

NOTES of INTEREST FROM LEADING SOCIAL RESORTS

First ball of the week, and preceding it there will be many dinner parties. That to be given by Representative and Mrs. Gerry for the former's sister, Miss Mabel Gerry, will be of most importance. Mrs. Patterson's beautiful house in Du Pont Circle, with its great marble entrance hall and stairway, its ample ballroom and other features, will help to make Monday night's event, which is for Mrs. Patterson's daughter, Countess Giziya, a marked feature of the week.

Hundreds of guests, with many from the army and navy, will attend the great benefit ball to be given at the navy yard for the Army and Navy Relief Society. Members of the President's household have promised to be present. Mrs. Lindbergh, Mrs. Josephus Daniels, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Henry Breckinridge will assist Mrs. George M. Sternberg in receiving.

Tuesday night Mrs. Deles Blodgett will open her home in 16th st. for a dinner dance in honor of Miss Maitland Marshall and Past Assistant Paymaster John H. Knapp, U. S. N., and Mrs. Robert N. Harper will give a ball masque for Seneca Ampero Martin Rivero, daughter of the Cuban Minister to Italy, who was at one time stationed in Washington.

There will be some wonderful dancers to amuse the guests at the ball to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beale McLean on Wednesday night, and the Walsh mansion in Massachusetts ave. will hold for that single night new jewels than have been seen in any one event in the capital for years past. Mrs. McLean will wear the famous Hope diamond and others of her splendid collection of jewels. The following night John R. McLean will give a brilliant ball, which, it is expected, will prove an equally spectacular event. The three balls, that at the home of Mrs. Patterson and the two McLean balls, have sent many women to New York for splendid new gowns.

The Hunt ball at the Chevy Chase Club will be perhaps less brilliant, but certainly not less spectacular than the other three for the men from New York, Philadelphia, Maryland and Virginia will wear their "pink" Hunting songs will be sung at dinner, and for the cotillon there will be all sorts of sporting favors.

But these formal dances are not enough to satisfy the demands of young feet, and at almost every luncheon, tea or dinner given for the prospective brides of the week there will be the same diversion. Then there will begin dancing at the performances given at the Playhouse Easter Monday for the benefit of the Dominican Sisters, when Miss Jusserand and others will be patronesses.

Seldom has an Easter tide brought so many interesting weddings to Washington. Rumor constantly moves nearer the date for that of Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson and William Gibbs McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, and the most authentic information places it in close proximity to May 1. It also adds that if propitious weather attends the day there will be an outdoor feature, which will be the only really novel innovation which could be introduced at a White House wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre will be at the White House, where, for the second time in history, there will be two brides after the marriage of Miss Wilson and Mr. McAdoo. The other brides and bridegrooms were Nellie Grant Sartoris and Mrs. Fred Grant, widow of General Fred Grant, who took his wife there as a bride at that time.

Interesting indeed is the marriage of Miss Mary Margaret Worthington and Beach Helme Stockett, that the bride's family have helped to make the history of the capital for the last hundred years. It was just sixty years ago this Easter week that the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Cleveland Kinloch Nelson, was married in St. John's Church, and at least one or two present on that occasion will witness the marriage of her granddaughter on Tuesday, April 14.

Miss Josephine Beverley Mason will be maid of honor for Miss Worthington, and her bridesmaids will be Miss Louise Harrison, formerly of Williamsburg, Va.; Miss Mary Price, of Lewisburg, W. Va.; Miss Julia Mucchette, of Maryland, and Miss Dorothy Thompson, of Dover, Del. Mr. Stockett's best man will be Norman Putnam, of Nazareth, Penn., and the list of ushers will include H. A. Loken, of Lansford, Penn.; Stockett Thompson, of Dover, Del.; Ernest Winter, of New York, and George Kemp, of Philadelphia.

The reception to be held following the marriage of Miss Anna V. Porter and Representative Flood on Saturday, April 18, at All Souls' Church, will lend a unique touch to the series of Easter week weddings, as it will be held in the Pan-American Building.

As chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House, the arrangement is most of the kind to be of course, the first event of the kind to be held in that beautiful building. Another little secret which has leaked out relative to the Flood-Porter nuptials is that the honeymoon, for which the Foreign Affairs Committee kindly gave the bridegroom a vacation, will be spent on board the Latona, the schooner yacht bought by Alvin O. Porter, the bride's brother, from Edward J. Hall, of New York, a few days ago. The two-masted yacht is said to be one of the largest and finest of its kind belonging to Washington yachtsmen, and will undergo only a few changes preparatory to the honeymoon trip, which is to be the christening for her new owner.

There will be a first rehearsal for the wedding of Miss Porter and Mr. Flood on Friday evening, followed by a dance and supper, with the bridegroom as host. On Easter Monday Mrs. Claggett will give a bridge tea for Miss Porter.

On Wednesday Miss Genevieve Clark will entertain her and her attendants at luncheon, and on Wednesday night Mr. and Mrs. Austin P. Clappham will give a dinner-dance in honor of both bride and bridegroom at the Chevy Chase Club. On Thursday Mrs. Oscar C. Porter will entertain her sister-in-law and her attendants at luncheon. Several other events have been arranged for this bride, filling almost every hour of her time until she leaves on her honeymoon trip. The friends of Representative Flood are equally strenuous, and several dinner and luncheon parties will be given for him by his colleagues.

The French Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand will have all of the embassy staff and other to dine with them on Easter Sunday, a custom which has obtained since their residence in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brooks Ladd enter-spend the spring and summer with his sister, Mrs. John Nicholas Brown.

Whether or not Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sorohan, of New York, are to return for the coming season is not known, but it is presumed that they are, for Mrs. Sorohan was here this week inspecting their estate, on the cliffs, which has been rented for the last couple of seasons.

It is now certain that Mr. and Mrs. John R. Drexel and family are not to return this year. It has been understood that Mrs. George D. Widener has had the place of Mr. and Mrs. Drexel leased ever since last summer, but the announcement of the coming season's rental was not made until this week. Mrs. Widener has been here recently inspecting her new villa, now under construction, and arranging for the further improvement of the grounds by the addition of rhododendron plants. Hundreds of these plants were set out about the grounds last fall.

York, gave a dinner for fifteen at the Laurel-in-the-Pines last Saturday night, after taking their guests to the Country Club for dancing. The guests included Colonel and Mrs. E. C. Anderson, Henry K. Hardon, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Slocum, Mrs. Edwin Spear and John L. Pease.

Among the prominent arrivals at the Laurel-in-the-Pines for the Easter week end are General S. W. Fountain, Mrs. Fountain and Miss Fountain, of Devon, Penn. General Heppenheimer, of Jersey City, is also stopping at this hotel.

With the coming of the warm days of spring horseback riding and golf have taken a strong hold on the lovers of the out of doors and daily the bridge paths and the course at the Country Club are thronged with the devotees of the sports.

ASHEVILLE TO GIVE AN EASTER BALL

Post-Lenten Entertainment To Be Distinguished by Rare Floral Decorations.

Asheville, N. C., April 11.—The Easter ball to be given to-morrow evening at Grove Park Inn will be a very elaborate affair. A special programme of fancy dances, both new and old, will precede the general dancing, these to be given by a number of guests at the inn and some of the best dancers in the younger set of Asheville. The guests at the inn and others will form numerous dinner parties for the evening, and the decorations will be especially appropriate, each party to suit individual taste as to the floral centerpieces. Sprays of peach blossoms in Roycroft vases of hammered brass, clusters of trailing arbutus in low copper bowls, or of the red-brown galax leaves, native to the mountains near by, and spring flowers and Easter lilies in tall cut glass vases will form the decorations. The wild flower life is very beautiful at the present time, and many people find pleasure in their mountain walks by gathering the trailing arbutus and galax leaves with which to decorate their tables for dinner each evening.

Among the prominent guests at the inn are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stotesbury, of Philadelphia. Mrs. Stotesbury's sons, the Messrs. Crowell, are also in Asheville, the elder having spent the winter here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lauder, Jr., are guests at the inn, having come from Augusta early in the week to be here through the early spring.

