Spence and Finley Tie for the All-Around Scholastic Title

Deadlocked at Ten Points Apiece in Erasmus School Games.

EACH WILL RECEIVE A WINNER'S MEDAL

Huge Crowd Sees Great Programme in the 13th Regiment Armory in Brooklyn.

Bernie Spence, captain of the track team of Poly Prep, of Brooklyn, and Hal Finley, of Morris High School, of The Bronx, tied for the all-around scholastic championship of America, at the annual indoor games of Erasmus Hall High School last night. The games were held in the armory of the 13th Regiment, Brooklyn, in the presence of some 5,000 enthusiastic spectators.

Spence and Finley deadlocked for first honors with 10 points each to their credit. Hammerschlag, of Stuyvesant, was third with 17 points; Lasser, of Central High, was fourth with 20 points, while Hudson, of Yonkers, and H. L. Bowman, of Mount Vernon, were next with 23 and 25 points, respectively.

When the points were counted and the men found to be tied, the managers of the meet decided to give both men a gold, diamond-studded medal, and to dispense with the silver medal usually awarded to the second place man. Spence and Finley tossed for the original medal, which was won by Spence.

The lads came down to the half-mile run with Spence leading. He had to win third place to at least tie, while it was up to Finley to win to order to tie. Both lads ran at the limit of their speed and stamina. In the early stages of the race Spence took the lead and held on well, but dropped back, and Finley went out and blazed the trail.

After two and one-half laps the red and blue banded jersey of Hammerschlag flashed to the fore, but he soon dropped back and was lost in the shuffle. At the start of the final lap the Morris lad rushed out into the lead, and from then on until the end held command of the situation.

Not only did Boughton win the mile run, but he also ran circles around his field and captured the gold medal in the half-mile event. He tangoed across the line well in advance of his teammate, Bill Angus, who showed the way to Joe Wolcott, of De Witt Clinton High School, the third man. The time was 2:07, but, forced to his limit, there is little doubt that he could have clipped his time by two seconds. Wolcott made a gritty finish, but he was not quite up to getting into the honor places.

C. Miller, of Tome School, showed his heels to a fleet field of novices in the quartre-mile run, and, leading all the way, won by yards in 56 2-5 seconds. Katz, of De Witt Clinton, found that a stern chase is a long chase, and he kept up until the last inch, just about leaping home in advance of C. Wyss, of Stuyvesant. Billy Mesloh, of Stevens Prep., won the 220-yard dash in most impressive style after a clever race.

Hal Finley, of Morris, scored first blood in the Pentathlon, winning the 100-yard dash by about half a yard. A. Hammerschlag, of Stuyvesant, was second, with Bernie Spence, captain of the Poly Prep team, favorite with the crowd, in third position and coming strong at the end. Lasser, of Central High School, of Newark, won the point for fourth place.

There was much dissatisfaction because Hudson, of Yonkers High School, and H. L. Bowman, of Mount Vernon, did not start in the 100-yard dash, but competed in the 220-yard hurdle race. Neither won a place over the timbers. The other athletes protested against them, claiming that by not starting in the first race they forfeited all right to compete in any other events. After a lengthy discussion the officials decided to have the boys run a special race of 100 yards to decide fifth and sixth places.

The one-mile run was one of the prettiest races seen on a scholastic track in many a meeting. Charley Boughton, the flyer from Central High School, of Newark, broke the tape about five yards in front of Frank Jenkins, of Far Rockaway High School, the champion of the Public Schools Athletic League. L. Levine, of Bayonne High School, was in third position, while Jean Moriarty, of Richmond Hill High School, trailed home in fourth place. Boughton's time was 4 minutes and 37 2-5 seconds, only 3-5th of a second behind the record established by himself last week.

