

$1,500,000 PAID TO ACCELERATE BONDS OF B. R. T.

$500,000 Charged as Commission, $1,000,000 to Reorganization Committee.

SECURITIES WERE LOW.

Vice-President Williams Tells Service Board Price Was Paid to Sell Them.

The investigation of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system by the Public Service Commission was resumed today before Commissioner McCarron. William M. Ives, counsel for the commission, called Col. T. S. Williams, vice-president of the B. R. T., to the stand, and asked if he could give the history of the Brooklyn Union Railroad system. The witness replied that he thought he could, and dug into a huge pile of documents.

The Brooklyn Elevated Street Railway Company was the first company, the witness said, having been incorporated in 1824. Mr. Williams testified a long list of companies, with the dates of their mergers or losses. The Union Elevated system, as it exists today, he said, dates from the early part of 1899.

"$26,023,722 for 'Strengthening'." The actual work of construction was begun in the summer of 1899, and continued until the early eighties. The actual structure is largely the same as it was originally, Mr. Williams said, but has been strengthened in recent years.

Mr. Williams said the cost of strengthening had been charged to construction account, not to maintenance. Mr. Ives read from a report made by the company in 1897 showing that the cost of construction up to that time had been $26,023,722, and there were $25,000,000 in bonds.

The B. R. T. acquired the stock of the Union Elevated in 1899. The Sea Beach and Sea View Companies and the Second Avenue Company, which had been previously acquired, were also included in the consolidation. The other companies composing the present system at later dates, the Canarsie Railroad Company and last year, Mr. Ives asked how much it would cost to-day to replace the road, exclusive of damages, if the present structure were totally destroyed. Mr. Williams did not feel qualified to answer.

Mr. Ives then took up the matter of power. For the entire B. R. T. system the power is supplied by the Transit Development Company. Even the power houses owned by the constituent companies are leased to the Transit Development Company, and the system benefits through economy of production.

$500,000 as "Commission." Mr. Williams said the present capitalization of the Brooklyn Union Elevated system comprises $1,500,000 in bonds, $1,300,000 in preferred stock and $1,200,000 in common stock. He said he thought it would cost probably more to replace the structure than that amount. Besides the amounts given there were some $500,000 of securities issued to the reorganization committee. A part of the money came from these securities, the witness said, and was expended in making connections with the Brooklyn Bridge. Out of the total authorized issue of $1,500,000 of securities there remained unissued, Mr. Williams said, $450,000. The bonds were selling at the time of the reorganization at 90, according to the recollection of the witness. They were 100 per cent. bonds.

The Reorganization Committee included Frederick C. Brown, Ernest Thumman, Leonard Lewisohn, Mr. Parsons and Mr. Woodward. Mr. Williams did not make clear what the payment of the $500,000 commission and the $1,000,000 to the Reorganization Committee were for, except that the securities were not selling at par, and it was necessary to pay for them. He said he was not sure of the exact amount.

Mr. Williams, pressed as to whether it would be possible to capitalize expenditures, said he was well aware that anything was possible in bookkeeping. If people have wicked intentions and a proper opportunity, he thought, however, that so long as the present way of doing things by the company's officials prevails, no expenditures will be capitalized.

After Mr. Ives had announced that he would take up the six other operating companies of the B. R. T. system, an adjournment was taken until tomorrow.

300 RUSSIANS LEFT BEHIND AS STEAMER SAILED

The steamship Francisco, of the Austro-American line, sailed away from the Bush docks in South Brooklyn for Naples and Mediterranean ports to-day, leaving 300 disconsolate Russians sitting in dumb despair on their baggage on the pier.

Most of them held a ticket calling for passage on the Francisco, and there is not another ship of the line due to sail until Dec. 4.

The 300 Russians and 1,500 Italians assembled at the docks early to-day to take passage. They came from all over the country and had purchased tickets from the agents of the line at the points they left.

The Francisco has accommodations for 1,500 stowage passengers. The officers, being forced to leave 300 of the assembled crowd behind, determined to leave the Russians, fearing that if they took 3,000 Italians aboard with the Russians and left 300 Italians on the dock there would be a riot.

Accordingly a police guard was stationed at the docks and the Russians were held back. They did not know what it was all about, but they made no resistance. Representatives of the line said an effort would be made to send them on another ship.

MRS. HARTJE WINS AGAIN IN NOTED DIVORCE SUIT

Appeal of Millionaire to Reopen Case on Madine Letters Denied by Court.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje, who was sued for divorce by her husband, F. August Hartje, the Pittsburgh millionaire, won a complete victory in the Pennsylvania Superior Court today when that tribunal affirmed in its entirety the decision of the Allegheny County Court, which refused to grant Hartje a divorce.

