Superbas Beat Yankees and Fans Breathe Again

Crowd Enjoys Taste of Baseball and Wilbert Robinson Gets Dedicated.

GAME GOES TO EXTRA INNING IN BROOKLYN

Free Gift of a Base and Horseshoe of Roses Help Make Day Happy Across the Bridge.

An unidentified contributor of roses and Pieh, a pitcher apprenticed with the New York Yankees, formed a working partnership at Ebbets Field yesterday to dedicate Wilbert Robinson and the first real baseball game of the season here. They succeeded. The new manager of the Brooklyn team led his men to victory over the Yankees by a score of 4 to 3 after ten hard fought innings.

The roses came in the first inning. Pieh was more tardy in making his gift, but it was welcome just the same. In the tenth frame the long, loose twirler gave Stengel a base on balls and forced Wheat home with the winning run.

Wheat is in no danger of being pauperized by the run which was thrust upon him, for earlier in the day he showed a willingness to do something on his own account by hammering the ball over the rightfield fence.

But after all due credit has been given to Wheat and Pieh there is no gainsaying the influence of the roses. When a large floral horseshoe was handed to Robinson in the first inning he looked for a moment like the original "What are you gonna do with it?" man. But he did know.

"Give a rose to every lady in the grandstand," said the gallant manager, stripping the horseshoe and handing the flowers to the ushers. Colonel Roosevelt, Anna Shaw and ever so many other persons have pointed out that when the women are united on any project they are bound to win. Yesterday they were all for Robinson.

It is certain that the roses did not grow near Ebbets Field, for the wind was a north one and it bore greetings from the Arctic in every puff.

It must be told that in spite of the damp, raw day the players of both teams appeared in fine condition and played fast, snappy baseball.

The attendance was not large, but it was representative. Among the 4,500 or so fans present there were the "take 'im out" man, the "let him hit it" rooter and the "Oh, you robber!" ruffian.

Wilbert Robinson, who used to collaborate with John McGraw in Giants' victories, received a hearty welcome, and Norman Elberfeld, once a New York Yankee, also was cheered.

The old favorites, Jake Daubert, Zach Wheat, Nap Rucker and the rest, were not forgotten.

Enough folk also from this side of the bridge were on hand to make the entrance of Chance and his Hilltoppers theatrically effective. William E. Kelly, postmaster of Brooklyn, began the game by tossing out the ball. His arm is in bad condition.

Reulbach, who began in the box for Brooklyn, was in trouble in the first inning, but got out by making Holden bite on a third strike which was far too close. McHale, who gave a good account of himself for the Yankees, was found for a run in the latter half of the inning. He walked Dalton and allowed him to go to second by fumbling Daubert's grounder and losing a chance for a double play. Wheat brought the man from Newark home with a first class single to right field.

In the third the Yankees made it even. Walsh went to first on four balls. He sprinted for second on a hit and run play, and Harry Williams met the ball squarely for a sizzling hit past Egan. Wheat let the ball go through him and Walsh came across the plate.

The first of the fifth showed the Brooklyn defence at its spryest. Daubert scooped up a low drive of Maisel's and beat him to first in a sliding match. Egan, who had a fine day at short field, made no fuss at all about throwing Hartzell's grounder to first while on the dead run. Zach Wheat finished things up by ploughing through many yards of mud and leaping high to catch a long drive from the bat of Walsh.

McHale and Reulbach were sent to the clubhouse to thaw out after the fifth, so that Warhop and Wagner replaced them.

Six Yankees Cut Adrift

Six Yankees were cut adrift yesterday. Frank Chance thought so little of the prowess of four of the recruits that he released them unconditionally.

Walter Hutchinson, a pitcher; Mike Ruddy and John Sullivan, infielders, and Merrall White, catcher, were all told they could go wherever they pleased.

Owen Quinn, first baseman, was sent to the New London club of the Eastern Association, and Jimmy Eschen went back to the Jersey City Internationals.

The New York squad now numbers only twenty-nine players, including Chance and Tom Daly, the coach.

Warhop got in trouble right away by passing two men, but then his underhand ball began to obey and he saved his side from harm.