The 16-pound shot-put in the Pentathlon saw Spence win first place, with 35 feet 9½ inches. The clever Finley came next in order, with 34 feet 2⅞ inches to his credit, while Bowman, of Mount Vernon, annexed third honors with 30 feet 11 inches. Hammerschlag was fourth, with 29 feet 3½ inches.

Spence insured himself against defeat in the all around championship by winning the running high jump. In this event he cleared 5 feet 1 inch, one inch above Finley. Lasser, of Central High School, was third, with 4 feet 11 inches.

West Point, N. Y., Feb. 7.—At last the Army basketball team has won a game. The Cadets buried New York University this afternoon by a score of 41 to 14, showing wonderfully improved team work and sharpshooters' accuracy in trying for goals from scrimmage. The Violet five was outclassed from the start and never had a look-in.

DOUBLES CHAMPIONS LOSE

Gould and Huhn, Court Tennis Stars, Show Poor Form.

Philadelphia, Feb. 7.—Jay Gould, of New York, and W. H. T. Huhn, the national court tennis doubles champions, were defeated here to-day in a special match with Joshua Crane and G. R. Fearing, of Boston, by three sets to one.

The scores were 6–5, 6–2, 4–6, 6–3. Gould and Huhn recently defeated Crane and Fearing in Boston.

COLUMBIA SEVEN WINS

Hockey Team Shuts Out Cornell on Slush-Covered Ice.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Columbia defeated Cornell here to-day by the score of 2 to 0 in a game which was necessarily slow on account of the slushy condition of the ice. Although Cornell had the better offence, Columbia's defence was so strong that at no time was the visitors' goal in danger.

For eleven minutes the men scrambled on the ice, neither side having the advantage until Todd, the Columbia centre, dashed down the ice for the first goal. Seven minutes later he repeated the trick, and for the rest of the game there was no scoring.

The second half was all Cornell's, and had not so much slush covered the ice Hunter's rush for the goal would have made a point for Cornell. Reynolds was penalized seven minutes in the first part of the last half for pushing Day over the embankment. Webb later received a head wound, and two minutes more were taken out. Todd was easily the star of the game, and it was only with the combined efforts of several Cornell men that the puck could be taken from him.

The line-up and summary follow:

Cornell.	Position.	Columbia.

CORNELL SMOTHERS YALE AT BASKETBALL

Maintains Long Lead Almost from Start, Helped Greatly by Elis' Poor Shooting.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Cornell took a jump in intercollegiate basketball here this afternoon in defeating Yale by a score of 40 to 26. The game was Cornell's from the time Captain Halsted shot the first goal. Goals by Lunden and Brown soon followed, and for the remainder of the game Cornell maintained a lead of ten points.

Only at the beginning of the second half did the Yale five take a brace, but even then they were soon powerless before Cornell's whirlwind attack. Yale lost because of the poor basket shooting.

Both teams were equally fast, but Yale seemed the more expert on covering. Smith distinguished himself by getting all but one of his foul goals, while Halsted missed four.

The latter part of the second half was marked by excessive fouling and substitutions on both sides. Captain Halsted and Lunden, the veteran from last year, who has just been placed on the team, carried off the honors of the game.

The summary follows:

CORNELL.	Fdg	Flg	P.	YALE.	Fdg	Flg	P.

FOR FOOT FAULT CHANGE

Cunningham Amends Suggestion for Lawn Tennis Rule.

William Cunningham, who made a suggestion some time ago for a new rule covering the much discussed foot fault, has amended his plan to make it more workable. Mr. Cunningham hopes to have the matter considered by the National Lawn Tenis Association at its meeting this month.

The rule which he would have adopted is as follows:

"Foot Fault—Mark a shadow line 18 inches back of the base line and keep server's forward toe on, or behind, this line.

"When serving players may assume any position desired, but they must not move forward until ball is hit, otherwise foot fault will be called.

"If this new rule is too drastic to be adopted at once in the United States, work it out at first as a penalty measure, viz.: Any infringement of base line by server—or 'first' foot fault—the server must stay on ribbon line until next set. Players must also elect to use the ribbon service at all times."

