Hiding in Shoal Water. "This search resulted, October 30, in the Emden being discovered by H. M. S. Chatham, Captain Sydney R. Dray-Lowe, hiding in shoal water, about six miles up the Rufiji River, opposite Mafia Island, German East Africa."

On her deck and a Japanese flag run up. Thus disguised, she steamed boldly into the harbor, passing unchallenged the British guns of the fort, and fired torpedoes which sank the Russian cruiser Jemchoug and a French destroyer.

(From The Tribune Bureau.) Washington, Nov. 10.—Suspicious that the German and Japanese governments have secret wireless stations planted on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts are wholly unfounded, so far as Chinda is concerned, at least, according to the Japanese Embassy here.

A denial of the reports about the secret wireless stations operated by Japanese agents was made by Baron Chinda, Japanese Ambassador, who called at the Department of State today. The latter group is known also as the Keeling Islands. Here there is a cable station connecting Australia, Java and Madagascar.

At the German Embassy the implication that Germany has been operating a wireless station in the Maine woods was ridiculed.

TURK AND GERMAN "FIT COMRADES"

Lloyd George Calls Them Eastern "Ravagers" and Western "Desolators."

"SOUL OF A DEVIL" STARTED THIS WAR

Chancellor in Speech Denounces What He Terms "Contemptible Empire on Bosphorus."

(By Cable to The Tribune.) London, Nov. 10.—Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, made another vigorous speech on the war to the Assembly of Free Churches in London to-night, denying Great Britain's responsibility for the war.

"We were not armed for Continental warfare, but we have raised the greatest voluntary army the world has ever seen. In a few months we shall double it. We have no quarrel with Germany; we have no quarrel with the Turk. As the Lord liveth, we engaged in no conspiracy against Germany! We are in this war from motives of purest chivalry to defend the weak."

Speaking of Belgium, the Chancellor said: "The Germans robbed the Belgians of their food to maintain their armies. They are now sending to America, say 'You feed them!' The Turk is not America that devastated their land."

"We are assailed by another national exponent of higher 'culture'—Turkey. We did our best to avoid a quarrel. No one could have shown more patience in the face of insolence and injuries than did Great Britain in the face of the treatment accorded her by this miserable, wretched, contemptible empire on the Bosphorus. I am glad the Turk is to be called his final account. The ravagers of Armenia and the desolators of Flanders are fit comrades. The Turk of the East and the Turk of the West are both ruthless in their measures, with only one god, and that is violence."

"Within the last few days it has been my privilege to meet one of the greatest generals in the French army and to talk to him of his experiences in the war and to learn what he had witnessed—the carnage, the wear, the terror—and he said to me, 'The man who is responsible for this war has the soul of a devil.' One of the greatest strategists in this French army, which has been fighting for three months."

GERMANS JOBLESS IN NEUTRAL ITALY

Fire-the-Waiter Warfare Spreads to All English-Owned Hotels.

(By Cable to The Tribune.) London, Nov. 10.—Hotels in Italy controlled by English companies, or in which Englishmen have financial interests, have discharged all German employees, according to advices received by an official in one of the big hotel companies here, thus carrying the warfare on German waiters, cooks and other employees even to neutral Italy.

Only recently drastic measures were taken to rid hotels here of German employees. It was explained that among other reasons the presence of Germans in English owned hotels mitigated against them. It was asserted that some German hostilities in Italy were being ostracized even by Italians.

WILSON AGAINST BIG NAVY

(From The Tribune Bureau.) Washington, Nov. 10.—Despite the declaration that this country is unprepared for war, President Wilson has it been known to-day that there would be no change in the naval program set forward by the Secretary of the Navy.

Furthermore, there will be no increase in the appropriations for raising the department and no provision will be made for supplying the shortage of 15,000 men unless Congress should take hold of the question and raise the limit of the number of men in the service.

Secretary Daniels's report, it is understood, will ask for two battleships and a number of submarines. It is believed, however, that the General Board, of which Admiral Dewey is head, will ask for at least three and possibly four battleships and that a lively clash will take place in Congress when the appropriation bills come up.

Pathescope Editor's Daily Letter to the Boys and Girls

GREAT ACTIVITY THIS WEEK

—Pathograph injects new spirit and purpose in contest. How two schools are furthering their campaigns.

Wednesday, November 11, 1914.

DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS:

Real surprises are being uncovered this week by the schools in the Pathescope contest. Votes and subscriptions are coming in thicker than ever—and from places entirely unexpected. This sudden quickening of life is due to the Pathograph—the unique pathograph which will be given the school which polls the biggest vote this week.

Pupils who had been lagging in their work for the Pathescope are waking up and hurrying to get in every vote possible. Pupils who have been very active are finding additional means of obtaining coupons and subscriptions. Friends who have been intending to help are now coming forward.

The Pathograph is intensifying and concentrating the interest in every direction. It is not only an opportunity to secure a wonderful pathograph, but also an effective means of furnishing a school's Pathescope campaign.

At P. S. 20, Manhattan, the boys have contrived a very ingenious bulletin board, which is used to publish the results of each day's work. The letters are cut out of a black background and illuminated by a storage battery arrangement. The leading class each day has its name blazoned forth in glowing letters. Thus far Class 6A2 has led. The boys of P. S. 20 are a very businesslike and enterprising company.

P. S. 58, Manhattan, had an excellent turnout of mothers at its Pathescope exhibition last week. Both the mothers and the pupils showed most intense interest in the Pathescope. In his talk Edward F. McSorley, principal, said the motion picture was one of the chief means of bringing enjoyment and benefit to the boys and girls in school. Although Number 58 is but a recent entry, it is making good progress.

Yours heartily, Pathescope Editor

NOTE.—The Pathescope is the motion picture machine which is being competed for in the contest. The Pathograph is the photograph which will be awarded to the school turning in the most votes in coupons from the most subscribers in a special week contest ending on Saturday, November 7, noon, to Saturday, November 14, noon.
