SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE

In the JUNE number he describes his journey to
The Headwaters of the Paraguay

He notes the abounding bird life, the crested screamers, hyacinth macaws, the guan, black and golden orioles, ibises, the grotesque toucans, cormorants, and snake-birds. In the trees were howler monkeys, and the fire-ants were a pest to avoid if possible. Caymans, tapirs, peccaries, the truculent and dangerous little wild pigs, and many other animals were constantly seen.—Illustrated from photographs by Kermit Roosevelt and others.

Note: The story of the author's exploration of The Unknown River will appear in SCRIBNER'S.

UPROAR IN HOUSE OVER HOME RULE

Die-Hard Tories Force Commons to Adjourn Debate on Irish Bill.

IN MINORITY OF 110, BUT WIN THEIR PONT

Bonar Law, Leader of Opposition, Declines to Aid Speaker in Maintaining Order.

London, May 22.—Having exhausted all constitutional means of opposing the passage of the Home Rule bill, the "die-hard" section of the Opposition, in a last desperate effort to delay the automatic passage of the bill under the Parliament act, provoked in the House of Commons yesterday a scene characteristic of the Austrian rather than of the British Parliament.

The sitting of the House of Commons was suspended until to-day in consequence of the persistent disorderliness of the Opposition members, who thus succeeded in forcing an adjournment, the formal motion for which had just been defeated by a vote of 256 to 176, a majority of 110.

The bill had reached the third reading stage, and Premier Asquith announced that the proposed amending bill would be introduced in the House of Lords. The Premier was immediately subjected to a fierce fire of questions, with a view to inducing him to divulge the nature of the proposed amendments. He declined to reveal this until the third reading had been passed, and after a number of bitter speeches by Andrew Bonar Law, the Opposition leaders and others, the House divided on the question of the adjournment.

Immediately after the vote had been taken a large section of the back bench Unionists started the refrain "Adjourn! Adjourn!" The uproar was long and loud. The Speaker finally rose and asked Andrew Bonar Law, the leader of the Opposition, whether he assented in the demonstration.

Amid shouts from his supporters of "Don't answer," Mr. Bonar Law refused to reply, and the Speaker declared the sitting suspended, saying there was nothing else he could do, seeing that Mr. Bonar Law declined to assist him in maintaining order.

Mr. Bonar Law's curt reply was obviously disapproved by Arthur J. Balfour and some of the older front bench men on the Unionist side. When the Speaker asked if the obstruction had his assent Mr. Law in quick angry jerks retorted: "I do not presume, Mr. Speaker, to criticise what you consider your duty, but I know mine. It is not to answer such a question."

Members on the back Unionist benches wildly applauded, but the older parliamentarians hung their heads, with every sign of chagrin.

WOMEN BATTLE AT KING'S PALACE

great iron gates shut, leaving outside only two mounted police, on whom the women directed furious attacks, trying to pull them from their saddles, throwing packages of red and green dyes on their uniforms and beating them with clubs.

Draw Truncheons on Women.

Finally the policemen were unable to protect themselves against the terrific onslaughts and had to draw their truncheons. They beat the women on the arms and hands away from the bridges and saddles of their horses. They were almost pulled to the ground when an inspector and a big force of men dashed through the gates and engaged the women in a hand-to-hand encounter.

A few women got inside, but were soon pushed out. Mrs. Pankhurst leaped through an opening in the line of police while one of her supporters slashed right and left with a heavy Indian club, but a big inspector grabbed Mrs. Pankhurst by the waist and, lifting her bodily, carried her inside the police lines.

She smiled and did not resist arrest, though her supporters were fighting like amazons. "I have been arrested within the precincts of the Palace. Tell the King, please, gentlemen," she yelled, but in a moment or two was being whirled away in a taxicab toward Holloway Jail.

There must have been thirty thousand people watching the fighting, and yells, catcalls and cries of derision were hurled at the suffragettes from all sides.

Police Roll in Mud.

The roadway had just been sprinkled with water and many mounted policemen were thrown. Their comrades on foot reeled with them in the mud, but eventually the strength of the policemen told, and in a few minutes more than thirty women had been placed under arrest, while the others had been scattered into small groups.