Baseball Problems for Fans by Billy Evans

Written Especially for The Tribune by the American League Umpire.

A PLAY that does not happen very often came up in one of the minor leagues last year and caused a big argument. One of the teams refused to accept the ruling of the umpire, and for a time threatened to forfeit the game, but finally consented to finish under protest. The score was very close at the time, the team at bat being a run or two behind. The first batter got a pass, the next man hit for a double, so that at least a run or two looked sure, with nobody out. The next batter hit a liner back at the pitcher, who threw up his gloved hand more in self-defence than anything else. The ball carromed off the gloved hand, its speed being slightly checked, and rolled into centre field, just grazing the shoulder of the umpire, who was standing back of the pitcher at the time.

The runners on second and third scored rather easily, but the batter, who tried to reach second, was retired at that base on a rather close play. There was a big kick from the team at bat when the umpire ordered the runners who had scored to return to second and third, while the batter, who had been retired at second, was granted first base. The team at the bat for a time threatened to leave the field, but as a big crowd was in attendance the game was finished after a protest had been filed with the umpire.

The next batter hit to the pitcher, and the runner at third was retired at the plate. The next batter hit to the shortstop and a double play resulted, retiring the side without a run. Since the club at the bat in this inning lost the game by a one run margin the manager was furious at the close of the game. Did the umpire rule correctly?

(Copyright, 1914, by W. G. Evans.)

Answer to Yesterday's Problem.

I'll wager that a large majority of the fans who attended the game left the park believing the home team had won, 7 to 6, when in reality the score ended 6 to 5 in favor of the visitors, just as it stood before the batter hit what was regarded as a triple, driving over what appeared to be the necessary two runs to win. The batter in failing to touch first base made a force out on what appeared to be a three-bagger. When the first baseman touched first base with the ball he retired the batsman before he reached that base. The rules say that no runs can be scored on a force third out; hence the two runs that were over the plate were rendered void by the failure of the batsman to touch first base. The first baseman went about the play so quietly that few noticed him, and many did not even see the umpire declare the out. One fan told me the following day that not until he read the papers that morning did he know that the home team had been defeated.—B. E.

EUROPE FROWNS ON OLYMPIC EXPENSES

Russia Alone Is Willing to Spend Government Money on the Athletes.

FRENCH MINISTERS LACK ENTHUSIASM

Subsidy Defeated in the German Reichstag, and England Remains Apathetic.

[From a Staff Correspondent of The Tribune.]

London, Feb. 1.—Every one is having a crack at the poor old Olympic games these days, and nothing but gloom is to be seen anywhere on this side of the Atlantic.

Following the recent unpropitious examples set by the British and the Germans, the French and the Greeks are mocking at all appeals for Olympic funds. Even the Poles are grieving because the German Reichstag won't vote them a bankroll to play with.

And since the death of Lord Strathcona there have sprung up rumors that he privately subscribed most of the funds to insure Canada's representation heretofore, and that Canadian athletes may have difficulty in finding another such generous patron.

The one ray of hope to be found in the pervading gloom is that it is better for the nations to be peeved now than in 1916. By then they all will have got over it, and each one will come forward with its usual quota of splendid athletes and the funds necessary to pay their expenses at Berlin. It is safe to take that much for granted.

In France the question of a government grant in aid of Olympic preparations is languishing because Cabinet ministers are suspected of passing the buck to one another. A deputation from the Comité National des Sports has waited upon Mr. Doumergue, president of the Council of the Ministry for Foreign Affairs, to express its great disappointment at the decision of his department not to make the grant of $20,000 toward the representation of France at the Olympic games of 1916.

Mr. Doumergue replied with exquisite diplomacy that he is in hearty sympathy with the Comité National and the work it has undertaken. He expressed himself as fully convinced of the importance of the issue, and he gave the deputation to understand that his heart was wrung by his inability to include any subsidy in the estimate for foreign affairs. Such a grant doubtless would be forthcoming, he suggested, from the Minister of the Interior, and would have his hearty support.

