

Our Showing along Business Lines

THE STATESMAN is publishing free a business and professional men's guide. This is to inform the people and general public of the men and women who are in business and what they are doing and where they are located. Look over the list carefully and see if any one is omitted; if so notify us at once and their names will be inserted. Then if you have need of any service they can render call on them. Say you saw their names in the Business Directory of THE STATESMAN. As soon as the list is complete and verified it will be published on a large card and hung up in public places so that the general public may know where we are at.

The business columns of The Statesman are open to all for free discussion of industrial topics of local importance. If you are possessed of business knowledge that is practical and has been proven in Colorado, it is your duty to give it to give it to your fellow citizens. Men, minds and dollars are turned this way looking for an opening. What we want are facts demonstrated here in Denver and not a thousand miles away.

This column of business enterprises cannot be filled up all at once but will be arranged in alphabetical order. Each week new letters will be added to the list and all the business enterprises under the heading of those letters will be inserted. The names and location will be permanent so that all you need to do is to look at your paper to see who is in that column.

Not a Matchmaker.

Cardinal Manning used to tell the following story of his friend, Bishop Bramstone, who seems to have been a wit as well as an eminent ecclesiastic:

One day a member of his flock approached him—whether in earnest or not does not appear—with the remark that he wanted a wife, and he added the usual modest conditions that she must be young, rich and pretty.

The bishop answered him upon the instant.

"You are mistaken," said he. "My name is Bramstone, not Brimstone. I do not make matches."

Always Staunched And True

The Denver Republican has always avoided the fallacies and knaveries of yellow journalism, and its steadily increasing Circulation proves conclusively that its policy of telling the plain Truth without exaggeration or misrepresentation, standing fast for the Right, is heartily approved with growing force by the intelligent Public to which it appeals.

To read it is a liberal Education, and the citizen who goes without it does a positive harm to himself, to his family, and to the community.

In no other way can the investment of 2½ cents per day—for that is all The Republican costs any subscriber—bring such rich results in that Knowledge which is both Power and Pleasure.

Information, instruction and entertainment fill its columns and it leaves a good taste in the mouth of the reader.

It stands for Law and Order in the State—for Peace, Prosperity and Happiness in the Home.

If you are not already enrolled among its splendid list of Patrons send on your subscription and give it a fair trial at 75 cents per month for Daily and Sunday.
