Nashville Union.

SUNDAY MORNING, SEPT. 7, 1862

Arrivals.

We have had a number of distinguished military arrivals in the city within the last ten days. General THOMAS and General SMITH reached here yesterday. The gallant General CRITTENDEN, of Kentucky, is also encamped a few miles from the city. General MCCOOK's division is also here.

A Piece of News for Rebels.

Perhaps our rebel friends would like to hear a scrap of news. Listen then and we will give it to you. We will hold Nashville certainly, until we are whipped out; and when we do leave, nothing of this city will remain but bare walls, and those in very bad order. Nashville is ours—the property of the loyal people, and before we surrender it to the dominion of a pack of God-forsaken traitors, the site of this city, all strewn with ashes, cinders, and blood, shall tell how terribly freemen have withstood tyranny.

We learn that a few guerrillas and a number of the citizens of Tullahoma horned the hospitals, and the dwellings of a number of Union men thereabouts. These scoundrels should be promptly punished.

The country can easily get along without the rebels, but we don't believe the devil can; therefore "give the devil his due."

Men have the privilege to be loyal and be protected, or be disloyal and be ruined. Protection and treason must not go together.

Better destroy all the rebels in the South than destroy our country, and suffer ourselves to become the slaves of a remorseless despotism.

Impudent.

A party of guerrillas, it is said, captured 170 horses belonging to the Government, on yesterday morning in a pasture within seven miles of the city. We are inclined to believe that the guerrillas were citizen thieves of the neighborhood, who are now at home, and would swear they had "never done anything."

Officers of the various divisions now in this city, confirm, we learn, the statement that FORREST's band of thieves and assassins were cut to pieces and totally dispersed, in his recent encounters with our troops. The miserable ruffian, vagabond and scoundrel had now better go and hang himself. He has brought many a foolish young man, to a wretched end. Die, FORREST, and go home to the devil.

TUTTLE's Comet has played out—it is like the long-lost Pleiad, non est inventus, among the bright inhabitants of the azure realm of glory. We believe that this is TUTTLE's first appearance on the stage, and for his maiden effort he deserves great praise. When you hunt your comet around again, TUTTLE, sew on a larger tail, and polish it up regardless of expense, and you'll be bound to shine—to sparkle—to corruscate. Good bye, TUTTLE!

Safe-Guards.

We are told, on the highest authority, that men in this vicinity who have been very active ring-leaders in this damnable rebellion, have safe-guards exempting them from all impressments, visits of foraging parties, etc., while persons far less influential and Union men are stripped of all their surplus provender. If there is the least discretion or judgment in such a policy we are unable to see it. It is repugnant to any dictate of justice and common sense. Some of our officers seem to desire to prolong the rebellion and encourage traitors. None but loyal men should ever have safe-guards.

Parson Brownlow, in a recent speech, characterized John Slidell as "the last cut of original sin."—Exchange.

Mistaken Parson, for once. We solemnly aver that HUMPHREY MARSHALL is entitled to that appellation.

A curious theory advanced in Mr. T. B. Aldrich's book "Out of His Head," is confirmed by the case of an Englishman named Burton, who murdered a boy of nine years old at Chatham, and immediately surrendered himself, avowing that he had long wished to be hanged, and that this morbid desire was the sole motive for the crime.

This "curious theory" may account for the conduct of the rebels.

My school will assemble in the basement of the Baptist (Dr. HOWELL's) Church to-morrow (Monday) morning, at 9 o'clock. R. DORMAN.

Sep7—1t*

We are indebted to Adams Express office for late Cincinnati papers.

The Hon. Joshua F. Bell, of Danville, has been captured by Morgan and his band, and for purpose of parole executed a bond of $10,000, conditioned that he should be exchanged for James Adams. We have fears, from the action of the legislature yesterday, that no such covenants will be accepted by our authorities. —Louisville Journal.

Lord Chancellor Northington suffered much from the gout; and once, after some painful waddling between the woolsack and the bar in the House of Lords, he was heard to mutter: "If I had known what these legs were one day to carry a Chancellor, I'd have taken better care of them when I was a lad."

TO OUR READERS.

