When the doors of Part I. of the Su preme Court were opened this morning fore the Lexow Police Investigating

Capt. Jacob Siebert and his ward men, Patrick Brennan and Patrick Farrell, of the Union Market station, were already on hand, anxious to go upor the witness-stand and deny the state ments made yesterday by Mrs. Lene Cohen, who says she paid the detectiver to keep a house of ill-fame in Eas Houston street, and that the Captain gave her permission to reopen after her first arrest if she would run the place quietly and look out for Parkhurst de-

Has a Captain Weakened?

There were also rumors floating about that a certain Captain had weakened and was going to voluntarily appear before the Committee and testify as to what he knew of the biackmailing system established by the police authoriles, and that his testimony would be the most sensational in its character that had ever been given in any investigation.

Report connected this rumor with the name of Capt. James K. Price, of the name of Capt. James K. Price, of the said to have been at odds with the authorities at Police Headquarters for some time past, and that now he is on the point of resigning his position and retiring from the force. This, however, could not be confirmed this morning, and the counsel for the Committee say that they have no knowledge of any Police Captain who is willing or likely to testify against the Department, even to secure immunity for himself.

In response to a summons sent out this morning by Supt. Byrnes all the police captains and the three Inspectors in the city appeared before him at il o'clock. It is not known for what purpose they were summoned, but it was probably to receive some verbal instructions with regard to their conduct in their precincts as summoned by Byrnes.

There is little probability that the police luvestigation into the charges of blackmail and corruption made by wittenesses before the Lexow Committee against members of the Department will be commenced at once, although that was the intention when the resolution was adopted by the Police Commission—resolution and once although that was the intention when the resolution was adopted by the Police Commission—resolution on the point of resigning his position and retiring from the force. This, however, could not be confirmed this morning, and the three Inspectors in the city appeared before him at it is not known for what pur

I wish to say that I have read the testimony of Mr. and Mrs. Thurow as printed in the newspapers, and that that testimony so far as it relates to the payment of any money to me or for my use for the purpose of securing police protection or for the use of the Tammany Club of my district, is false and untrue.

The $100 Was His Fee.

"I told her I was a lawyer, and she must pay me $100 if she wanted to consult me. She took out the money and laid it on the table. Mr. Roesch produced his ledger, and although there was no date affixed, the entry was: "Mrs. Thurow, $100-legal services." The witness explained that he sometimes did not put down dates. I received the money as a retaining fee as a lawyer. No money was ever sent to the Club, and no other money was ever paid to me by Mrs. Thurow. "I don't see in v hat respect your story differs from that toid by Mrs. Thurow," said Senator O'Connor, who had come in and had listened attentively to Mr. Roesch's testimony. "Besides I was charged with taking her money to secure police protection, which I deny. I only took it to protect her interests as a lawyer."

"No, I didn't accept it for any such purpose."

"Did she tell you how she had paid money to Hoch?" asked Mr. Goff.

"Never saidsa word about Hoch; it was all about Capt. Doberty."

"You mean to say that as the leader of the Tammany organization of your district you could not afford to take money from a woman like Mrs. Thurow for protecting her interests, but as George F. Roesch, a lawyer, you could?"

Mr. Goff presented Senator Bradley with a pink rosebud, which the latter smilingly accepted and placed in his buttoanhole. "Jimmy" Oliver, "Johnnie" Brodsky and "Fatty" Walsh were in the court-room.

Ex-Judge Ransom began the proceedings by presenting a letter from Capt. Chairman Lexow said he did not understand that the Captain was at all implicated in any blackmail by the testimony of the witness in question, and that a denial from the Captain was not necessary.

According to Drs. Masten and White. who are attending both the victims of the shooting, Mrs. Buret will recover. Her husband's case, however, is critical Neither of the bullets had been extracted up to noon to-day.

