

GRAND ARMY BUGLE NOTES

The people and Confederate veterans of Charleston, S. C., promise to make Commander-in-Chief Gobin's visit to that city this month an occasion of no ordinary significance. The General goes to Charleston in the interest of the Castle Pinckney Sanitarium enterprise. "The Charleston Critic" says that the effect of his visit will be "more far-reaching than the benefit which may result therefrom to the measure, important as that may be. Besides being commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., the most powerful organization in this or any other country, General Gobin stands high in National Masonic circles. He is the past grand master of the Grand Encampment of Knights Templar in the United States. In military life he ranks as a general, commanding a brigade of the Pennsylvania troops. In civic station he has been honored by the people of Pennsylvania, and has been a leader of the Senate of that State. General Gobin's task is to include Past Commander L. F. Mack, of Ohio, who is a prominent candidate for commander-in-chief at the National G. A. R. Encampment, to be held at Cincinnati next summer. General Charles K. Darling, of Boston, Mass., the commander-in-chief of the Sons of Veterans U. S. A.; General Thomas J. Stewart, adjutant-general G. A. R., and other prominent men are also expected. A cordial reception and generous hospitality on the part of the people of South Carolina and there will be accorded to the visiting buglers and their families in no stinted manner to these Union veterans will be the most powerful argument that can be advanced against the sensational stories that have been long circulated to the discredit of the boy who is the living soul of our Nation floating with every breeze, a thriving city, a contented people and a hospitality as genuine as it is overflowing. With a true American welcome open to us, we consider our hearts and our homes, Governor Ellerbe should be here to join with Mayor Smith in extending to them the right hand of fellowship and good cheer."

Arthur R. Moore, now well-known lawyer of Fredonia, in this State, and a son of Dr. Matthew Moore, who was a noted surgeon attached to the Confederate Army at Fort Sumter, has taken a warm interest in the proposed Castle Pinckney Sanitarium. After the war father and son settled in Fredonia. The latter, inheriting the genial manners of his father, has become one of the most popular citizens in his new home, and a prominent man in the community. His law practice is a large law practice, and he is a postmaster of the city. He has succeeded in enlisting the influence of Congressmen Hooker and Mahany and Senator Murphy, of this State, in the Castle Pinckney enterprise.

The annual anniversary dinner of the Old Guard Association of the 12th Regiment, N. G. N. Y., will be held on April 21. It will be thirty-seven years on that day since the regiment departed for the seat of war. General Daniel Butterfield, Captain Charles E. Sprague and Captain William H. Schwabe are the committee to make all the arrangements. Dinner tickets, as usual, $3. It is the purpose of the committee to have published a full record of the several anniversary banquets which have taken place since the regimental "Savoyard History" was issued. It will be convenient to include the menu and names of contributors to each banquet, as well as the addresses and portraits of speakers. They also propose to include the present anniversary together with unbound sheets of the "Savoyard History" now on hand. All soldiers who have served in any of the regiments or the 12th Regiment, New York Guard of New York, and wives are entitled to an honorable discharge if they join the association and to such a certificate of invitation is extended. Applications blank and particulars will be furnished by the secretary, William H. Moore, No. 82 Tompkins-ave., Borough of Brooklyn, New York City.

There was a large attendance at a joint meeting of W. S. Hancock Post No. 226, and of Hancock Corps, W. R. C. on Wednesday night. After Dr. Heath, a member of the post, who knew General Hancock intimately, had related many interesting reminiscences of the General, Past Commander Thompson of George C. Strong Post No. 334, Brooklyn, presented to the post a handsome portrait of General Hancock, which was received on behalf of the post by Commander George B. Loud in an eloquent speech. Department Chaplain J. J. Arnaud was also present and made an address. Recitations honoring the memory of W. C. Mohr were unanimously adopted; also one in honor of Department Commander Albert D. Shaw for command-in-chief. Representing the Posts, Summer, Tilden, Post, The Stevens, Hooker, Cushing, W. S. Ward and Hancock W. R. Corps were present in force. Hancock Corps furnished refreshments and fed the visitors to their entire satisfaction.