Until telegraphic communication is resumed between Louisville and this city, we purpose issuing every day, at twelve o'clock, an EXTRA, containing all the Despatches and War News published in the Louisville papers, as well as an account of all Military Movements in Tennessee that may reach us up to the hour of going to press.

Can be had at this office, or of the newsboys, at five cents each.

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, NASHVILLE.—In accordance with the Special Order of Col MILLER, appropriating the Second Presbyterian Church a Post Chapel under the direction and control of the loyal members, all officers and soldiers of the United States, all strangers who may happen to be in the city, as well as the citizens of Nashville, are cordially invited to attend Divine service at said Church.

Preaching this morning at 10½ o'clock, A. M., by Rev. R. A. DRAKE, Chaplain of the 7th Pennsylvania Cavalry.

Correction.

In our issue of the 3d inst. we published an account of an attack made by the guerrillas recently on the upward bound train near Reynold's Station. The account was handed to the foreman of the office, and was published as it was written. We are satisfied from undoubted authority that it did gross injustice to Capt. HAYDEN of the 19th Illinois, a young officer who behaved very gallantly and skillfully on the occasion. Our foreman supposed that the one who handed in the manuscript was Capt. BREWSTER, but that officer denies the authorship. We are satisfied that the account published was unjust to Capt. HAYDEN as well as incorrect in other particulars, and it is the duty of the author to retract his statement and do justice to the injured party.

Nearly Dead.

We think we can see in the very desperation and recklessness with which the Rebels are fighting in Virginia, a strong evidence that the leaders of the Rebellion feel that their hope is now or never. It is their forlorn hope, and the thought maddens them. If they are defeated, the halter or banishment awaits them as the penalty of their crimes. Friends of the Union and free government, take fresh courage in the very roar of battle and the melancholy flow of carnage. The God of Battles will not desert us now. He will not let this infamous rebellion triumph. The very "stars in their course roll against Sisera."

Immense Army

We learn by reliable persons from Louisville that there were over twenty-five thousand troops from the North of the Ohio, of the new levy, camped in that vicinity, and are now probably on their way to meet KIRBY SMITH. It is not at all likely that he will ever get out of Kentucky. He is in a trap where even precipitate retreat will not be likely to save him.

Resistance to a moving Projectile.

It is difficult for an inexperienced person to conceive of the effect of even a light wind upon so small an object as a rifle ball, when shot from the gun. The difficulty arises from the impossibility of taking in the idea of such rapid flight, or of the resistance produced by it, by comparison with anything within the limits of our experience. We may attain a conception of it, however, by trying to move a stick through the water. Moving it slowly, the resistance is imperceptible; but as we increase the velocity, we find the difficulty to increase very rapidly, and if we try to strike a quick blow through the water, we find the resistance so enormous that the effect is almost paralyzed. Mathematically the resistance increases in the ratio of the square of the velocity, and although the air is of course more easily displaced than water, the same rule applies to it, and the flight of a ball is so inconceivably rapid that the resistance becomes enormous.

The average initial velocity of a cannon or rifle ball is sixteen hundred feet in a second, and a 12-pound round-shot moving at this rate, encounters an atmospheric resistance of nearly two hundred pounds or more than sixteen times its own weight. Perhaps a clear idea may be attained by the statement of the fact, that, were it possible to remove this resistance, or, in other words to fire a ball in a vacuum, it would fly ten miles in a second—the same time it now requires to move sixteen hundred feet. Bearing in mind this enormous resistance, it will be more readily apparent that even a slight motion of the element through which the ball is struggling must influence its course. For this reason it is that the best time to shoot, as a general rule, is in the morning or evening, when the air is most apt to be perfectly calm. It will often be found, after making very satisfactory shots at sunrise, that by ten o'clock, even on what would be called a calm day, it is impossible to attain to anything like the accuracy with which the day's work was begun; and, owing to the irregular motion of the air, the difficulty cannot be overcome, except to a limited degree, by making allowance for it.

THE REBEL RAID UPON UNIONTOWN.—We learn from Col. C. C. Green, who has just arrived from Henderson, that a rebel force of eight hundred cavalry appeared at Uniontown, Ky., on Sunday last and routed the handfull of Indiana troops who had been detailed to guard the place, killing and wounding a number and taking all their arms and ammunition. They then took possession of one hundred and forty-three bales of cotton, which had been shipped on the steamer Exchange for Cincinnati, and which belonged to parties in Cincinnati, destroying the entire cargo. On Monday a force of five hundred infantry left Evansville for Uniontown, and it was their design to give the rebels battle.

