

DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH IS HOME AGAIN

Daughter of W. K. Vanderbilt Refuses to Discuss Domestic Troubles.

HER STAY INDEFINITE.

Affable and smiling and expressing her admiration of the beauties of New York harbor, which she said was always an inspiring picture to her, the Duchess of Marlborough, accompanied by her father, William K. Vanderbilt, and Mrs. Vanderbilt, arrived from England today, a passenger aboard the North German Lloyd steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II.

At Quarantine the liner was boarded by William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Harold Vanderbilt, who greeted the party and were greeted in turn affectionately.

Following the family salutations the Duchess, all smiles and looking the picture of health and beauty, left her stateroom for a seat near the gangway, where she was joined by a woman fellow passenger with whom she chatted pleasantly.

When a reporter for The Evening World approached, expressing a wish for an interview, the Duchess rose from her seat and in the most affable and pleasant manner signified that she was not averse to undergoing the ordeal of a talk for publication.

But the Duchess was quite as diplomatic as she was affable. She said prettily that she was not quite "up" with the current affairs of America, although she had always read or heard with pleasure of the doings in her native land.

"I left my two fine little boys in England," she said, "for they, you know, are now in the hands of their tutors. They are in splendid health and are thriving in every manner."

"Just as quickly as I can get there I am going to see my mother, Mrs. Belmont, at Hempstead, L. I. Tomorrow I shall go to Newport, and then I shall later determine my future movements. I may return to England within a month, I do not know. I may stay, or on the other hand, go back to my home in the spring, late or early. That I do not know."

"The trip which has just ended was a stormy one from the very beginning, and most of the passengers—men as well as women," added the Duchess, "think the sea sickness every day. I am a good sailor and was out of my stateroom on deck most of the time."

Then the Duchess evidenced the diplomatic turn. When the matter of her domestic troubles was broached gently she said with a faint smile:

"There are things that we may talk about and things that we may not discuss. Did you have bad weather here these last few days?"

Further Refuses to Talk.

W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., would not discuss the present crisis. Neither would he comment upon the several financial or commercial health of the country. He said words through the son, Willie K., that he begged to be excused from discussing any matter and expressed his regret that he had not been able to do so. He was in the country sufficiently to warrant an expression from him.

At the pier in Hoboken, where the ship berthed, no other relatives or acquaintances were present to greet the Duchess. But there were hordes of persistent photographers present. They snap-shot the Duchess right and

BABY TORTURED FOR 6 MONTHS

By Terrible Itching Eczema—Face and Head a Solid Sore—Spread to His Hand and Legs—Would Scratch Until He Bled—Tiny Sufferer Immediately Relieved and

ENTIRELY CURED IN 2 MONTHS BY CUTICURA

"When my son Walter was three weeks old, eczema appeared on his face. We did not know what it was, so we went to a doctor who treated him for three months. Then he was so bad that his face and head were nothing but one sore and his ears looked as if they were going to fall off, so we tried another doctor. He said he could cure him and we doctoring there four months, the baby never getting any better. His hand and legs then had big sores and as for his sleep he could not think of it. The poor little fellow suffered so terribly. First I tied his hands to the crib to keep him from scratching, but when it got so bad I tied him in a shawl or he would scratch himself all bloody. When he was seven months old we tried a set of the Cuticura Remedies. The first application of Cuticura let him sleep and rest well. In one week the sores were gone but it stayed red and sometimes it would itch so we used Cuticura for two months, then he had a clear and white face. Now he is two years and seven months old and has never had eczema again. I hope this letter will help some mother suffering from skin disease. Every mother who has a baby suffering with skin disease should just try Cuticura; there is nothing better. Mrs. Louis H. Cook, P. O. Box, San Antonio, Tex., Apr. 15, 1907.

A single set of Cuticura Remedies is often sufficient to cure torturing, disgusting, itching, burning and scaly humors, eczemas, rashes, and irritations, from infancy to age, when all other remedies fail.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Eczema (Itchy Sore Skin) and other Skin Diseases. The Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c) to heal the skin and Cuticura Tablets (50c), (or in the form of Cuticura Lotion, 50c, per bottle of 10) to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Cuticura, Inc., Chem. Corp., New York, N. Y.