The petitions filed by Hartje's attorney asking the Superior Court to reopen the case on the ground of newly discovered evidence were denied. The petitions to reopen the case were based on letters alleged to have been written by Mrs. Hartje and Thomas Madine, the family coachman, who was named as co-respondent by Hartje.

The decision which was written by Judge Heaver and concurred in by the other six members of the court says: "We have given careful consideration to the evidence presented. It is of two kinds, the evidence of servants employed and friends of the family. With the exception of a single witness this testimony is not only not convincing, but is scarcely sufficient to arouse even the suspicion of improper relations between the respondent and the co-respondent."

The exception witness was Susan Wagner. She was evidently a strong prejudiced witness. She was brought from Germany by Hartje and was met on her arrival in New York by him and his counsel. Her testimony to say with care, but with suspicion and studied doubt, as to preclude a conclusion such as we are asked to deduce from it.

In discussing the letters which have figured in the case, the court dismisses all but one with scornful consideration. In discussing the one retained, the decision says: "If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

"If the testimony of those who are familiar with the handwriting of Mrs. Hartje has any value, it would seem that it was not written by her. It is not the handwriting of the respondent, should be taken of such corroborative force as to make the genuineness of this letter of any doubt. We reach the conclusion that the allegations of the libellant are not sustained by evidence. The trial judge was satisfied with the evidence and we are not satisfied. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge in many of the reasons stated by him in dismissing the suit for divorce."

HIST! BU GLARS! BRING OUT THE POLICE RESERVES!

O'Connor Came With Twenty Cops to Aid Brennan, the Daring Patrolman.

There are three quick acts in this sketch. The principal parts are taken by Sergt. Reuben O'Connor and Patrolman Brennan, of the Adams Street Station, Brooklyn. If they don't call Brennan "Charon" the Cops after this, he's a lucky man.

Act I.
Scene—Court street in front of Stern's furnishing goods emporium, between Joramion and Livingston streets. Time—Early to-day.

Police—Brennan—The strangely dark in Stern's store. What's Stern's saving of gas. Hist! What was that? Somebody is drilling the safe! No, somebody is opening the safe with an axe. No, somebody thinks the store is a bowling alley. There are four burglars inside. I expect, (looks them alone). I'll call for help.

Act II.
Scene—Interior of Adams street police station. Telephone bell rings. Sergt. Reuben O'Connor leaps to the phone. Sergt. Reuben O'Connor—What's that you say, Brennan? Burglars? Hold them. Don't let them get away. Don't make any noise. Keep them inside. I'll be there in a minute. Hi, there, re-servers! Fall out. There is work for you to do.

Act III.
Scene—Same as Act I.—Policeman Brennan discovered in a listening attitude with his revolver in one hand and his nightstick in the other.

Policeman Brennan—Hist! Is that the reserve coming or the National Guard? Sergt. Reuben O'Connor, breaking out of the darkness—Here we are, Brennan, me and twenty men. Where are the burglars?

Sergt. O'Connor—Whisper, men, and rather round me. Do you deploy on all sides? Cover every avenue of escape. Let no guilty man go through me. And Brennan will go round and enter by the back. When we call you, come. (Exit all. Deep silence. Voices heard in the store.)

Policeman Brennan—They seem to be behind that counter. Sergt. O'Connor—Come out of that or I'll shoot you full of holes. A light appears in the store.

Sergt. Reuben O'Connor—Hays you caught, them, Brennan. Policeman Brennan—I have, sir. There are three rats here in one trap. In trying to get out they have gnawed a big hole in it and rolled it all over the store. CURTAIN.

YOUTH DRIVEN TO SUICIDE BY MONEY TROUBLE

Takes Poison and Threatens to Kill Sister-in-Law If She Calls a Physician.

Walter Muhlberg, eighteen years old, a salesman employed by the Pramm Company, No. 85 Duane street, to-day took enough cyanide of potassium to have killed a dozen men, in the home of his brother, Alfred, No. 106 Marshall avenue, Jersey City.

He died a minute or two after announcing to his sister-in-law that he had taken the poison. "Well, it's all of now," he exclaimed. "I've taken enough of that cyanide to lay me away sure. Good-bye."

"Oh, Walter wait until I call a doctor, please." "You make the move to call a doctor and I'll shoot you on the spot. Do you hear, I don't want any one butting in on this ceremony."

Muhlberg then staggered into his bedroom. His face was ashen white and from stood on his lips. He kicked off his shoes and pulled off his collar and shirt. With his hands clutched tightly to his suspenders, death overtook him and he fell across the bed.