Under the stimulating influence of this suggestion, the deputation hurried to bring the matter to the attention of Mr. René Renoult, Minister of the Interior, who soon showed that as a diplomat he is not far behind his colleague.

Mr. Renoult almost embraced the deputation in his great joy at receiving it—and hastily passed it on to another Cabinet colleague. Such a grant should, he opined, be of the utmost importance to the War Department, the training of the army being an essential of the scheme! Therefore, with great heartiness, he advised the Comité National to lay the urgency of the matter before the always enterprising Minister for War, who at once would grasp the point that if France is to be worthily—victoriously, too, he hoped—represented at Berlin in 1916 the comité must have the sum asked for.

With many cries of "Vive la France!" and "Vive la République!" the deputation retired in an atmosphere of enthusiasm.

But the always enterprising Minister for War seems to lack the saving grace of humor, and some apprehension seems to have arisen that he will grimly resent any attempt to pillage his war chest on behalf of such a holiday affair as the Olympic games. Schemes for an aerial army transport are more in his line, and he has visions of a cavalry that rides the clouds.

Russia is taking quite a different view. Its Council of Ministers, or Cabinet, has approved the formation of a special board for sports, the functions of which will include "the devising of scientific methods of physical culture in conformity with the special conditions of the country and people." That is a pretty tall order, considering the immensity of the Russian Empire. However, the movement is to be dignified with a new Cabinet minister at its head, and a ministry of sport, which will not have to go around begging for funds from other government departments.

Among German athletes the rejection in the Reichstag of an imperial subsidy for the Olympic games (to be held in the German capital) is not regarded as final. Another vote is almost certain to be taken. The majority that voted down the subsidy was composed of an agglomeration of warring elements in German politics; consequently it is not regarded as an impregnable majority. Its three principal factions—usually opposed to one another, but combining to down the subsidy—are the Social Democrats, the Poles and the Roman Catholic Centre. Their respective reasons for voting against an imperial subsidy for the Olympic games have nothing in common.

The Poles consider that Poland should be represented as a nation; therefore they are opposed to any government grant to the games for a purely German objective.

What the outcome will be in France and England in regard to financing the selection of candidates and sending teams to compete at Berlin cannot be predicted so confidently. In England the most enterprising section of supporters of British athletics is despondent, in consequence of the hopeless failure of the appeal made to the nation by the Duke of Westminster, Field Marshal Earl Roberts, the late Lord Strathcona and others in high places for a publicly subscribed fund of $500,000.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Williamstown, Mass., Feb. 7.—The Williams hockey team overwhelmed the R. P. I. seven here this afternoon on the Weston Field rink by a score of 8 to 0. The ice was in wretched condition, and the numerous holes in the surface made good team work impossible.

Naples Greets Yankee Nines

Naples, Italy, Feb. 7.—The baseball players of the New York club of the National League and the Chicago club of the American League arrived here today from Egypt on board the steamship Prinz Heinrich, and were greeted heartily by the local sporting clubs and the members of the American colony.

They were accompanied to their hotel with a great display of enthusiasm.

WALTHER SPRINTS TO WIN BY YARDS

Scratch Man Carries Off Honors in Race at the Paulist Games.

Carl Walther, of the New York Athletic Club, who was scratch man, defeated a good field in decisive fashion in the three-quarter mile run at the Paulist A. C. games, held at the 12th Regiment armory last night. He was clocked in 3 minutes 18 seconds.

Beardsley, of Central Congregational A. C., who was allotted a handicap of 30 yards, took the lead soon after passing the first two furlongs, and set a merry pace. He was leading by five yards when the bell rang on the final lap. Then Walther and his clubmate, O'Connor, let out a terrific spurt.