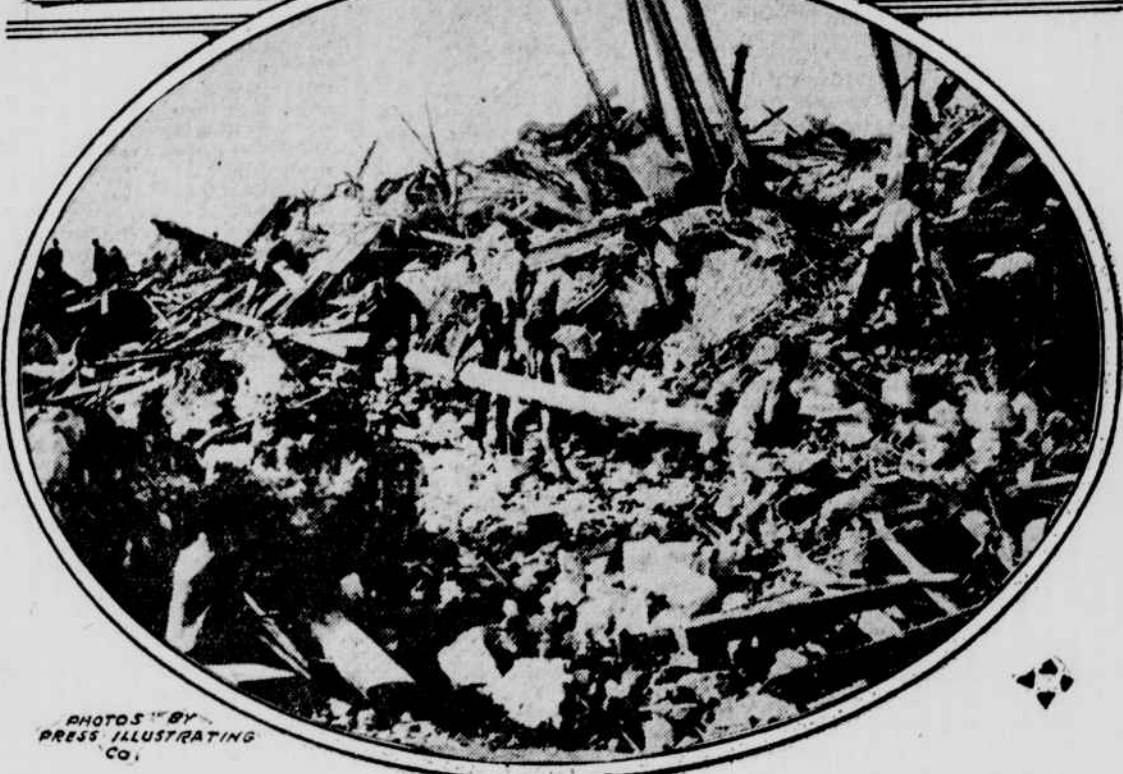

One group, headed by Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, reached a point almost across the drive from the Palace, where mounted police surrounded the women and placed Miss Sylvia and several of her comrades in custody.

The crowd at this point was so dense that the attempts of the police to clear the drive was without success until recourse was had to water sprinkling carts. These ruined many of the fine gowns of fashionable women spectators who had gathered to watch the expected battle. This caused the police to lose their popularity with the crowd, which up to that moment had cheered them on.

The casualties were limited to a few broken heads, but much harm was done to the uniforms of the police and to the dresses of the women. At no time were more than a couple of hundred women engaged in the battle, while opposed to them was a force of 1,500 police.

With the exception of a few minutes, when King George stood at a window watching the preparations to defend him from the attentions of the the palace presented a deserted appearance.

The total arrests numbered fifty-seven, including three men. Wild scenes were witnessed in the Cannon Row police station, where the prisoners, who refused to give their names and addresses, were placed in a billiard room on the second floor of the building. There they made speeches, sang war songs, smashed every window, cheered, booed and shouted, the din attracting large crowds. Some of the prisoners got out on to the flat roof and harangued the people below, after which a cornet player played suffragette war tunes.

A man who paid a visit to the billiard room to arrange for bail for some of the women said afterward that they went for him like tigers, knocking his hat off and cutting his face.

Suffragette Flat Raided.

While the suffragettes were fighting the uniformed police at Constitution Hill detectives were raiding a flat in Lauderdale Mansions, in the West End, and arrested the four women occupants of the apartment. The detectives found bags filled with pebbles, hammers, a meat chopper, several cartridge cases and a quantity of documents which are regarded as of great importance. While the police were carrying out their search a fifth woman came into the flat carrying a bag of stones covered with lettuce. She also was arrested. It is suggested that the members of the militant movement intended to undertake another window smashing campaign as a protest against the rearrest of Mrs. Pankhurst.

