SIPP, GRAFT WITNESS, ARRESTED IN JERSEY

Police Make Serious Charge Against Their Accuser So He May Be Extradited.

HOPE TO WEAKEN STORY

Harry H. Schlacht's Tale of Assault After Arranging to Give Evidence of Graft.

George A. Sipp, the Harlem hotelkeeper who swore on the stand of the curran aldermanic committee that he had paid $100 protection every month for more than five years to the police, was arrested last night in Atlantic City, according to an announcement made at Police Headquarters here last night.

Sipp, after giving sensational testimony before the aldermen, dropped out of sight. He was at Police Headquarters a few days thereafter, and though questioned by the police was not asked to subscribe to an affidavit, nor was he subpenned. A few days later, when Commissioner Waldo Buddenly became active in the case of Patrolman Fox, who was the man named by Sipp as "collector," the police were unable to find Sipp to subpenna him. Waldo's activity was put down to a desire to "beat Whitman to the case," and the arrest of Fox by Waldo's order found the case in a situation in which it was impossible to proceed because of the police.

In spite of police attempts to discredit the case of patrolman for the case in a situation of the police, was arrested last night in Atlantic City, according to the report of Harry H. Schlacht that at $45 p. m., on January 3, he was assaulted and robbed at No. 1 Avenue B, I have the honor to report that from a thorough investigation made by detectives of the Union Market station no evidence was secured to verify the truthfulness of this report. Schlacht contends that he was knocked unconscious when assaulted, that a handker-chief was tied over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and that a blanket was drawn over his mouth and possible to proceed because of the police begligence with regard to Sipp.

On Monday last Sipp was located in Newark, but after a conference with Detective Conway he refused to come back into this state, where he could be served with a subpœna. Conway had no sooner departed, however, than Sipp calmly came over to New York and travelled the length of Manhattan Island from the Cortlandt ptreet tunnel station to his home, No. 56 West 130th street, without being seen by District Attorney Whitman and the grand my of the Commissioner's ten thousand Thereafter it was reported that the police, stung into activity by Sipp's casual trip through town, were busy collecting affidavits on which to base a serious tharge against him. It was said that the sharge would be an extraditable one, and that if Sipp were located again, no matter in what state, he would be brought back to New York.

From the statement given out at Police Headquarters last night that a detective with a warrant had been sent to Atlantic City to get Sipp, after he had been arrested by the police of that city, it is believed that an effort will be made thoroughly to discredit Sipp by the prosecution of the serious charges made against him. In that way his evidence against Fox might be weakened, and although it is not believed that the police would go to such lengths to protect Fox, a patrolman, it is well understood in the department that Sipp's evidence against Fox, if given before a grand jury, would point accusingly to a police captain and

In spite of police attempts to discredit his story, Schlacht will have opportunity to prove his contentions before the "John Doe" grand jury when that body, specifically empowered to investigate crime and police relations with it, meets again

Willing to Face Grand Jury.

Schlacht said last night he would be glad of the chance to tell his story to jury. He explained that six or seven detectives called on him yesterday, some pretending to be doctors who wanted to make an examination of his scalp. In view of this he could not understand, he said, how the report was turned in to Dougherty saying that he was unable to show upon what part of the body he had been assaulted. Those who know the young man said that the right side of his head was badly swollen yesterday, and that he certainly bore evidences of having been recently assaulted.

The books of the pedlers' association which Schlacht said had been mutilated bore out that part of his story upon examination yesterday. Several of them had been apparently wantonly torn, though not in a way to make their contents uneadable, and the cash book, which he said contained the notations of graft pay ments under the guise of "sick benefits," had the pages from No. 1 to 21 torn completely out. The minute book was in Yiddish, and two other books, which he said would also throw light on his story, were taken by his assailant. The mutilated books still in his possession will be handed to the District Attorney.

Story at Inquest Village Hall.

Her Husband and Mrs. Edey Were to Get Divorces in Texas -Scheme Failed, Then He Sued for $100,000.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Patchogue, Long Island, Jan. 4.-In the village hall at Bellport this afternoon Coroner E. S. Moore held an inquest into the death of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C Edey at their home in Bellport last Thursday morning. The events leading up to the double tragedy, in which Edev killed his wife and then shot himself. were bared in all their sombre details by Mrs. Gardner Murdock, wife of the village liveryman.

Coroner. The first, James McCarthy, a in February, and it is expected to recomhackman, testified that Edey gave him mend drastic legislation to curb the alorders to have a horse and carriage at his home on Thursday morning-the day of the tragedy. The second witness was ment control and supervision of stock Dr. L. C. Baldwin, who told of being exchanges and clearing house operations. called to the Edey home and of finding Mr. and Mrs. Edey dead.

When Mrs. Nellie Murdock, wife of to mind the stares and half audible comments of her village neighbors. She readily answered the questions put to her. She told of how Edey had arranged that Gardner Murdock and he should exchange wives, and how, because Edey fully hatched scheme failed.

Scheme to Trade Wives Failed.

She seemed to consider it a perfectly natural thing, under the circumstances, that her husband should institute a suit for alienation of affections against Edey. The amount to be sued for ($100,000) was to be divided into three equal parts, she testified-one-third to her, one-third to her husband and the other third to the lawyers. The papers had been served on Edey only a few days before the murder and suicide. Mrs. Murdock started out glibly with her side of the sordid story.

"I went away from Bellport in October," she said. "I have seen my husband only twice since. Once I went to visit him in New Haven, and the other time to Staten Island, where he was employed. Our relations on that occasion were merely those of friends. I don't love my husband any more-not as I used to. We were just friends. Mrs. Murdock said she and her husband were together on Staten Island at the time the papers in the suit were served "He and I were on good on Edey. terms," she said, "and I thought my husand deserved to be paid for the loss of my affections. Edey broke up our home, He made plans he did not fulfil. He got ne to leave my home last July."

Mrs. Murdock said her husband had suggested bringing suit against Edey, and she agreed with him. They thought the case would be settled out of court, she said.

After Mrs. Murdock had finished her testimony, Coroner Moore adjourned the inquest without appointing a date for the next hearing, saying he had not yet de-

ELLISON TO INVESTIGATE Named by Sulzer to Conduct Insurance Inquiry.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Albany, Jan. 4.-Governor Sulzer to-day sent a letter to William B. Ellison, of New York, announcing that he had designated him as special commissioner to conduct an investigation into "every phase of the subject of fire insurance." Ellison had called the Governor's attention to evils which he believed resulted from the present form of the standard fire insurance policy and also to the practice of over-insurance, encouraging arson by gangs of criminals. He recommended an inquiry and agreed to serve without compensation if the Governor gave him the proper power. "I desire to commend your action," wrote the Governor, "in thus serving the community as a most welcome illustration of the public spirit of our citizens I shall be glad to receive your report at as early a date as you find practicable.'
