as usual Monday evening at eight o'clock. Mrs. Hersey Thayer was here about the middle of the month to resume her place.

A happy wedding took place Thanksgiving night at which time Miss Beale Bosker and Knute Larson were made one. The ceremony took place at the home which they had been preparing at 535 Sixth avenue. The bride wore a dress of white cashmere, trimmed with moire ribbons; she wore a veil and carried white roses. She was attended by Miss Annie Fuhrman, in tan cloth trimmed in brown ribbons. The groom's best man was Louis Bousler. There were about twenty guests present. The groom gave the bride a faithful letter carrier, and he and his bride have the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

Married, Nov. 22, 1894, at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of thirty friends, Miss Ethel Bourne and J. M. Johnson, Rev. Dr. Thomas Cooper officiating. The bride was beautifully attired in cream white crepon silk, and she had been prepared at 535 Sixth avenue. The bride wore a dress of white cashmere, trimmed with moire ribbons. The groom's best man was Louis Bousler. There were about twenty guests present. The groom gave the bride a faithful letter carrier, and he and his bride have the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

Little Elaine Malinowski, who with her mother is visiting Mrs. C. P. Ellis, was given a birthday party Friday afternoon. The groom was attended by Miss Annie Fuhrman, in tan cloth trimmed in brown ribbons. The groom's best man was Louis Bousler. There were about twenty guests present.