On a table was found the following note: "Dear Brother Al—Please forgive me for what I am doing in your home. Financial matters have driven me to it. A certain woman owes me $30 and a man owes me $10. My insurance is paid to date. Have my body cremated, as I believe that method is the only sure way of death."

Dr. Hollister took charge of the body. At the Pramm company's offices it was stated that Muhlberg was a favorite with the customers and gave much promise for a business career.

WOMAN LIFTED WATCH. URCHIN TELLS POLICE.

A man who said he was Dr. Charles Norris, of No. 41 West Forty-fourth street, reported to Lieut. Underhill, at the West Forty-seventh street station, last night that he had been robbed of a valuable gold watch and chain by a woman who accosted him in Forty-third street near Sixth avenue.

When asked by the Lieutenant whether he would be able to identify the woman, Dr. Norris replied he would not, but the watch had a monogram of his initials, C. N., on its back.

ACQUIT STEAMER'S CREW OF IMPERILLING ROOSEVELT.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 21.—United States Inspectors Wallis and Hodge, of Memphis, who yesterday began the trial of the crew of the officers and crew of the steamer Dick Powell, charged with reckless navigation on the occasion of President Roosevelt's trip down the Mississippi River on Oct. 3, returned to-day a verdict of not guilty.

FALLS TO DEATH UNDER WHEELS OF B. R. T. TRAIN

Brooklyn Lad Slips on Wet Platform While Trying to Board Car.

Sidney Ginsberg, eighteen years old, of Sixteenth avenue and Fortieth street, Brooklyn, attempted to board a moving train on the Culver line at Fortieth street and Gravesend avenue to-day, and slipped on the wet platform. His body shot under the rear car, directly in front of the wheels, and was cut almost in two.

The train was comfortably filled with commuters, picked up along the line from Coney Island. Scores of men and women ran out when it was stopped, and the men, led by Policeman John C. Lass, of the Seventy-second Precinct, attempted to draw the mangled youth from the tracks. Lass called an ambulance and sent for the wrecking crew. Ginsberg was wedged in beneath the trucks and his rescuers could not get to him.

Policeman Lass arrested the motorman, Walter Little, of No. 271 Ninth street, and the conductor, Timothy Clark, of No. 230 Second street, Brooklyn. The body of Ginsberg was sent to the Seventy-second Precinct Station House and his parents were notified. He was on his way to work.

Stern Brothers Women's Costumes

INCLUDING HOUSE, EVENING, RECEPTION AND DINNER GOWNS IN SELECTED FABRICS.

For To-morrow and Saturday

Princess Dresses of Fine Chiffon Broadcloth, in street and evening shades, trimmed with large buttons, one fold with three fine tucks on skirt. Actual Value $37.50

at $21.50

WOMEN'S & MISSES' RIDING HABITS

At Much Less Than Regular Prices

WITH LONG AND SHORT COATS, DIVIDED, SIDE SADDLE AND SAFETY SKIRTS IN A VARIETY OF MATERIALS.

at $22.50 and 27.50

Separate Riding Skirts, at $7.50, 10.50

Trimmed Millinery Dep't

Elegant Fur Hats and Toques in great variety.

Important Sale of

LYNX AND CARACUL TOQUES, ALSO FUR-TRIMMED HATS, at $18.50

Actual Value $35.00

STREET AND SEMI-DRESS HATS, from $10.50 upwards (SECOND FLOOR)

An Exceptional Display of Sterling Silver Novelties

Also the following.

Very Attractive Offerings

Hand Mirrors, $6.75, 7.75 Cigar Jars, $2.95, 5.95

Hair Brushes, 3.95, 5.50 Cigarette Jars, 1.45

Cloth Brushes, 2.95 Lavender Salt Bottles, 95c, 1.25

Military Brushes, 2.25, 2.75 Match Holders, 95c, 1.25, 1.50

Hat Brushes, 95c Vases, 95c, 1.95

Combs, 95c Cologne Bottles with silver stoppers, 1.35, 1.65

High Grade Suits

Collection of 75 Underprice

Single and double-breasted models fashioned of pure worsteds and all wool chevots, tailored and trimmed in excellent manner and lined throughout with serge; sizes include regulars, longs and stouts.

All From Our Regular Stocks Former Price $22.50

Sale $17.50

Other Suits in stock up to $32.50

Men's $5.00 Storm Shoes, $3.96

Sturdy, comfortable—affording as much protection as a Winter Shoe can give, without sacrificing any detail of shapeliness or grace of line.

Blucher style, made of tan storm calfskin; with double soles. Differing from the Storm Shoes sold in other shops only in the matter of price—$5.00 elsewhere, $3.96 here.

