A SERIES OF RINGS.

WHATEVER ON RECORD.

In his "Common-Place Book" the late Archbishop Whately records the following legend...

RINGS.

Epitaphs are the freaks of fashion in dress as personal ornaments, and have been able to work the change in the habit of wearing rings...

As for the still more mysterious and pre-historic magic ring, we afterwards find, in the sacred records of Pharaoh's ring, and that used by priests at Babylon, and Hieroglyphs...

One more story will be mentioned in a year when everything turns to Shakespeare's honor—Nellie's ring—

The Roman rings were at first always of iron, but strictly for use, but increasing luxury corrupted the primitive feeling...

Rings play an important part in many oriental legends, especially Solomon's ring, which miraculously reflected the reflections...

There is a story told of a man who carried a ring which had no fond memory clinging to it? The whole life-history of two souls is compassed in the wedding-ring...
