Intercollegiate Tournament.

Columbia won four games from Yale in the second and penultimate round of the quadrangular intercollegiate chess tournament, played yesterday at the rooms of the West Side Republican Club, in this city. The wearers of the White and Blue thereby increased their lead to such an extent as to put their winning the tournament beyond any reasonable doubt. In fact, they need to score only one more game to-day or to draw two games in order to secure the coveted trophy.

Princeton's aspirations received a crushing blow yesterday, inasmuch as the Tigers lost three games to Harvard, and succeeded only in drawing the fourth. The Harvard men now hold second position in the tourney, with Princeton third and Yale bringing up in the rear. The pairings and openings for the second round yesterday were as follows: First board-Burgess, Yale, vs. Capabianca, Columbia; Queen's Gambit declined. Second board -Wolff, Columbia, vs. Kimball, Yale; Three Knights' opening. Third board-Kelsey, Yale, vs. Blumberg, Columbia; Queen's Gambit declined. Fourth board-Brown, Columbia, vs. Rosenn, Yale; Queen's Gambit declined. Fifth board-Brackett, Harvard, vs. Ward, Princeton Sicilian Defence. Sixth board-Stephens, Princeton, vs. McClure, Harvard; Queen's Pawn Opening. Seventh board-Gruening, Harvard, vs Williams, Princeton; Petroff's Opening. Eighth board-McDermott, Princeton, vs. Johnson, Har-

The game between Brown and Rosenn offered many interesting possibilities. Rosenn gave up a piece for three pawns, but Brown obtained a commanding position with his knight in the end game stage, and won after forty-six moves. Capablanca outclassed and outgeneralled his opponent, Burgess, and held the superior posttion almost from the start, winning a rather well played game after forty-one moves.

The gem of the day was the game between Blumberg, of Columbia, and Kelsey, of Yale. The Columbia man won in brilliant style after twenty-six moves.

Wolff obtained a strong attack against Kimball, which netted him a piece on the twentyseventh move. Kimball kept up the fight until the forty-eighth move, when he resigned.

Anent the Harvard-Princeton game, Brackett won three pawns from Ward, maintaining his advantage to the end, and winning after fortyfive moves. Stephens won a pawn from Mc-Clure, but lost it back by an exchange of rooks, and the game was finally drawn, after forty-two moves. Gruening instituted a runaway attack against Williams, and succeeded with his Russian tactics after forty moves. McDer-mott, although a piece behind, which he had lost by weak play, made a stout but hopeless defence against Johnson, who ultimately won after sixty-eight moves. after sixty-eight moves.

The score of the game between Burgess and Capablanca follows:

COLUMBIA WINS FOUR. MESSAGE TO ATHLETES

CLEAN SWEEP AT CHESS. FOSTER AMATEUR SPORT

Harvard Vanquishes Princeton in Aggressive Campaign Demanded by President of A. A. U.

James E. Sullivan, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, has written a letter or message to the board of governors and delegates at large in which he makes an appeal for an aggressive campaign and outlines the policy of the present administration. He points out that few changes, if any, are necessary or advisable, but that the good work of encouraging amateur sport and protecting the amateur must be carried on to a point where the amateur definition, which has always been open to much discussion, will be better and more clearly understood.

He calls attention to the fact that the success of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. is largely due to the encouragement given the Church Athletic League, the Intersettlement Athletic League, the Catholic Athletic League, the Sunday Schools Athletic League, the Military Athletic League and the Public Schools Athletic League. These leagues are mainly composed of the younger generation, and it is in the interest of these leagues that the Amateur Athletic Union can do its best work. He urges each association in the A. A. U. to have created one or more of these leagues in cities where

He also says it should be the aim of the Amateur Athletic Union, through its associations to organize and foster municipal athletic associations, and suggests that the Mayor of each city be the president of the municipal athletic association, having as members of the committees the persons who are in charge of each playground-making uniform rules, and paying parground—making uniform rules, and paying particular attention to the definition of an amateur. He calls attention to the need of a general intercollegiate association to work in harmony with the Amateur Athletic Union, and to make eligibility rules and uniform athletic laws, and suggests that it be called the American Intercollegiate Association. Mr. Sullivan does not seem to realize that such an association is already organized in the Intercollegiate Athletic Association of the United States, and that thirty-three universities and colleges have joined it.

Mr. Sullivan also calls attention to the question of the control of the schoolboy athlete, and says, in part:

The control of the schoolboy athletic element should naturally be taken care of by the college athletic associations. But in a national way the colleges make no attempt to control the schoolboy athlete. Nor can they, because the colleges themselves lack a national association. As a result scholastic athletics are not organized. There is absolutely no head and in many parts of this country to-day among schoolboys no attention is paid to the amateur definitions. boys no attention is paid to the amateur defini-tion, nor is there the slightest regard for eligi-bility rules. As a result schoolboys in certain sections of this country are being brought up with no knowledge of the amateur definition, no regard for eligibility rules, no regard for studies. And it's all wrong. We must teach the schoolboy that he must play fair in athletics. We must educate him, teach him the difference between the amateur and the professional, and if we go along on these broad lines I feel that we will accomplish a great deal for organized sport in America. The schoolboy is the very foundation. If we get the schoolboy started on an honest basis the rest of it will come quite natural.

honest basis the rest of it will come quite natural.

The honest professional is a person whom the Amateur Athletic Union has no quarrel with. We admit there must be professionalism; there must be professionalism; there must be professional. The Amateur Athletic Union has no desire to antagonize the professional—far from it. But it's the deceifful amateur—the amateur who is taking money, signing false registration blanks, false entry blanks and perjuring himself every day—that the Amateur Athletic Union is trying to root out. But he can only be stamped out by the co-operation of all who are interested in amateur sport. And I feel confident that if we go on as we have gone in the past the Amateur Athletic Union will within the next few years have alliances with athletic associations at home and throughout the entire world.