A despatch from Washington informs us that Gen. Mitchell is to take command at Hilton Head vice Hunter.

Lesson from History—Secession.

From the St. Louis Democrat.

At the death of Solomon, Rehoboam succeeded, and certain ambitious persons availed themselves of the opportunity to foster discontent and strife. They anticipated trouble and oppression, and stirred up Ten Tribes to rebellion. Not receiving a satisfactory answer from the King, they cried out, "What a portion have we in David? To your tents, O Israel! Now see to thine own house, David!" So Israel departed to their tents; that is, appealed to the sword.—Under advice of a prophet, Rehoboam, after gathering an army, determined "to let them alone," and the new confederacy or kingdom was established. Now mark the result.

First—For two hundred years there was almost uninterrupted war between Judah and Israel. Foreign nations were invited to take part, all the usual complications of rights and interests were created, and war, of the most destructive kind, was the daily life of the people for two centuries. At the end of that time Israel was subjugated by Assyria, and her people taken into captivity.

Second result.—The seceding tribes were not only utterly ruined, but at last their national existence was destroyed. They are now known as "the lost tribes of Israel," for they were blotted out from the earth, and their territory was colonized by their destroyers. "Having renounced the inheritance of their fathers, there was no further use for them in history.

The remaining tribes loyal to their king and faithful to the law of Moses, become the nation; and through all the vicissitudes of time has continued as the nation of the Jews (Judah), and has been the only means by which the name of Israel is kept from perishing.

So much for secession, when let alone, and such are its legitimate consequences. A like history will belong to us, if the Southern Confederacy succeeds, and a like destruction to the Slave States. A "seven years" war would be better than that, and the more active it is prosecuted the better for all parties will it be. A parricidal war like the present cannot be compromised nor settled by soft words. Nothing but downright earnestness will avail to save us from a future of untold suffering.

The following from the N. Y. Express is tart but then it is true:

Noteworthy.

A class of Southrons are so exclusive or "stuck up" as our friend Jonathan Slick used to say, as to regard themselves the finest porcelain of the earth, and all else as but the poorest of potter's clay. Where they were not Huguenots fleeing from persecution of Kings and Nobles, they were lordly and highbred Cavaliers, as much above Puritans, Saxons and Celts, as the Knights of King Charles' day were superior to the followers of the Pretender. Some silly people may believe, that these difference of cast have led or contributed to the Rebellion, but when we remember that the worst Rebels are from our Yankee cousins, who long ago emigrated to the South, in order to get rich there, the folly of this pretension is almost supreme. Let us look a little, and ask, who is Slidell? A renegade New Yorker. Eustis, his Secretary of Legation, is a renegade from Massachusetts, and son-in-law of Corcoran, a Washington banker, of Irish origin. Quitman, one of the earliest and most active stimulators of the rebel policy, was another New Yorker. Gustavus H. Smith, late Street Commissioner in this city, is one of the best of their Major-Generals. Albert Pike is renegade from New England. General Ripley, in command at Charleston, a renegade native of Ohio. Stonewall Jackson is a son-in-law of Rev Dr. Junkin, an able and inflexible Union man of Pennsylvania. Mason has family connections in Philadelphia, as have thousands of the leading secession families here, and elsewhere in the North. General Ruggles, lately killed near Baton Rouge, on the Mississippi, in the rebel service, was born in Massachusetts. Captain Tatnall, of the Savannah and Port Royal mosquito fleet first, and afterwards of the rebel Merrimac, is of Northern birth. The senior proprietor of the Charleston Courier, recently deceased, was a Northern man. The senior editor and proprietor of the New Orleans Commercial Bulletin, recently suspended by General Butler, is a Northern man. So are Kendall and Walker, of the New Orleans Picayune. We give these names, as we might others equally conspicuous, in order to show what a sham this Cavalier pretension of superiority is. Why, the soul of the F. F. V's, the mothers of Virginia dames, had their origin in just the cost of so many pounds of bad tobacco, and are just as good as "all the world and the rest of mankind," and not a bit better.

