

Turned too late. When the door is battered down the great stock promoter trends, with a ghastly smile on his face.

Mr. Maughan's principal achievement in this play is the creation of a powerful part for Mr. Boucherle. It is one of those versatile actor's most powerful impersonations. With fine variety of play and not a little subtlety he conveys a vivid impression of an unscrupulous adventurer, with audacious swagger and imperious will, trampling ruthlessly over those opposing him in business or politics, brutal and domineering in manner, with coarse, ungovernable passions, and cynical delight in wrongdoing and a good-humored geniality in dealing with friends and foe. So thoroughly is the part thought out in detail that the piteous whines for mercy seem as natural as the bullying and the hypocrisy; and when every resource has been exhausted the masquerade of sardonic despair is slightly assumed with a whimsical smile. It is great acting, with tremendous power behind it.

WINS SHAKESPEARE PRIZE

Woman Gets $1,500 for New Play of Pled Piper Legend.

London, March 16.—The prize of $1,500 conferred by the governor of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre in Stratford-on-Avon for the best play has been won by Joseph Preston Peabody with "The Piper." MISS MANNERING AFTER ESTATE

A word was received from Milwaukee last night that Miss Mary Manning had bought Oconomowoc, the former summer home of the late James Eckels.

Miss Mannering, who is playing in "Man's World" at the Comedy Theatre, said that she had not bought the estate, but that she had made an offer for it. She said that her father-in-law, William Manning, house, which cost $139,000 to build, was located, she said, just outside of Milwaukee, on a piece of ground twenty-seven acres in extent, situated at a sign in the neighborhood of $100,000.

NAZIMOVA'S THEATRE OPENS SOON

Mme. Nazimova will be the opening attraction at the new Schubert theatre at 284th street, just west of Maxine Elliott's Theatre. The house is rapidly nearing completion and will be ready for use in ten weeks. It will be known as Nazimova's 39th Street Theatre.

Mme. Nazimova will appear in a repertory of plays, including "Little Eyolf," "Lady Inger of Ostrat," "The Wild Duck," "The Master Builder," "An Ideal Wife" and "The Sea Gull."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Mme. Olly's opening performance as Dalry's Theatre has been postponed from Saturday to March 23. Another postponement after Henry Bernstein's "Baccarat," has been changed to "The Whirlwind," under which title it was presented in London.

James K. Hackett will make a trip to the Pacific Coast at the end of his season in "Monseigneur Beaucaire," which opens on Easter Monday. He will play in San Francisco for eight weeks in a repertory of plays, including "The Treader of Zenda," "The Crisis," "Don Caesar's Return," "Samson," "Monseigneur Beaucaire," "The Prince of Jenotte" and "The Walls of Jericho."

Sophus Michaelis, author of "A Son of the People," and Mrs. Michaelis will soon resume their tour of the world, visiting all the leading cities of the United States, then going to Europe and returning home via Denmark through Russia. Mr. and Mrs. Michaelis will leave this city immediately after the first appearance of John Mason in "A Son of the People" at the Hackett Theatre, where he is announced for an indefinite engagement following his performances at The New Theatre.

Harrison Grey Fiske has arranged with Conductor Birnbaum to give up a novel orchestral score by Modest Mussorgsky, "Hansel," in which Mrs. Fiske will be seen at the Lyceum Theatre. This will be the first use of this instrument in this country since it was first heard in Strauss' "Salome" at the Metropolitan Opera House. Mr. Fiske himself conducted the orchestra. The orchestra of this instrument with the voices of the angels' chorus that appears in Hansel's dream will give an appropriate and beautiful effect.

When Miss Adelaide Sharp, who plays the part of the light hearted German maid Linda in "Bright Eyes," reached the New York Theatre last night she was told that the death of her father had ended tomorrow in Fall River, Mass. Her managers were at a quandary as to who should play her part, but Miss Sharp relieved them of their anxiety by playing the role as usual. She will continue her performances to-day and to-morrow and go to Fall River on Sunday to attend her father's funeral.

WANTS OLD SOUTH CHURCH.

Brooklyn Man Offers to Buy It for School Children.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Boston, March 16.—A citizen of Brooklyn today telegraphed Mayor Fitzgerald making an offer in behalf of the school children of Brooklyn to purchase the Old South Church in Boston. The telegram was signed by Charles S. Southard, of No. 133 Broadway street, Brooklyn, and read as follows:

"Higher criticism is attempting to destroy Genesis, but for God's sake don't destroy Faith in Old South Church. Will Boston sell it to the school children?"

The brooding mind evidently got the church mixed up, as the controversy at present going on happens to be over the ownership of the Old North Church. The Mayor informed Mr. Southard that there is no immediate danger of letting the Old South Church go into the hands of speculators.