Particular attention is directed to our lines of Men's Shoes at $3.99—lines embracing all desirable models in patent leather, calfskin, kid-skin and Russia calfskin.

Men's and Women's Solitaire Diamond Rings, mountings of 14 and 18-karat gold and platinum, range in price from $14.89 to $378.00, in the jewelry section on the main floor.

Sale of Women's Gloves.

Twelve Hundred Pairs of Glace Lamb-skin Gloves, 12-button length; in black, tan and white; this sale $1.49

Note—No. 5½ size in tan or black; and only 12 dozen pairs of White Gloves in this lot.

Women's French Undergarments—hand-made, hand-embroidered and finished with real Irish lace—the finest collection we have ever shown, ready on the second floor.

Silk Velvet Remnants In An Extraordinary Sale.

It has been a big season in the velvet section, as this great accumulation of remnants indicates.

It embraces plain velvets, in the various qualities—short lengths, of course, yet thousands of yards taken collectively. These are remnants of Velvets we have sold regularly at prices ranging from 99c to $2.97 a yard :: Sale 49c and 69c.

In the Jewelry Sections—Solid Gold Mesh Bags, plain, or mounted with sapphires, rubies, emeralds and diamonds, range in price from $81.74 to $1,040.00.

Embroidered Linens Reduced.

In the Art Needlework section—an underpricing of Biedermier Hand-embroidered Doilies, Table Covers, Scarfs, Pillow Slips and Centerpieces.

All of heavy linen, with hemstitched borders; embroidered in a variety of floral designs:

Centerpieces—20-inch, were $5.24, now $3.96; 24-inch, were $5.49, now $3.96; 28-inch, were $5.97, now $4.49; 30-inch, were $6.94, now $4.99.

Scarfs—20x54-inch size, were priced up to $1.74, sale $0.75 to $0.74; 18x24-inch, 18x30-inch and 11x41-inch, were up to $6.24, sale $0.80.

Table Covers—36-inch, were up to $1.74, now $0.79; 45-inch, were up to $1.74, now $0.94; 54-inch, were up to $1.96, now $1.49; 60-inch, were up to $2.74, now $0.94.

Doilies—6-inch, were 44c, now 29c; 12-inch, were $1.19, now 89c; Pillow Slips—were $3.69, now $2.97.

Infants' Apparel

Very Low-priced. 49c—Long Dresses, of nainsook, yokes finished with hemstitched tucks. 59c—Long Dresses, of nainsook, yokes trimmed with tucks and lace insertions. 69c—Long Skirts, of flannel; made with waists. 29c—Wrappers, of white outing flannel.

Macy's

High Grade Suits

Collection of 75 Underprice

Single and double-breasted models fashioned of pure worsteds and all wool chevots, tailored and trimmed in excellent manner and lined throughout with serge; sizes include regulars, longs and stouts.

All From Our Regular Stocks Former Price $22.50

Sale $17.50

Other Suits in stock up to $32.50

Men's $5.00 Storm Shoes, $3.96

Sturdy, comfortable—affording as much protection as a Winter Shoe can give, without sacrificing any detail of shapeliness or grace of line.

Blucher style, made of tan storm calfskin; with double soles. Differing from the Storm Shoes sold in other shops only in the matter of price—$5.00 elsewhere, $3.96 here.

Particular attention is directed to our lines of Men's Shoes at $3.99—lines embracing all desirable models in patent leather, calfskin, kid-skin and Russia calfskin.

Men's and Women's Solitaire Diamond Rings, mountings of 14 and 18-karat gold and platinum, range in price from $14.89 to $378.00, in the jewelry section on the main floor.

Sale of Women's Gloves.

Twelve Hundred Pairs of Glace Lamb-skin Gloves, 12-button length; in black, tan and white; this sale $1.49

Note—No. 5½ size in tan or black; and only 12 dozen pairs of White Gloves in this lot.

Women's French Undergarments—hand-made, hand-embroidered and finished with real Irish lace—the finest collection we have ever shown, ready on the second floor.

Silk Velvet Remnants In An Extraordinary Sale.

It has been a big season in the velvet section, as this great accumulation of remnants indicates.

It embraces plain velvets, in the various qualities—short lengths, of course, yet thousands of yards taken collectively. These are remnants of Velvets we have sold regularly at prices ranging from 99c to $2.97 a yard :: Sale 49c and 69c.

In the Jewelry Sections—Solid Gold Mesh Bags, plain, or mounted with sapphires, rubies, emeralds and diamonds, range in price from $81.74 to $1,040.00.

Embroidered Linens Reduced.

In the Art Needlework section—an underpricing of Biedermier Hand-embroidered Doilies, Table Covers, Scarfs, Pillow Slips and Centerpieces