A reception and dinner on a large scale are to be given soon to the surviving Union generals who commanded armies and corps during the war, and those who have joined the majority, the last to be given is General William S. Rosecrans, who commanded the Army of the Cumberland from October, 1862, to October, 1863, and fought three of its greatest battles. General Rosecrans died in California last Friday. Among the army and corps commanders left are General George B. McClellan, General George B. McClellan, who commanded the Army of the Cumberland, Shiloh, General O. O. Howard, who commanded the Army of the Tennessee after the death of General McPherson; General Daniel E. Sickles, of New York, commander of the Third Army Corps; General William R. Franklin, one of General Meade's most trusted corps commanders, and General Franz Sigel, of this city, famous both in the West and the East. The date for the entertainment is to be soon announced.

Alexander Hamilton Post No. 182 is considering the matter of getting new quarters. The post is now handsomely located in the new bank building in East One-hundred-and-twenty-fifth-st., but as the great number of the members live on the West side it is hard for them to attend the encampments regularly. No post in the department ranks higher.

It is understood that General James Shields and General Michael Corcoran posts are soon to join forces and become one organization. They are each composed mostly of Irish comrades, or those of Irish descent, and are named after well-known Irish commanders who endeared themselves to their soldiers and the country. United, they would make homogeneous and influential posts.

Forty gravestones furnished by the city for New-York veterans remain in the basement of the City Hall, awaiting the order of relatives or friends of the dead soldiers. A list giving the names and commands of the latter will soon be published.

General Burnside Post No. 28, of North Dakota, has passed resolutions asking the Government to issue all soldiers of the War of the Rebellion, both Union and Confederate, to Washington, as guests of the Union for one week, beginning July 1, 1898, on that on Independence Day the fourth of July that year. The President, his Cabinet and the surviving seniors of both armies review the grand old armies as they march down Pennsylvania-ave., the soldiers of each army dressed in uniform, but convenient, in their former colored uniforms, but all under Old Glory. The money of our Union, and that Congress be petitioned to appropriate the money necessary to defray all expenses.

DR. CLEAVELAND'S CASE REOPENED.

WE WILL HAVE AN EXAMINATION IN THE CENTRAL STREET COURT ON WEDNESDAY.

Dr. Trumbull W. Cleaveland, of No. 45 West Fifteenth-st., again appeared in the West Side Police Court yesterday morning, and, through counsel, withdrew the waiver of examination on the charge of manslaughter preferred by Mrs. James L. Hart, of No. 36 Lexington-ave., who charged him with causing the death of her infant child Victoria Irene on April 19, 1897, through improper treatment. He was held in 5000 ball for trial by Magistrate Olmsted on Saturday. Ex-Assistant District-Attorneys Bartow S. Weeks and George Gordon Battle, who were retained as counsel late Saturday night after Dr. Cleaveland had secured bonds and was released from the West Side Court prison, asked Magistrate Olmsted to reopen the case.

"Dr. Cleaveland was arraigned before you Saturday on the charge of manslaughter," said Mr. Weeks. "He was not represented by his counsel and did not understand his rights in the matter, and was unacquainted with the mode of procedure. I asked him to give me time to procure counsel, and I assure you that he will do so." Dr. Cleaveland is still pending, and all under Old Glory.

Mr. Weeks said he would speak to the court for your Honor to reopen the case, and give our client an examination, as he now requests."

Magistrate Olmsted consented to the motion, and set the case down for hearing in the Central Street Court on Wednesday morning.

Mr. Weeks said he would withdraw and new bonds for examination were drawn up for the same amount $500.

MUSK, NATURAL AND ARTIFICIAL.

The recent triumph which is credited to the Government of producing musk artificially, and all experts are ready to claim the current of commerce in respect to an article which is to-day very highly prized. The foundress of the human race entered for the competition, and the German girls have really solved the question of the artificial production of musk, their achievement is one of the most remarkable in the recent annals of science.
