here on Monday and Tuesday, and he is reported to have declared in many of his speeches the conviction that the Republicans were going to steal the election by the corrupt use of money. This was taken in this state as a confession of defeat by the Democratic nominee. They say that Bryan's tone and attitude clearly indicated that he was discouraged at the situation and was preparing in advance to avert that elimination which the anti-Bryan element in the Democracy hopes will be the result of the Nebraskan's third defeat by a pre-election claim that Republican corruption rather than lack of confidence in his leadership caused his rejec-

ENTHUSIASM RAINPROOF.

For the second time on his speaking trips Mr. Taft encountered rain to-night. It rained at Muncie and from then on; but the rain seemed in no way to diminish the enthusiasm, and the candidate was heartily cheered on all sides. At Kokomo the crowd was so great that it was impossible for the greater part of it to get within hearing distance of the train, and a group of men, women and children climbed to the roof of a small shed beside the track, from which they could at least see the candidate. Too many availed themselves of this opportu nity, however, and the roof gave way. Fortunately, there was considerable heavy material stored underneath, which prevented a rapid descent, and no one was hurt.

Mr. Taft received quite a shock as he heard the crash and saw the roof sink, and he asked if any one was injured. On being assured there was not, he said: "That is the biggest piece of luck I have had on the entire trip." Later he had Kokomo called up by the telephone and was again assured that no one was injured.

At Lafayette Mr. Taft received, while on the stand, a testimonial to the good work of his party in restoring and maintaining prosperity. A man handed up a note to the candidate reading as follows: "Twelve years ago I drove a mortgaged mule to this city to hear Bryan. Today I came in my own automobile to hear you. Can you guess who I am going to vote for?" It was also in this town that The Tribune correspondent visited a drug store and incidentally asked the druggist whom he was going to vote for. "Well," said he, "I'm a Democrat, but I've determined to vote for Taft. I wouldn't trust a green hand to dispense drugs when I could get a trained one for the same pay. I like Bryan, but he has had no experience, and I reckon he might give the country the wrong kind of drugs." At Muncie the crowd was so great that it was decided that Mr. Taft should not try to speak, so he merely rode across the town and around the courthouse, and then on to the Big Four station, to which his train had been transferred in his absence. There was a great Republican rally in Muncie, and a parade three miles long, with many floats carrying pretty girls in white dresses and Columbia caps. Then there was a bodyguard for Mr. Taft, consisting of three dred boys and girls, the sons and daughters of farmers, all on horseback and all riding astride. For a short time they accompanied the candidate and then drew up on either side of the road and cheered him as he rode between

One of the brief and characteristic speeches was at Anderson, after dark and in the rain, but to a large and enthusiastic audience. He id a tribute to Benjamin Harrison, saying in

It is to me an intense pleasure to have re-ceived from the people of Indiana such a cordial welcome as we have had yesterday and to-day. welcome as we have had yesterday and to day Indiana's giving to the nation General Benjamir Harrison makes the always feel grateful, because he, more than any other public man, first gave me the assistance, the sympathy and the cordial support that made me aspire to judicial office. General Harrison was a great lawyer and a great man, and Indiana may well celebrate, as she is about to do, his memory by the erection of a monument in Indianapolis.

Now, my friends, it is raining, and I cannot keep you here. Your coming here in such numbers testifies to your interest in the election in November; testifies to the fact that Indiana is Republican; that you appreciate the importance of continuing the prosperity that we have by rejecting Mr. Bryan again and continuing the Republican party in power. What we need to put us on the way to the prosperity we have enput us on the way to the prosperity we have enjoyed for ten years is a restoration of confidence, and you will never bring that about if you put into the executive chair a man who has so many half-baked, unfounded, economic theories as the leader of the Democracy. The interest of the laboring man, of the farmer and of the business man are identical, and in order to bring back good times you must not put in a man who is constantly advocating new experiments and whose experiments heretofore have always failed.

(By Telegraph to the Tribune.) Cleveland, Oct. 23.—The defeat in yesterday's special election of the franchise which had been the basis of Mayor Tom L. Has His Innings Following the Governor-Crowd at Armory.

Buffalo, Oct. 23 .- Lieutenant Governor Lewis Survesant Chanler had his innings in Buffalo to-night. Following Governor Hughes at the 65th Regiment armory by just twenty-four hours, he was greeted by a crowd which filled the building and choked the streets outside. It was nearly 10 o'clock when the Democatic candidate for Governor arrived at the armory. His coming was signalled by a boom of cannon, and instantly the audience was on its feet. The cheering and waving of hats, hand-kerchiefs and flags developed into the most demonstrative welcome Mr. Chanler has had in his three weeks of campaigning.

In his speech at the armory Mr. Chanler devoted himself, generally speaking, to a review of the campaign, and made many references to Governor Hughes's speech of last night.

"My opponent says he cannot understand what is meant by personal liberty in this campaign," de-clared the candidate. "He is not the first man who, imbued with his own ideas, thinks that they must be those of the people. Oliver Cromwell was a great man. He was a sincere and honest man. England needed an Oliver Cromwell; thank heaven New York does not.'