In the seventh it seemed as if the Yankees would win for a certainty. A base on balls to Peckinpaugh, a stolen base, Sweeney's single, Warhop's sacrifice, a pass to Maisel and a fine rifle shot drive by Walsh made two runs. More might have come, but on an attempted double steal Maisel was fooled when McCarthy bluffed a throw to second.

Robinson destroyed a lot of grass in the latter half of the eighth. His method differs from that of Hughey Jennings and is more merciful. The leader of the Tigers chews the blades to death, but the former lieutenant of McGraw merely stamps on them. As he stamped Robinson called loudly upon his charges to do something. They did.

Dalton got a base on balls. Daubert nearly broke his back in trying to hit two of Warhop's dinkiest ones and then flied out. When Wheat swung the ball and bat were in perfect alignment. The drive landed squarely on top of the narrow fence and dropped on the far side. Dalton refused to cross the plate until he had shaken hands with Wheat. This tied the score. Pieh, who went to the mound for the Yankees, was much to blame in the tenth. He began well by striking out Dalton, but then relapsed. Daubert singled and Wheat sent him to third with another hit. Cutshaw drove a hot one to Peckinpaugh and Daubert was caught at the plate. Smith was safe on Pieh's wide throw to Williams.

With the bases full, Pieh remembered that he hadn't so much as thought of giving Robinson a present. He passed Stengel and Wheat ambled home.

The teams will meet at Ebbets Field again to-day, unless snow falls.

The fans were enthusiastic and most everybody seemed glad the days of real sport had come.

TO LAUNCH A CUP YACHT BOW FIRST

Centreboard on the Defiance to Have Estimated Drop of Eight Feet.

Bath, Me., April 2.—The sloop Defiance, under construction for the America's Cup trials, will take the water bow first when she is launched on May 11, it was announced here to-day.

George M. Pynchon, managing director of the sloop syndicate, said that this departure from the usual method of launching was a hobby of Owen, the designer, who believed that it would lessen the possibility of any accident to the rudder.

After the Defiance slides down the ways three days will be required to set up her rigging. Her hollow spars of Oregon pine are on the way here, and the sails are expected soon.

Like the other aspirants for the honor of meeting the Shamrock IV, the Defiance will have a centreboard, with an estimated drop of eight feet.

TOD'S KATOURA LAUNCHED

New Steel Schooner Will Carry Great Spread of Sail.

Bristol, R. I., April 2.—The Katoura, a steel schooner yacht, built for Robert E. Tod, former commodore of the New York Yacht Club, was successfully launched today in the presence of friends of the owner from New York and Boston.

The vessel was christened by Mrs. Tod. The Katoura is 165 feet long and built to carry unusually large spread of canvas.

IT'S A GREAT OLD GAME

PARTING : SHOTS :

Finding President Wilson's reception of the Brooklyn Superbas such a success, Charlie Ebbets rang the Newark Indians in on him. Can't something be done about a big Wilson day at the park of the marble rotunda?

Herzog and Robinson have introduced McGraw's methods into two rival clubs this season, both having paid much attention to base running and sliding. The New York team will not have an edge over the rest of the field as far as system goes at any rate.

The five thousand fans who turned out to see the Yanks and Superbas yesterday formed quite a contrast to the mob that stormed the field on a similar occasion last year. Whether this was because of the weather or the interest-dividing Federal League, it was not much of a welcome to Robbie. But an official official reception can readily be arranged later.

If McGraw had the ready faculty of Ebbets in fixing anniversaries Chief Meyers might break all records as a base stealer and Al Demaree give Ty Cobb a race for hitting honors. Both celebrated the twenty-fifth year of baseball for the Little Napoleon with superhuman efforts.

Judging by the condition of Arthur Fletcher's right, Pat Newman must be a player with some head on him.

Rube Waddell passed on leaving an estate which consisted of little besides a wonderful pitching record and a legion of friends. He might have been a "success" and acquired a fortune. But he preferred a smile to a dollar.

The only counter attraction to the Giants in Beaumont just now is the Baptist ladies' apron sale. In case the gate receipts are affected McGraw can put on another knockout as a sideshow.

"The Federal Leaguer's threat to sign players now under contract to organized baseball is nothing but a cheap bluff," says Charlie Ebbets. We thought the word "bluff" had been cast into the discard by the National League since the sale of Tinker for $25,000.

