NO MONOPOLY OF BRAINS.

Hopeful Sign That Proves This the Age of Opportunity.

One of the most hopeful signs of the times is the apparent decay of the breed of so-called great men—those mighty personalities that in former times stood out like a solitary tree in a vast prairie. The reason for it, of course, is the distinction of all those old-time monopolies of brains which stunted all human beings except a few who, by chance rather than by superiority of fibre, grew and developed. There are thousands, literally thousands, of men now living who, if they had lived a century or so ago and had done a work similar to which they are doing without any very sonorous fanfare upon the trumpets of fame, would have been the talk of the world and the main topic of history. And how many of the so-called great achievements of so-called great statesmen, soldiers and thinkers of former times would be impossible to-day, because those achievements depended chiefly upon the ignorance and incapacity of the overwhelming mass of the men of their day!

Truly, this is the age of opportunity.—Saturday Evening Post.

How "All Men Are Born Equal."

The woman born beautiful doesn't bother to educate her intelligence, is spoiled by flattery, is unable to hold the men she attracts; the woman born homely is driven to develop her character and her mind, and so more than overcomes her handicap as against her pretty sister. The man born clever loses because he wins too easily and has no incentive to that sustained effort which alone achieves success; the man born "slow" develops patience, assiduity, balance and, best of all, tenacity.

It comes near to being a universal rule that strong points and weak ones just about offset each other in any human being at the start, and that the development is a matter for the man himself to determine. And there is no fatal handicap except the disposition to regard one's handicap as fatal.—Saturday Evening Post.

Mexican Statesman Entertained.

Vice President Ramon Corral of Mexico was the recipient of much social attention during his stay in San Francisco, where he stopped several days on his way home from the St. Louis fair. Senor Corral and his family were shown many places of interest in and about the city and appeared at a number of social functions, including a luncheon given by Admiral and Mrs. McCalla at the Mare Island navy yard.

FLINTS USED 10,000 B. C.

Discovery of Great Antiquity in Egyptian Excavations.

The season's harvest from Egyptian excavations is on view at University College, London, England. The chief interest is in Prof. Flinders Petrie's Sinaitic Peninsula excavations made in the turquoise mines of Wexmoag-hala and Sarabit el Khadem and the latter's temple.

The oldest monument group, the king of Mereskhia smiting a captive sheikh, is assigned to the first dynasty about 4,600 B. C. There are also sculptures and inscriptions which are assigned to 2500 B. C. An interesting feature of Sarabit el Khadem is the evidence that it was Semitic and not Egyptian worship which was practiced in the whole region. Scattered pilgrim shelters usually contained a bethel stone, some of which have Egyptian inscriptions. Here the pilgrims came for oracular dreams. This special feature of Semitic worship was quite unknown in Egypt.

The Temple of Sarabit el Khadem was originally the sacred cave of the Goddess Hathor. It must have existed in the Third Dynasty, nearly 7,000 years ago. One peculiar un-Egyptian feature of it was two small courts, each with a stone basin for purification. This characteristic feature of every Mohammedan mosque must have existed in Syrian worship fifteen centuries before Christ.

The discovery of the greatest antiquity is a collection of flints used by the Bedouins in working turquoise out of sandstone, which dates to 10,000 B. C.