In speaking of the union as a whole he says. I want to state that the Amateur Athletic 1 want to state that the Amateur Athletic Union is stronger to-day than ever before. We are all working with the one object—the betterment of competitive sport. But we must not stay idle or be satisfied with what has been done. There is a great deal more to be accomplished, and the strength of the Amateur Athletic Union will come from increased membership in each section of the country; therefore I hope that the officers of the different associations will at once strive to increase their membership and endeavor to organize Sunday school athletic leagues, church athletic leagues, public athletic leagues, church athletic leagues, public school athletic leagues, etc., and thereby build up in each association of the Amateur Athletic Union an association that will be a credit to us in years to come.

In answering critics, all of our members of the leagues.

In answering critics, all of our members of the board f governors and officers of the local associations can state, without fear of being contradicted, that the Amateur Athletic Union is without doubt the purest governing body of amateur track and field sports in the world. And that means a great deal. It is quite true that there will be found occasionally an amateur who is not honest, but legislation will not stop crookedness in sport. We must all try to instil into athletes that spirit of fair play and honesty. I think that is better even than legislation, because legislation will not stop dishonesty.

In referring to the growing need of public

In referring to the growing need of public playgrounds and baths, Mr. Sullivan says:

I ask each association through its officials and through the officials of clubs that are memand through the officials of clubs that are members of the association to take up the question of the promotion of playgrounds and public gymnasiums and baths. The Amateur Athletic Union since its inception has stood sponsor for such institutions, and a great deal of the work that is now being done in playground movements, public gymnasiums and public baths can be attributed to influences that the Amateur Athletic Union is responsible for. It is quite true that in some cities these institutions are quite popular and are being operated is quite true that in some cities these institu-tions are quite popular and are being operated successfully; but in many other cities they are being neglected and no move whatever is made for their establishment. Therefore it will be ab-solutely up to the officials of the Amateur Athletic Union and the officials of its club men to initiate all movements that are for the good of the boys of this country of ours.

The Newark Bay club won three straight games from the Jersey City club in an Athletic Bowling League series on the former's alleys last night. This is the first time that the Bayonne team has ever won three games in one night in this league. It is also the first time this season that any team has won three straight. Newark Bay now leads league by a safe margin.

The home five won the first game easily with an 897 total, but had a little luck in getting the next with 837, as the winning margin was only 22 pins. In the last game both teams rolled in their best form. Newark Bay only had three missed spares and Jersey City four. The home team reached 958 and the other 925. The scores were as follows:

FAVOR PROPOSED AUTO POST ROAD.

Real Estate Men Consider It Feasible and Likely to Increase Values.

the north, which has been advanced by automobilists, is receiving the enthusiastic support of New York and Westchester real estate men, who have ground that such a road would add greatly to land values. Since the automobilists launched the idea there has been much favorable discussion about it in realty circles. John L. Parish, of Parish, Fisher & Co., said:

& Co., said:

There is no question that if the use of the Catskill Aqueduct be a practicable thing and the legal and financial questions can be arranged, the road would be of great value to the section north of New York, Such a project could not have been developed without the instrumentality of the automobile, but now that the automobile is coming into such general use I can see how, with such a road, the whole territory for fifty miles might well become the home site for many wealthy New Yorkers. If this road were built simultaneously with the construction of the aqueduct, it could be made for a fraction of what it would cost if undertaken as an independent propostion. I cannot see how such a of what it would cost if undertaken as an inde-pendent propostion. I cannot see how such a road could affect land values at all, detrimentally. In fact, before five years after the completion of a road of that kind, land values would be increased by an average of surely over 200 per cent. The increased revenue which would inure to the locali-tles involved would not only pay good return on the investment, but provide a sinking fund by which the cost could rapidly be recouped. George W. Reeves, of William H. Hoyt & Co.,

Automobilists will be heartly supported by real estate men in their proposition to make the land of the aqueduct useful. Such a road would lead many people to build in Westchester, and to present owners this new means of access to the city would undoubtedly be a great benefit. Others, I believe, will be enthusiastic in its support. I think there would be little difficulty in making the road self-supporting. A toil could be levied, and I know that automobilists would gladly pay to run on such a road, where they would not be constantly in danger of violating speed ordinances, or of injuring pedestrians and frightening horses. In my opinion, a moderate toil on such a road would yield a large income.

George Gascoigne, of Charles Field Griffen &

The plan to utilize this city owned land for an automobile highway is most important. We certainly are heartily in favor of such a project. H. W. Nichols, broker and dealer in Westches

The proposed road would be of great advantage to the section through which it passes. It would please the farmers in keeping the "pesky machines" off the highway, a thing which they are continually grumbling about; it would bring desirable people in touch with that section of the country, which would result in the selling of farms and the building up of the section through which this course runs; it would lessen the danger of accidents, and would be of benefit in general to the residents, and particularly so to automobilists.

PLAN LONG AUTOMOBILE TOUR.

Most of the rules for it have already been framed, but what the plan is will not be known until the annual meeting of the association, which is to be held in New York on January 18, during the week of the Madison Square Garden show. It is expected that this new contest will be favored by the manufacturers in preference to the Glidden tour. This is the busy season at the factories, and all motorists or those who ittend to join their ranks should, if possible, pay a visit to some one of the plants and contemplate its methods and organization. It is often a revelation for a min who has a prejudice or a flattering preference to inspect the factory that is behind the car.