Walther passed his clubmate and about fifty yards from the end caught Beardsley and won by five yards. O'Connor passed Beardsley in the last ten yards.

James H. Ravenhall, of St. Christopher A. C., the dusky flyer who wears the junior national championship crown, made a poor showing in the 60-yard dash from scratch mark. He finished a hopeless last in his heat.

Hal Helland, of the Xavier A. C., another top-notcher, who shared the back mark with the ebony youth, fared much better. He reached the final heat and was nosed out for consolation prize by Edwin Jones, of Salem Crescent A. C. D. Pulitzer, unattached, formerly of the Sheridan A. C., who has the earmarks of a future star, won from the 5-foot mark easily. William E. Moriarty, of the Bronx Church House, was second, two yards behind.

The summaries follow:

1,000-yard run (handicap; closed to C. A. L.)—Won by F. J. Krollghn, Loughlin Lyceum (55 yards); Charles W. Hills, Loughlin Lyceum (58 yards), second; J. Hand, Dominican Lyceum (25 yards), third. Time, 2:25 1-5.

TO INSIST ON SWIMMING

Wesleyan Faculty Adopts Regulation for New Course.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Middletown, Conn., Feb. 7.—Feeling that every man should know how to swim, the Wesleyan faculty has just adopted a regulation making a course in swimming compulsory.

Classes are to be conducted daily by a regular swimming instructor and attendance will be marked as in the regular courses in the curriculum, credit being given toward the students' diplomas for the time thus spent.

More than one-third of the men in college are unable to swim, according to a census recently made among the student body, and all these in consequence will be obliged to use the pool regularly each week.

SQUAD OF YANKEES TO LEAVE THURSDAY

Pitching Coach Will Take Members of Staff to Hot Springs.

M'GRAW'S STARS NOT DEMANDING INCREASES

Ebbets, Jr., Says Shift of Jersey City Team to Brooklyn "Might Be Good Idea."

The Yankees will get the jump on all the local clubs in the matter of spring training. Tom Daly will leave here on Thursday with Ray Keating and Marty McHale. The coach will add Ray Caldwell, Charley Rose, Dode Criss and Hick Schulz to his pitching staff in St. Louis on Friday. Bill Reynolds, the catcher, will join the party at Hot Spring, Ark., where two weeks will be devoted to boiling away excess weight.

Frank Chance plans to leave Los Angeles on February 26, and will go straight to the training camp at Houston, where all the men have been ordered to report on March 1. Nothing has been heard yet from Holden, the outfielder, who made a good impression in the short trial he received at the end of last season.

John B. Foster, secretary of the New York Giants, said yesterday that Matheson, Tesreau, Fromme, Wilson and Snodgrass, who are now in California, are not holding out for increased salaries. According to Foster all the California contingent will be on hand at Marlin, and no trouble is expected to arise over a little formality like a contract.

Charles H. Ebbets, jr., declared yesterday that the Jersey City International League team had not made an application as yet for permission to invade Brooklyn. Young Mr. Ebbets was not willing to speak for the Brooklyn club in the matter, but in his capacity of president of the Newark club he stated that he thought the shift "might be a good idea."

A rule limiting the catcher to a "box" four feet in width will be suggested by Henry O'Day, the umpire, at the baseball rules meeting here to-morrow, as a means of preventing the intentional hop on balls. The umpire also wants to get a stringent rule which will keep the manager on the bench and limit protests to field captains.

The establishment of a third organized baseball club in Chicago is a question which will probably create no end of bitterness during the joint meeting of the National and the American leagues this week. Ban Johnson is said to be in favor of transferring the St. Paul club, of the American Association.

If the shift is made the club could be used as a bribe to buy off Charles Weeghman, of the Federals, or a weapon against him, according to the way in which conditions shape up. There is also talk of transferring Toledo to some city where can be used as a counter attraction to Federal League team.