Charlie is ranting around breathing defiance to the outlaws and allowing as how some manager is going to punch Doc Gessler in the nose. The organization was supposed to have taken a dignity bath when Governor Tener came on the job.

Tom Seaton is standing firm for the Feds in spite of the poison pen letters that the Phillies are sending him. They are expressing great sorrow to think that Tom must be exiled to Brooklyn. It might have been worse. St. Louis is no bait player's heaven.

Speaking of press agents, the publicity man of the Panama-Pacific fair has an edge on them all. With a $100,000 polo tourney to be attended by the King and Queen of Bulgaria, not to mention Alfonso and Victoria of Spain, it is the farthest South in the way of a screech. No press agent should smoke that brand of cigarettes.

McBarry's Homer Defeats Reds

Louisville, April 2.—Although Herzog shifted the Reds' batting order as well as the line-up, placing himself second on the list, the Louisville American team made it two straight from Cincinnati here to-day by a score of 5 to 2. Yingling allowed ten hits in six innings. McBarry's hit in the sixth brought in four runs.

Calumet Club Bats Its Way to Decisive Victory

Rises in Wrath and Scores Twelve Runs to Four for Union Club in the Winter League.

Loud on the kettle drums! beat the anvils, and let soft music no longer prevail! The Calumet Club rose in its wrath and smote the Union Club hip and thigh in the Winter League game on "the lot," Fifth avenue, near 72d street, yesterday afternoon.

The victory was as complete and decisive as it was crushing, and the score, 12 to 4, tells the story for itself. Although the Yankees and Superbas fired the opening gun of the season in Brooklyn, a fair sized crowd was on hand. It was made up principally of Calumet sympathizers, for they turned out to see the law of averages vindicated. Having won only two out of twelve games, they counted that the tables would have to turn at one time or another.

It was a different team that represented the Calumet Club yesterday. The men played aggressive, wideawake baseball. They hit the ball with savage ferocity, forced the luck to break, and then rode it to the limit. They enjoyed a field day in the seventh inning by slamming the offerings of Larry Delafield for ten singles, which scored seven runs and clinched the victory. They fielded sharply, too, and only three errors marred the card. With so many bright spots, however, not even the most captious found faults with the breaks in rhythm.

W. A. Tilt proved beyond all question that perseverance will win. Although savagely mauled on several previous occasions, he took up the white man's burden and pitched his team through to victory in fine style. For seven innings he stood the Union batters on their heads, and let them down with three paltry hits. In that time only two men breathed the rarified atmosphere of third base.

In the seventh inning the intrepid L. Delafield pried his way to third on a single, an infield out and a glorious steal. Success, it would seem, went to his head, and he attempted to steal home. It might have been that he was ambitious. If so, 'twas a grievous crime, and grievously did Delafield suffer, for a snap throw to the plate nipped him several yards off.

Seven hits in all were plucked off Tilt's delivery, but it was only in the ninth frame, with the game safe, that he allowed more than one to the inning. Then three happened along in rapid fire order, and two runs resulted. He had good control, moreover, and passed only four men.

Delafield received the dressing down of his eventful career. No fewer than twenty-three hits were made off his delivery, and he had his own sweet time to keep the opposition from stopping there. His team, however, played snappy ball behind him, and made only two rather pardonable errors.

Tilt and Schultz were the leading sluggers of the Calumet team. Each picked off five safe drives, while Grady and Millick were close up with four each. Schultz had a busy day at first base as well, and had thirteen put out to his credit.

For the Union men Washington made three hits and handled six out of seven chances perfectly.

FEDS ARE SURE TO WIN

League's Counsel Sees Victory in Federal Court War.

Chicago, April 2.—The Federal League stands to win, no matter what the outcome of its suit to enjoin William Killifer from playing with the Philadelphia Nationals, acuording to E. E. Gates, the league's counsel.

If the United States court at Grand Rapids, affer the hearing on Saturday, grants the Federal League its injunction the outlaws count on having Killifer, Blanding, Kahler, Baumgardner and Williams forced to live up to the Federal contracts they are said to have signed.