Mr. H. C. Fahnestock, of New York, brought a party of friends in his private car from Augusta to spend Easter week at Grove Park Inn. His guests are Mrs. L. B. Crow, T. I. Mumford and Henry L. Finch, all of New York.

Other New York people who have lingered in the Carolinas over Easter, after leaving Florida and Georgia resorts, are Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bradley, who arrived Tuesday from Palm Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitcomb and Miss Whitcomb, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Abbey, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Saxe and Miss Paxton, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Chave, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Wright, and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Relling, all of whom arrived at the inn early this week from the Far South.

MANY STUDENTS AT HOT SPRINGS

Throng of Undergraduates Flocks to Virginian Resort for April Holidays.

Hot Springs, Va., April 11.—With the arrival here yesterday of Premier and Mrs. Robert L. Borden, of Canada, the Easter colony at Hot Springs is one of the largest and most important in years. The presence at the Homestead of the sixty members of the Princeton Glee Club has swelled the throng of undergraduates. Many students from Yale, Harvard and the University of Pennsylvania, and joined their families here yesterday and today, and several private schools for young men and women have made reservations for pupils, all of whom will be entertained with a ball to-night, following the glee club concert in the Homestead ballroom, and a round of dinners, luncheons and dances next week.

The members of the glee club have been invited to attend the Misses Thomas's 6 o'clock assembly dance in the Japanese room to-night, where there will be informal dancing till 7 and where they will meet their partners for the ball. The patronesses of the assembly dance are Mesdames George Davies, M. E. Ingham, Jr., S. N. Knox, Warren Salisbury, E. R. Charleston and S. T. Fulton.

The liveliest fortnight of the spring season was ushered in a week ago with Palm Sunday and the arrival of many persons prominent in society. The enlarged Homestead Hotel, accommodating more than 800, is filled to its capacity, and many New Yorkers and Philadelphians who wished to spend Easter here have been obliged to postpone their arrival. Mr. and Mrs. Grant Mason and their family, from Tuxedo, are here, and other well known visitors lately arrived are Mr. and Mrs. John Kearsley Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Biddle and Miss Biddle, Archibald Rogers, Edmund F. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Bertram G. Work, Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Morse, Russell G. Colt, Miss Lillian Hyde, Mrs. George A. Draper, Miss Helen Draper, Mrs. George Davies, Wickliffe P. Draper, Mrs. Vincent B. Hubbell, Sir Henry and Lady Egan and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Carlisle.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. VA.

A Full House Is the Report That Comes from All Hotels for Easter Sunday.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 11.—To-night there isn't a room to be had at the New Greenbrier, the White, the old hotel or in any of the smaller hotels in the village, while the members of the Princeton Mandolin and Glee Club, which gave a performance last evening in the ballroom under the patronage of prominent members of society here, were compelled to live aboard their private car during their brief visit.

The honeymoon throng has included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graves and Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge E. Jordan. Mr. and Mrs. Graves were called home this week by the illness of Mrs. Graves's young son, Master Kingsley Swan. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan arrived here immediately following their marriage last week in New York.

The Charm of Bad-Nauheim. "The British and Colonial Druggist" of January 20, 1914, contains an article on Bad-Nauheim, the beautiful health resort in Germany, which is famous throughout the world, especially for its striking healing results in cases of diseases of the heart. As the article is written by an American who has been a cure guest at Bad-Nauheim for two seasons, we suppose it will interest our readers if we quote some sentences out of it: "Nauheim the beautiful" "Nauheim the magical" Such are the exclamations that are frequently heard from the lips of those who have derived benefit and whose health in many cases has been restored through its healing waters and the skill of the many specialists who practise there. The theory of the Nauheim treatment is briefly that the baths and exercises, by exciting the cutaneous blood vessels into greater activity, lighten the work of the heart. Walking in the pure, dustless air of Nauheim and its immediate neighborhoods forms no unimportant part of the treatment. To enable visitors to enjoy this exercise in the beautiful park or around the lake or in the woods, charming walks have been laid out crossing and recrossing beautiful portions of scenery. For lovers of music there is increasing joy in listening to the fine orchestra from Leipzig, which plays three times a day."