John Heydler, secretary of the National League, locked up his office in this city yesterday and went to Harrisburg, where he managed to pry Governor Tener away from the affairs of Pennsylvania long enough to consult him on several matters of baseball importance.

Eddie Lenox, once third baseman of the Superbas and later with the Cubs, has signed a contract with the St. Louis Federals.

The only members of the Brooklyn team who are still unsigned are Hummel, Gagnier, Romanach, the Cuban shortstop, Joe Herbert, the pitcher, and Tinker. Charles H. Ebbets said yesterday that "Tex" Erwin, whom he captured during a dash through the West, had been a "Bonesetter" Reese during the winter. According to the president of the Brooklyn club, the condition of the catcher could be no pinker.

Club Match for Frenchies.

The French Bulldog Club of America will hold a club match on Wednesday, February 11, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Hotel Gregorian.

Jules Feroud will judge, and trophies, medals and ribbons will be given in all classes. The match is open to every one with a Frenchie to show.

Herd Defeats Duncan on Links.

Nice, Feb. 7.—In a seventy-two-hole exhibition match, which ended to-day, Alexander Herd, the former British open golf champion, defeated George Duncan, another English player, who holds the French championship, by 4 up and 3 to play.

College Football Coach Now "Chained" to Bench

the ball must be put in play on the 20-yard line from scrimmage formation after a touchback. In other words, the free kick from this point, which has come into disuse, is eliminated. This move was taken to simplify the code, as the rule on the subject covered about a page and a half and was cumbersome and largely unnecessary.

New Penalty on Forward Pass.

The intentional grounding of a forward pass, of which much has been written and spoken, cannot be done in future without the loss of ten yards from the point where the ball was put in play. Under the rules last year the intentional grounding of the ball, which went as an incompleted forward pass, oftentimes worked a hardship and nullified a good defensive play in forcing back the man with the ball. It was felt that credit should be given where credit was due, and consequently the play which Prichard, the Army quarterback, used to such good purpose on several occasions in the Navy game was barred.

A penalty of five yards was imposed against the side which has a player out of bounds when the ball is snapped, while to clear up any chance for a wrong interpretation Rule VII, Section 1, was amended by cutting out the word "take," so as to make it compulsory for the team losing the toss to kick off if the other side elects to defend one goal or the other.

A codification committee to confer with and assist Walter Camp, editor of the rules, was appointed as follows: W. S. Langford, Trinity; W. N. Morice, Pennsylvania, and Nathan A. Tufts, Brown.

The central board of officials was appointed as follows: Dr. James A. Babbitt, chairman; Walter Camp, C. W. Savage, Parke H. Davis, T. K. Hall, Percy D. Haughton, H. G. Cope and Professor Alonzo A. Stagg.

A committee on officials also was named, the make-up being the same as that of the codification committee.

All the members of the regular football rules committee were in attendance, as follows:

E. K. Hall, Dartmouth; Dr. J. A. Babbitt, Haverford; Professor C. W. Savage, Oberlin; Dr. Harry L. Williams, Minnesota; Clyde Williams, Iowa; Harris G. Cope, University of the South; Lieutenant D. J. Sultan, West Point; Walter Camp, Yale; Carl Williams, Pennsylvania; Percy D. Haughton, Harvard; Paul J. Dashiell, Naval Academy; Parke H. Davis, Princeton; Professor A. A. Stagg, Chicago, and Captain J. W. Beacham, Cornell.

Several officials, including W. S. Langford, Trinity, and N. A. Tufts, Brown, were called into the meeting at the morning session to express their views on many points which came up for discussion.

E. K. Hall, chairman of the committee, admitted that many suggestions for changes bearing on the forward pass, lessening the value of the field goal, and other mooted questions were made and considered, but that it was unnecessary to go into detail, as the members on the whole were in favor of giving the game more or less of a rest cure, feeling that the code now in force was reasonably satisfactory and that the game would profit by a little more settling.
