Miss Clark is now making this her special work, and in this community where she has been so long and favorably known, it is unnecessary to say that she has earned qualifications for this work. IMPORTANT TO HUSBANDS, EXECUTORS, ETC.—Under the internal revenue law, all property passing by will or by the intestate laws of any State, in hands of the deceased persons, and all real estate passing by him, or in his name, whatever, without adequate compensation, from one person or corporation to another, is subject to a tax at a rate ranging from 4 to 10 per cent, and the law makes it the duty of the executors or administrators to make out and render to the assistant assessor having supervision of such business, a complete list of all legacies or distributive shares held by him, before the same shall be paid or delivered to the heirs; and of any person succeeding to any real estate in any manner as above stated, to make return thereof to the assistant assessor in the manner prescribed by law. Any neglect of the part of a testator to make the return, will subject the property to an increased assessment, and himself to a fine. It is also important to parties purchasing property belonging to the estate of a deceased person, to see that the heirs or persons of whom the purchase is made, have the collector's receipt for the government tax, as the government has a lien upon such property for all taxes due.

—The admirable feature of Harper's Magazine is the publication of illustrated articles on travel, science, biography, history, etc., several appearing in each number. The engravings are all most excellently well executed, and they impart nearly as much information and entertainment to the reader as the letter press, as they present to the eye correct delineations of scenery, costumes, persons, &c. A few pictures often give a better conception of the subjects treated than volumes of description could. This feature is conspicuous in the September number, just received. The articles thus popularized are Photographs from the High Rockies, the Eye and the Camera, Border Renaissance, a Health Trip to Brazil, and Latin Words, the latter being a treatise on quælls. An Author's Magazine of Authors, is a delightful paper, abounding in reminiscences of distinguished English authors. There is, besides, the usual amount of attractive notices and miscellaneous matter.

—THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY for September contains several articles of striking merit, among which may be named, "A Lone Woman's Trip to Omaha and beyond," "Confidence and the Chinese," "the Proves of Asia," "Leaving at Woods Hole," &c.

—This most attractive article, however, in this number, and one which will be read most fully in this country but in Europe, is an original masterpiece by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, entitled "The True Story of Lady Byron's Life." It purports to give facts and incidents never before published, relative to the marriage and divorce, the long separation of Lord Byron and his wife. She, too, minutely vindicates the character of Lady Byron, also gives the reason of her removal to Europe, and traces the early history of the separation, again and again. Mrs. Stowe, with her personal and intimate acquaintance with Lady Byron, can claim entire possession of the evidence she gives, in a measure to warrant their authenticity, and with the knowledge of Lady Byron herself.

—Whisky Room.—An individual, the other day went to one of the drug stores in Boston, and called for a pint of whisky, claiming that he wanted it for a pain-killer for his rheumatism. He claimed to be highly and immediately raised the price, and told him a green person does not deserve to be charged for drugs. The drug-store remonstrated with the customer for his impudent language, and told him that he was bound to supply the cost of his leg in the first instance. Providence Journal.

—The above paragraph conveys a lesson that very many ought to heed. It would be well, if we all have a little afraid of getting old, now, as we are. What makes your nose so thin? You must not have wasted them well. This rock "looks me down" considerably. I rather think myself on finding the nose as well as winter, I had been for several weeks feeding them named position and a little overfed, and because this, their position is capital. In fact, I have a little afraid of getting old, now, as we are.
