GOOD MORNING!

Forbes Magazine says:

Central's action has shown that the cost of breaking an employee rate from $25.00 hourly to $25.00 per hour is $3.00 per hour, a reduction in the rate of pay as a result of the successful strike.

All of which shows, in a dollar and a cent, the importance of picking the right man in the right place.

If you are building an organization for the future, you want the men who are working for you to have a sense of security and a sense of responsibility. The man who is working for you is the one who has the responsibility for the work that is done. The man who is working for you is the one who has the responsibility for the work that is done. The man who is working for you is the one who has the responsibility for the work that is done. The man who is working for you is the one who has the responsibility for the work that is done.