Cheers greeted the statement that the vast audience recalled to the speaker's mind the remark made by Governor Hughes in the West, "Don't ask the crooks whom they are voting for; ask them whom they are voting against, and then you will understand."

"Thousands of you men here to-night," said Mr. Chanler, "are going to vote against Governor Hughes. I leave his answer to you." Mr. Chanler also spoke to-day at Middleport, Me-

He will speak only at Rome in the afternoon and Utica in the even ing. The Lieutenant Governor said in part:

Mr. Hughes in his speech last night said that the Public Service Commission is considering rates, and does not intend to do anything in regard to the matter until it is surer of its ground.

If this is what Mr. Hughes thinks that the commissioners are paid $15.00 a year for, to consider the question of 2-cent fare without calling a witness or holding a hearing, all that I can say is that the sooner the members of that commission are directly responsible to the people the sooner they will stop "considering" and get to work.

Mr. Hughes also said: "Now I, for one, am absolutely opposed to throwing these business departments of the state into politics." Are they not in politics when appointed by the Governor as much as if elected by the people? If not, why did he drag the state fair commissioners received no salary, a Democrat was allowed to serve. This year the commission as made a salaried one, with five commissioners, at $2.000 a year and $60 for expenses each. The present paid commission, like the previous unpaid commission, has done its work faithfully and well. But as soon as the State Fair Commissioners were paid for their work no Democrat was left by him upon that commission. The state fair is a great state institution, and it should not be made purely a Republican institution.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

Speaks Eight Times to a Variety of Audiences-Warmly Received.

Oswego, N. Y., Oct. 23.—In a northward through five counties to-day, James S. Sherman, Republican Vice-Presidential nominee, made eight speeches, closing here to-night with a meeting in Richardson's Theatre, where he and Job Hedges addressed a standing-room-only audience. Preceding this drum the meeting a big parade of marching clubs, drum corps and bands took place. Former Excise Commissioner P. W. Cullinan presided at the meeting. General campaign issues were discussed by the speakers, who paid glowing tributes to Governor Hughes, urging his re-election. Every mention of the Governor's name was greeted with tremendous cheering by the audience. Congressman Charles L. Knapp also made a brief address.

The day's work began at dawn for Mr. Sherman, of first voters, who acted as an escort to Trumanseration near the station, and Mr. Sherman was girl, who blushingly tendered a big red apple to he candidate, with her best wishes for the success of "Sunny Jim," made the hit of the day with Mr. Sherman. At Trumansburg farmers from all parts of the county had gathered, and they gave an enthusiastic reception to their guest. The spirit of Democracy, insistent and shrill, in the form of a small boy, who followed the candidate's automobile for over a mile, cheering lustily for Bryan, furnished Mr. Sherman with part of his text for the Trumansburg address.

"I have been greatly impressed," he said, "by the constant and enthusiastic cheering for Brother Bryan by just one boy about six years old. He is excusable because he is not old enough to remem-ber that dark and disastrous period from 1893 to 1897, during which this country was under the complete domination of Democracy. The voters, however, cannot forget it, although the peerless one epression to the effort to install a free trade system in America.

I suppose that it is natural as well as harmless for an honest man with despotic convictions to sincerely believe that those who are opposed to him, to his ideas of government and to his ideas as to the capability of the people to choose their own servants—I suppose that it is natural for him to honestly believe that those who do not agree with him must be actuated by some sinister motive at variance with any honest conviction. It was, no doubt, for this reason that Mr. Hughes spoke of the pending election in New York and made reference to crooks as he did.

Doubtless in his mind was the sincere if narrow thought that honest men could not be honest if they voted according to their own convictions unless their convictions were the same as his.

He was no doubt equally sincere when he said in substance that if he were defeated for Governor all hope of honest young men going into politics and doing their duty must be abandoned. This point of view would be sublime if it were not ridiculous.

Mr. Hughes seemed startled at my recent statement; he cannot understand why I waited twelve days before I announced myself as opposed to the repeal of the present law. I waited until I saw a reason for stating that my position was unchanged.

Mr. Hughes in his speech last night said that Following the Trumansburg meeting, Mr. Sher man returned to Ithaca by automobile, where he

His car made a flying trip to the Lackawanna station, where he was to catch a train for Oswego, but there again he was held up by hundreds of school girls and boys, who had been waiting for a long time. They literally swarmed over the candidate's automobile cl "Sunny Jim," and he finally consented to talk few minutes while the train waited. When the train passed through Syracuse a crowd gathered at the station to see the Vice-Presidential nominee, but Mr. Sherman was sleeping, thoroughly exhausted from his long trip and numerous speeches and they were disappointed.

FUNNY CAMPAIGN, SAYS CHAFIN.

Boston, Oct. 23 .- After touring Southeastern Mas-

It is the funniest campaign I've seen since 1876. I am convinced that there are enough voters in a doubtful mood at the present time to give a majority of the Electoral College to either Bryan or Taft. There are enough doubtful men in Ohlo, Indiana and New York to swing the electoral vote of those states to either candidate.

There is one thing of which I am certain, however, The party that is defeated at the polls on November 6 will never run another candidate for President. There is not the slightest doubt that the Prohibition candidate for President will be elected in 1812.