"General" Mrs. Flora Drummond, who was sent to Holloway jail on May 15 for disturbing the peace by camping on the steps of the residence of Sir Edward Carson, was released this afternoon and was removed in an ambulance, because she was supposed to be suffering from extreme exhaustion. She made a surprising recovery, however, and astonished the police, who found her a few hours later camped on the doorstep of the residence of the Right Hon. Reginald McKenna, the Home Secretary. She refused to go away and was rearrested.

WOMEN ON MAYOR'S TRAIL

Suffragists Invade His District—After Murphy, Too.

Slowly, slowly creeps the cause toward the home district of John Purroy Mitchell. Soon will dawn the day when he must sign—or refuse to sign—one of the yellow slips of enrolment in the ranks of believers in votes for women. Woman suffrage headquarters were opened yesterday at Broadway and 94th st. The Mayor lives at 98th st. and Riverside Drive.

At each of the recruiting stations in the present two weeks' campaign there is a list of the registered voters of the district. Those who do not sign in the two weeks are marked for strenuous measures later on. Mayor Mitchell will be subject to the same treatment as any other voter. In the 12th Assembly District the women are planning a campaign against Charles Francis Murphy and his butcher. The butcher is just across the street from the suffrage recruiting station, and is marked for an early visit.

CHICAGO WOMAN SHOT IN ITALY

Mrs. Mary Flavelle Found in Train with Wound in Right Temple—Motive, Robbery.

(By Cable to The Tribune.)

Rome, May 21.—A well dressed, elderly woman was found to-day at the Arezzo station in a train bound from Florence to Perugia seriously wounded by a revolver shot. Documents in her possession indicate she is an American named Mrs. Mary A. Flavelle. The discovery was made by a passenger at Arezzo.

Mrs. Flavelle, suffering from a wound in the right temple, was immediately taken to a hospital. Her condition is grave.

She states that she was attacked by a young man, whom she describes as polite, apparently with the object of robbery, but he was disturbed before he had time to rob his victim. In Mrs. Flavelle's possession was a letter of credit for $1,500 on the Illinois First National Bank of Chicago, together with other sums in American and Italian money.

No handbags, ticket or letters were found to complete the identification, but a baggage label with the name "Mrs. Flavelle" was picked up, and on the seat lay a visiting card bearing the name "Miss Blanche Marie Harcourt," with bloody finger prints.

According to the train hands, the woman occupied the compartment alone. In the next compartment was a man of about thirty. He did not act suspiciously, but at Arezzo was observed to leave the train from the wrong side. He carried a valise and immediately took a cab.

Chicago, May 21.—The Mrs. M. A. Flavelle who was shot while in a train compartment going from Florence to Arezzo, Italy, may be Mrs. Mary E. Flavelle, sixty-eight, a Chicago charity and settlement worker. Mrs. Flavelle left October 1 for a trip around the world. Recent letters from Rome said that she contemplated a trip to Florence.

This Is Sending-In Week

NOTICE

Contrary to warning printed daily in these columns, many Quizzers are mailing sets of answers in packages without placing thereon sufficient postage. Those who have mailed such packages are cautioned to look into the matter and provide sufficient postage, as they have not been accepted by The Tribune.

IMPORTANT

Packages received marked "postage due" will positively not be accepted. Have your set of answers weighed—REMEMBER, it requires first class postage.

The safest way is to bring your set to the office in person.

FINAL INSTRUCTIONS TO ENTRANTS IN THE BEN FRANKLIN QUIZ. READ CAREFULLY BEFORE SENDING IN YOUR ANSWERS.

Send in your set of solutions this week.

All sets must be in by midnight next Saturday, May 23, and none will be accepted after that hour, except those coming by mail and showing a postmark before the time limit. This rule will be strictly held to, and no exceptions made.

Quiz supplies—that is Poor Richard's Almanack, Record Book and back pictographs—may be purchased till midnight Saturday, May 23. After that time no supplies will be sold.

In preparing your set of solutions observe the following rules:

If you are using single coupons, your name and address must be legibly signed to each one. Your set must be arranged in correct numerical order, from number 1 to number 50. All answers to the same pictograph must be together. The set must be securely bound together in some manner, so that there is no danger of any of the coupons becoming lost. The coupons must all be neatly trimmed and of one size.

If you are using a Record Book, all of your answers must appear by number on the checking sheet, as is fully explained in the book itself. No coupons need accompany it. Be sure to tear off the part of the back cover, as indicated.

In sending in your set, whether it consist of single coupons or Record Book, wrap it securely in a FLAT package and SEAL it in such manner that it cannot be tampered with. DO NOT ROLL the package. Address it to the Ben Franklin Quiz Dept., The Tribune, 154 Nassau St., New York City, N. Y. If you wish you can use the form printed herewith.
