

OHIO REPUBLICANS COUNT ON VICTORY

Hope to Win Many Discontented Progressives and Democrats.

STRONG SENTIMENT FOR AMALGAMATION

Get Together Meeting This Week to Promote Merger of Moose with Old Party.

(By Telegraph to The Tribune.) Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 22.—Sentiment favor of an amalgamation of the Republican and Progressive parties in Ohio is expected to crystallize at a get-together meeting to be held in Memorial Hall in this city on the night of February 24, under the direction of the Republican State Committee.

Addresses will be delivered by the principal speakers and several men were allied with the Progressive party in 1912 but who have returned to the Republican fold.

There is little hope that there will be a complete merger of the Republican and Progressive parties. The leaders of the latter are opposed to such a combination, but sentiment in favor of amalgamation is prevalent among those who are for Taft in 1912 and the rank and file of those who cast their ballot for Roosevelt in the election of that year.

Walter F. Brown, formerly Republican and now state chairman of the Progressive party, is the chief obstacle in the way of a complete merger. Brown is at the head of the national organization of the Progressive party in Ohio to enter a combination with the Republican party.

Mr. Brown's attitude of Brown and James G. Garfield, Secretary of the national Progressive party, many men who were active in the Progressive party in 1912 have announced their return to the Republican party. These men who served as district and county committeemen of the Progressive party and others of equal prominence.

Mayor Turnbull of Canton, who was very active in the Progressive party in 1912, announced last week that he had withdrawn from that party and would support Representative J. J. Whitely in his race for the Democratic nomination for Governor against Governor J. M. Cox. James E. Barr, Mayor and postmaster at Cambridge, declared last week that he would support the Republican party in the future and regarded as chairman of the Progressive committee of Guernsey County. The names of dozens of men who were active in the Progressive party in 1912 and who have returned to the Republican fold are given, and in practically all cases the homecoming has announced with numerous who intend to take the same step.

Who depends on whom the Republican nominee for Governor. If a Republican is named it is not to be expected that many who believe in the policies of Theodore Roosevelt will go back to the Republicans. But if Representative Frank B. Willis, of the 8th District, or Representative S. D. Fess, of the 6th District, is placed at the head of the ticket thousands of men who voted for Roosevelt and A. L. Gardford, who ran for Governor in 1912, will be found in the ranks of the Republicans. Mr. Gardford will this year be the party's candidate for United States senator, while James I. Garfield will make the race for Governor.