EASTER CARNIVAL AT ASBURY PARK

The First Special Easter Programme Ever Given Opens at Resort To-day.

Asbury Park, N. J., April 11.—The first special Easter carnival programme ever given here, and one that has attracted pleasure seekers and vacationists from many places, opened to-night with fireworks on the fishing pier. The display was followed by a classical entertainment in the Casino. All this week several of the larger hotels have been comfortably filled with Easter visitors, while the smaller hotels as well accommodated their share of recreation seekers and Easter week visitors.

Each day saw the boardwalk's promenaders increasing in number, until to-tained Miss Margaret Worthington and her wedding party at luncheon to-day.

Mrs. Marshall Field entertained a large dinner company to-night in honor of the Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan. Music formed the special feature of entertainment.

Charles Frederick Hoffman has planned to be here on Monday to inspect Armes Hall and arrange for the early season coming of himself and Mrs. Hoffman. Mrs. William Watts Sherman is also to be an early arrival, opening her home in May.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Hatch, who are in Europe, are expected to spend the summer here, and Mr. and Mrs. Amos Pinchot, of New York, who had one of the Pinard cottages for a while last season, will in all probability take one of the same cottages for a portion of the coming summer season. It is also possible that Count von Bernstorff, German Ambassador, will also have one of the same cottages for a while during the middle of the season, as he did last year. Countess von Bernstorff evidently prefers to go to her home in Germany during the summer. She did not come here last season, and it is understood that she is sailing for Germany on April 15.

The cottage colony section of the city, with the opening of spring, is gradually taking on a summerish aspect. The regular employees on the various estates and the contractors who have been commissioned to do work are all getting busy, and there is now about all the work that the regular force of Newport gardeners, painters, carpenters and other mechanics can do in getting ready for the season.

Among the latest construction jobs to be added to the list is the building of a breakfast room to Beacon Hill House, the summer home of former Commodore Arthur Curtiss James. District Attorney Charles D. Whitman has given out the contract for the general renovation and improvement of the Histed bungalow, which he purchased during the winter as his summer home, on Price's Neck.

Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills, who have been abroad for the last year or more, are to return here this summer, and already they have sent orders that their house be renovated and prepared for their occupancy some time in July. Mr. and Mrs. Mills did not reach Newport all season, but this year it is quite generally understood that they are going to make this city their summer headquarters.

It is now expected that Mrs. Harold Brown, who has been abroad for the last two years, will return next month to spend the summer in her home here, and that D. Le Roy Dresser, who is also abroad, will return in a short time to Mrs. Widener's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fitz Dixon, of Philadelphia, will spend the summer here, as they did last year.

Charles Frederick Hoffman has planned to be here on Monday to inspect Armes Hall and arrange for the early season coming of himself and Mrs. Hoffman. Mrs. William Watts Sherman is also to be an early arrival, opening her home in May.

PRINCETON GLEE CLUB AT LAKEWOOD

Many Members of the Cottage Colony Hear First Concert of Spring Season.

Lakewood, N. J., April 11.—The Princeton Glee Club attracted a large throng of the cottage colony when they gave the first concert of their annual Easter trip in the ballroom of the Laurel-in-the-Pines Wednesday evening. Mrs. George Fales Baker gave a reception and tea for the club in the afternoon and was instrumental in the success of the entertainment. Informal dancing followed the concert. The patronesses and hostesses included Misses George Fales Baker, E. A. Boardman, Charles B. Appleton, R. H. Chandler, W. W. Willock, J. Stewart White, Livingston Dickinson, Robert Jamison, Phelps Hoyt, Girard Romaine, Charles L. Lindley, Guy V. Henry, Elizabeth M. Horne, Jasper Lynch, William A. Jamison, H. L. Herbert and William Thaw, 33.

Although some of the polo players have been here for the last week trying out the ponies and getting in a little practice, the first practice game of the season was played to-day on the Georgian Court grounds before a large crowd of winter residents and visitors to Lakewood. The players included Harry Payne Whitney, Monte Waterbury, J. C. Phipps, Larry Waterbury, J. C. Cowdin, E. C. Rawlins, Devereux Milburn and René La Montagne.

