The last Legislature was unanimously Democratic, however, and, in consequence of the unequal representation, the next will probably be controlled by the Democrats, and a Democrat elected to succeed Senator Willard Saulsbury. Mr. Biggs, in accepting the Democratic nomination for Congress, gave utterance to the following exalted sentiments: -

"In the presence of this people and Almighty God, I declare the diffeenth amendment a monstrons fraud. Hear, O earth! and give ear, O heavens! in the Senate of the United States sits a dirty, thieving nigger preacher."

The vote for Governor in 1868 was 64,901 for Warmouth, Republican; 38,046 for Taliaferro, Democrat, and 3590 scattering. It is safest to give the Democrats all the Congres-Sonal districts except the Second, a loss of two mbers to the Republicans and a gain of four to the Democrats by the filling of the vacancies. In the last Legislature there was a Republican majority of 61 on joint ballot, but this will doubtless be swallowed up, and a Democrat elected to succeed Senator John S. Harris, whose term expires March 4, 1871. Louisiana is also to vote upon four proposed mendments to its State Constitution. The first makes defaulters of public moneys ineligible to office: the second takes from convicted criminals the right of suffrage and the right to hold office; the third strikes from the Constitution the section declaring that a governor shall be ineligible for the succeeding four years after the expiration of his term of ffice; and the fourth declares that the State debt shall no . xcced $25,000,000 pr or to the year 1890.
