Some excitement was caused in Wall-street yesterday Co. had effected a precisely similar forgery on Mr. Corrie, the Agent for Fletcher, Alexander & Co. of London. All se details of the fraud were exactly the same as proved saccessful upon Brown & Co. The amount, $26,000, was emitted to the rogue in Bank of America $1,000 notes, rhich the public were yesterday cautioned, in an adver tisement, against receiving, as they were f. audulently ab that the bills had all been taken in by the Bank again; so that the ingenious regue has accured $52,000 by these we operations and got fairly off with his plunder, beyond doubt the Mr. Britton who so successfully went wer the United States a few months since with a series out of $26,000. It is a remarkable fact, and shows that the regue took every possible means to render his plan successful, that the paper on which the forged letter of credit ras written, upon being compared with the paper of a genume letter from Munsell, White & Co., the house shose name was made use of, was found to be identical, that the forger had a confident there. 17 The Young Choir; adapted to the use of the Young, by William B. Bradbury and Charles W. Sanders.—"This is truly a musical age in which we live. If every body is not in tone, it will not be the fault of the music makers. But what we now see is as nothing to what shall yet be. The next generation—(would that we were young again, to enjoy it with them!)—yes, the next generation—will all be singers. This new book is all for the young. It is for Juvenile Singing Schools, Sabbath Schools, Frimary Classes, &c. The book is got up in very good taste. The music is simple and cheering. The elementary instruction, we should think, is quite superior. Gut the book; introduce it to your children, and teach them all to sing. It will make them happier while young, and better citizen strongh life." h life."

FOR WELLS AND CISTERNS,
No. 437 River st., Trov, N. Y.
The attention of the public is respectfully called to the immease number of these Pamps now in use, and to the testimenials of thousands who have thoroughly proved them. The working e linder and plunger, and all the working or operating parts of them are of cast-iron. The pipe is of clear stuff—pine—turned off to about four innesin diameter, fitted for screwing together at each end, and boiled in a resinous composition which makes it very durable, and fere from all the objections charged against lead pipes as being is jurious to health.
The advantages peculiar to them are cheapness, durability, case of operation, and security signist frost, they are sto light and portable, and casily put up or removed.
The universal celebrity which there Pumps have obtained where they are best known, together with such experience which the subscriber has had is the business, makes him confident of giving entire satisfaction to every parchaser.

All orders for Well or Cistern Pamps should give ac-