Saturday was so nice and warm that Mrs. Lewis Buckley Stillwell gave a picnic luncheon in the woods at the head of the lake for her son, Richard, to which were invited about a large crowd of the younger set. On Monday Mrs. Shepherd Knapp dined entertained at an outdoor party in honor of her daughters, the Misses Peggy and Louise.

Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Joseph Knight, of Philadelphia, were guests of honor at a dinner given Saturday evening at the Laurel-in-the-Pines by Mrs. George Fales Baker. Covers were laid for twenty; the table decorations were tulips.

NEWS OF INTEREST TO THE NATIONAL GUARD

A well known officer, speaking of the alleged blindness of G. O. 3, recently issued from the office of the adjutant general at Albany, over which there has been considerable discussion, says: "A careful study of the order will prove it is not as bad as at first supposed. The only error of any consequence is that relating to the names of engineers, which, of course, should not have been included in the table referring to the staff departments. A reference to the field service regulations of the United States Army will show that the composition of an infantry and cavalry regiment is given in the order exactly the same as in the regulations in question. The majors are not mentioned in the list of officers given for the regiment because they are part of a battalion, three of which constitute a regiment. The field service regulations might be a little plainer worded in this respect, but it is the fault of the War Department if they are not plain. The adjutant general's office has simply in this respect followed the official book."

Members of Company D, of the 7th Regiment, Captain Robert Mazet, together with former members of that command, will unite in a presentation of a portrait in oil of Lieutenant Colonel William C. Fisk to the 7th Regiment next Wednesday night, following the review by Brigadier General Robert K. Evans, U. S. A. Lieutenant Colonel Fisk began his military life as a private in Company G, March 24, 1874, and became captain of Company D, December 23, 1890. After the review of the regiment there will be evening parade and a presentation of crosses of honor, besides several exhibitions. In addition to officers of the army stationed in New York City and vicinity, Captain Thomas S. Rodgers, U. S. N., and officers of the United States battleship New York will be present. The New York carries the silver ship's bell presented by the 7th Regiment. There will be a reception for army and navy officers after the military ceremonies.

Although orders have been issued for the outdoor instruction and record small arms firing for the troops of the 3d and 4th brigades no orders can be issued for the practice of the national guard of Manhattan Brooklyn, Queens, The Bronx and Richmond until it is known when the range at Peekskill will be ready. This may not be until fall.

Members of the staff of Brigadier General McCook Butt, a former commander of the 1st Brigade, and now on the supernumerary list, will, with General Butt, be entertained at dinner next Tuesday by Major Schuyler Scheffelin, ex-inspector of rifle practice. Among the members of the staff expected to be present are Lieutenant Colonels H. S. Clark and W. E. Lambert and Major F. B. Keach and Herbert Parsons.

An election for a major in the 69th Regiment to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Major Reville will be held at the armory to-morrow night. It is understood that there will be several candidates. John J. Phalen, who was unanimously chosen from captain and regimental adjutant last Monday night, first joined the regiment as a private in Company G on June 10, 1895. He became regimental adjutant in 1907, and made an excellent record in that office. Company B will hold a dance in the armory on April 25. Lieutenant W. J. Byrne, of Company B, recently elected, has been commissioned. Some very promising recruits have been enlisted during the last two weeks.

There will be no review of the 22d Engineers this month, as was expected. There will probably be a review, however, in May. The Defendans Association, encouraged by the great success of its recent moving picture show at the armory, will give another such entertainment at the armory on Monday night, April 27. Pictures of Mexico bearing on the present revolution will be shown and also other pictures. Company I will soon have a new captain vice Captain William S. Edwards, dropped. The latter first joined the regiment in 1890.

Colonel Foote, of the 14th Regiment, will introduce a new feature at the review by Brigadier General John G. Eddy in the armory on the night of Saturday, April 25. The champion wall scaling team, which won its title at the games of the Military Athletic League, will give an exhibition. The regiment will parade for divine service on Sunday, April 26, when Chaplain John H. Sattler, who recently returned from Europe, will preach the sermon.