AMUSING DECEPTION.—Considerable amusement was caused in the Canadian Court of the International Exhibition the other day by one of the attendants. This man, who possesses a gravity strange to see, and a command over his facial muscles which would make his fortune on the stage, stationed himself on one of the raised platforms and struck an easy attitude. Espied by a few ladies, who believed him to be a wax figure, there was soon a crowd gathered, and speculation commenced as to whether the figure was that of a man, or the handiwork of the Messrs. Tussaud. For full fifteen minutes did he stand, making at intervals of a minute, what volunteers and recruits know as a half face. He was jeered at, laughed at, his clothes pulled, but yet he neither winked, smiled, nor otherwise showed that he was alive. The performance was wonderful, people began remarking that the wax-work was beyond conception an excellent imitation; even this did not upset his gravity. At length one of the spectators, more audacious than his neighbors, moved a wheel against which the figure rested. This was too much—the facts became manifest, and if No. 4 attendant in the Colonial Department did not rejoice during the remainder of the day in all kinds of good cheer, it was not for lack of invitations.

THE POSITION OF THE REBELS IN KENTUCKY.—Kirby Smith's forces are said to have been posted yesterday at Lexington, Versailles, and Georgetown, which gives them a triangular attitude, looking toward Frankfort on one side and Paris on the other. The position is a good one for an advance upon either Cincinnati or Louisville.

A Major belonging to Gen. Veach's staff was shot dead by a sentry in Memphis a few days ago. He did not obey the order to halt, and was fired upon, falling dead from his horse.

In a suit before G. M. Southgate, a Justice of the Peace for Davidson County, Tennessee.

The plaintiffs, Nixon, Chatfield & Woods, in the action having obtained an Attachment against the defendant, J. O. Alexander, and issued to Constable John D. Gower, and returned by him, levied on sundry articles of furniture belonging to the defendant; and on motion of plaintiffs, by counsel, it appearing to the satisfaction of said Justice, that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Tennessee. It is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in a newspaper published in the city of Nashville called the "Union," warning the defendant to appear before said Justice on the 11th day of September, 1862, and plead, answer, or demur to said attachment, otherwise the cause will be set down for trial ex parte on that day.

TENNESSEE BRANCH OF THE
NATIONAL CLAIM AGENCY

CONDUCTED BY
HARVEY, COLLINS & BEACH,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

CHARLES H. GREEN, Agent,
No. 38, Cherry Street, Nashville, Tenn

THIS AGENCY possesses peculiar facilities for the successful prosecution and collection of Claims against the General Government of EVERY DESCRIPTION, its conductors having had several years' experience in the management of claims before Congress, the Court of Claims, and the Executive Departments at Washington, and being thoroughly acquainted and familiar with its laws and regulations governing their adjustment.

Particular attention will be given to cases arising out of the present war, including the accounts of States, Companies, and Individuals, Officers of the War and Navy Departments, and for "Collecting, Drilling, and Organizing Volunteers," the volunteer corps of which is entitled to pay as act of Congress CLAIMS FOR INDEMNITY FOR PRIVATE PROPERTY TAKEN FOR PUBLIC USES, OR FOR DAMAGES TO SUCH PROPERTY, for forage lost in the service, and the Military Pay, Pensions, and Bounty Land.

We give special attention to procuring Pensions, Bounties, etc., accruing to Soldiers who have been wounded, contracted disease, or the families of such as have died, or been killed while in the discharge of their line of duty as such during the present war.

Special care will also be given to claims which have been heretofore Rejected or Suspended by the Departments or Inefficiently Managed.

Prompt attention also given to the collection of Quartermaster's Receipts given for Property taken for the use of the Army, to arranging Accounts with and collecting Claims against the Quartermaster's Department.

All claims placed in our hands receive our Closest Personal Attention, thereby securing many which, in the hands of an Attorney at any distant point, frequently prove unsuccessful.

Aside from this decided advantage, our daily intercourse with all the Departments enables us in most cases to obtain decisions much more speedily than where all communication and other necessary detail must be conducted through the mails.

To this end, we solicit you to forward us any or all cases of such character you may from time to time have presented, and, as in our business, we will furnish you with all the necessary blanks, and, when required, instructions.

No charge made in any case unless successful.