If the court refuses to grant the injunction, thus denying the binding power of the contract Killifer signed with the Federals, Gates holds that the contracts in organized baseball would be considered equally useless, so that dissatisfied players could jump to the Federals without regard to contracts.

Latest reports concerning the Seaton case to-day were that the pitcher probably would be forced to play with the Brooklyn club

St. Augustine, Fla., April 2.—Because of the disastrous waterfront fire here to-day, in which the Power Boat Club house was destroyed, events of the Southern Speed Boat Races, scheduled for to-day, were postponed until to-morrow.

None of the valuable speed boats here for the Southern races were damaged by the flames.

West Side Bowlers Gain Lead.

Compiling three of the best totals recorded in the Interclub Bowling League, the West Side Club jumped into the lead in taking all three games from the Owl Club in a series rolled on the winner's alleys last night.

The West Side's scores of 952, 930 and 861 were never dangerously approached by their rivals. Five 200 scores were returned by West Side bowlers, Charles Selover having an average of 222.

GIANTS FURBISH UP ON HEAVY HITTING

Merkle, Murray and Bescher Make Things Lively for Two Pitchers.

BEAUMONT HAS DREAM OF BEATING MATTY

"Big Six" Lets Oilers Get Home Run, Then the Storm Bursts in the Sixth.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Beaumont, Tex., April 2.—Heavy batting by Merkle, Murray and Bescher and the steady pitching of Mathewson and Hearn gave the Giants an easy victory over the Oilers here this afternoon. The second game of the series was a contest up to the fifth inning, when the Giants took the bit in their teeth and ran away with the spoils. They gathered sixteen hits for a total of twenty four bases. The score was 12 to 1.

The Beaumont boys, although they were easily beaten to-day, derived much satisfaction in scoring on Mathewson. A lot of folks down this way consider that no minor league player is entitled to get as much as a foul off Matty, and any lad who gets to him for a hit is never released before the season starts.

Mathewson's regular spring performance in Beaumont is now an occasion. To-day was the first ladies' day of the season, and it was a success from every angle. The weather was hot, but that did not keep anybody away. The women came out in summer attire and in great numbers, while the male fans took off their coats and made themselves comfortable. Straw hats were too common to be noticed.

In honor of this assemblage Mathewson pitched six innings as advertised. Jack Murray made two throws to the home plate and Fred Merkle obliged with a home run over the centrefield fence.

The Giants did not start to pound the ball until the fifth inning, but they made up for lost time then. In the last four innings they collected thirteen safe hits and all twelve of their runs. Up to that time the home team had a dream of beating Mathewson and bragging about it for a long time.

Bob Bescher did more batting to-day than at any time since the team left Marlin. He was up five times, and after walking twice, smote the ball for a double and a triple, scoring twice and driving home three runs with his two hits.

Merkle had the best straight hitting record. He gather two singles, a home run and a stolen base in five times up and registered at the plate three times himself. Murray tossed in a pair of doubles and a single and cut down two men at the plate.

The Giants were tired when the game started and even more tired at the finish. McGraw had them out for nearly two hours this morning and they worked at top speed for more than an hour before the game. Brandt held them fairly well the first few innings, but was soundly batted in the fifth and sixth rounds.

In the first four intngs the Giants made only three hits and Brandt received fine support. Double plays in the second and third innings helped him out of holes. Merkle started the fifth inning with a hit and the big leaguers batted around before they retired with four hits and as many runs.

Brandt weathered another inning, but after being bumped for three more runs disappeared and let a right hander named McCuller close him out. McCuller tried a new system. He passed a batsman and then tried to catch him napping. Occasionally he threw a ball over the plate and the Giants would hit it to some far corner. McCuller was touched up for five runs in the eighth.

TEAMS ARE TIED BOWLING LEAGUE

Roseville A. A. and New York A. C. Must Meet in Roll-Off.

Each rolling on its home alleys and winning all three games, the Roseville Athletic Association and the New York Athletic Club tied for the championship of the Athletic Bowling League last night, the final games of the league season and a roll-off to be arranged later will be necessary. Each team has won 37 games and lost 17.

New York was fortunate in winning the second game, for it came down to a margin of only two pins. Had Booth been able to strike out he would have prevented the Mercury Footers from tieing for the title. Roseville's victim was the Columbian club, of East Orange.