This morning Mrs. Buret was able to tell House Surgeon Masten the circumstances which led to the shooting. Her story is that she has been separated from her husband for the last three weeks and has been living at home with er mother, Mrs. Enders, and a married sister, on De Mott street, near Durham venue, within a few hundred feet of the scene of the shooting.

Yesterday, she says, Buret came to the house and asked her to go to New York with him, promising to buy her a new dress. The prospect of new finery proved soo much for the young wife, and leaving their one-year-old baby girl with her band. The couple spent the atternoon shopping on Fourteenth street, and in the evening went to a restaurant, where Buret ordered an elaborate supper.

Mrs. Buret says that they started for Hoboken about 9 o'clock and arrived in the neighborhood of her mother's home shortly herore 10.

The wife says that as they neared the house her husband made a pretense of any while his left arm.

The wife says that as they neared the house her husband made a pretense of embracing her, and while his left arm encircled her neck, he drew a revolver from his pocket and began firing. mother's house.

Buret turned and walked to the corner of De Mott street and Durham avenue, where he placed his weapon to his right temple and fired. He stagered nearly to the middle of the street before he fell.

He was found there an hour later by three young men who were returning from an entertainment. The streets in the vicinity are almost deserted at night, which accounts for the fact that Buret was not found sooner.

The West Hoboken police were notified, and an ambulance call was sent to Christ Hospital, Buret was still lying in the street, but his wife was taken from her mather's house, which she had managed to reach. Both were taken to the hospital about midnight. Buret was unconscious and could make no statement.

the hospital about midnight. Buret was unconscious and could make no statement.

Mrs. Enders, the young wife's mother, and her sister went to the hospital this forencon. Mrs. Enders sed that her daughter married Buret three years ago, when she was only seventeen years old. Buret is, she says, a Frenchman, and about twenty-three years of age. He is a painter by trade, but does no work for the reason that he receives an income from his grandfather in Paris. Mrs. Enders said she did not know how funch Buret's allowance is, but she knows that he received $600 from Paris a few weeks ago, and within the last year has had two remittances from the same source, one of $1,100 and another of $1,700.

With this money, Mrs. Enders says, he led the life of a sport. He neglected his wife, and used to lock her in her room at their home on Bergen Line avenue and Spring street, while he went to the races with other young women of his acquaintance.

Buret lived at the Belleville Hotel in Hoboken, where he kept a fast horse, he seemed, according to Mrs. Enders, to be infatuated with women and buggy riding. He would go off on buggy riding trips and be gone for days at a time. He was well known as a sport among a certain classe of young men in Hoboken, and always had a crowd of hangers-on about him, who used to drink the wine he paid for.

Mrs. Enders says that for a time he kept a hardware store in Hoboken, but gave it up because it took up too much of his time. Last Friday Mrs. Buret told her mother that she had gone to Fort Lee with her husband, who had come to their home while she was packling up her furniture preparatory to leaving.

With the revolver still in his hand he started for the door. When he reached the street he was cursing loudly and waving the weapon over his head.

He was in this condition when found just a few doors below the saloon by Policeman Wagner, of the Oak street station, who was just returning from the Tombs.

rolliceman wagner, of the Oak street station, who was just returning from the Tombs.

Wagner did not notice that Mair was shot, and the drunken man said nothing about it. Wagner arrested Mair on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. The man was not in his precinct, however, and Wagner turned him over to a policeman from the Elizabeth street station.

When Maer was taken into the station-house it was noticed that a stream of blood was running from beneath his trousers. Examination showed that he was shot. He was still raving with drink and would not tell when he received his injury. An ambulance was called from Chambers Street Hospital and Dr. Cutter dressed the wound.

The police finally managed to learn from him that he was shot in the Centre street saloon. When this was known Foley was arrested and taken to the Tombs, where he was remanded ta await the result of his victim's wound.

The saloon in which Marr was shot formerly belonged to his brother, Thomas, and people in the neighborhood said that some trouble had arisen over the change, after which Pillann took charge. Another brother of Marr, Edward, has a saloon at Pearl street and Park Row.
