

Stokes Files Another Suit For Divorce

Announces Second Action During Trial of First; Failure to Eliminate Son as Corespondent Cause

Names Wealthy Oil Man

May Try to Consolidate Two Cases; Nurses Testify to Activities of Cousin "Hal"

The announcement that W. E. D. Stokes, former proprietor of the Hotel Ansonia, had instituted a new divorce action against Helen Elwood Stokes was made yesterday at the trial of his divorce suit and her separation suit before Justice Finch in the Supreme Court. Mr. Stokes instituted his new suit because of Supreme Court Justice Ford's refusal to permit him to amend his complaint in his original action to eliminate W. E. D. Stokes Jr., his son by a former marriage, as corespondent.

In this new case Edgar T. Wallace, a wealthy oil man, now married and living in San Francisco, is mentioned as corespondent. It is alleged that he and Mrs. Stokes acted in concert in September, 1917, at 12 East Thirtieth Street, in New York City, in an effort to be made to consolidate the two actions.

Miss Sarah Jeannette Gates, a trained nurse, was called to the stand yesterday. She testified that during an attack of influenza, Miss Gates testified that she heard the altercation that took place between Mr. and Mrs. Stokes at their home early in the morning of New Year's Day, 1918, which was caused by the presence in the house of Dr. Hal C. Billig, a dentist, cousin of Mrs. Stokes's mother, Mrs. Stokes had gone out New Year's Eve.

Billig Obligated to Leave Home. "At about 2 a. m.," said Miss Gates, "I heard the plaintiff saying: 'Helen, is that you? I thought you were coming home at 11:50.' Then Mrs. Stokes answered, 'We were invited out to supper.'"

"I saw Mr. Stokes return to his bedroom after that. A few minutes later I was aroused by hearing him exclaim indignantly: 'The hell are you doing here? I thought you had gone to the hotel.' Shortly after Mr. Billig left the house, said the nurse.

Miss Gates also gave testimony similar to that given on Tuesday by Mrs. Juliette Groeger, who acted as nurse to the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Stokes, to the effect that she saw Mrs. Stokes in her room attired in her underwear, while Mr. Billig also was present.

She testified further that on one occasion Mrs. Stokes adjusted her garter at the door of her room open, so that the nurse could see her. Mr. Billig was sitting with Miss Gates at the time. The witness admitted listening in on conversations. Miss Gates will be cross-examined to-day.

Mr. Groeger was cross-examined yesterday by Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Mrs. Stokes. She was asked about testimony she gave that in December, while Mrs. Stokes was living at home of her mother, she saw Mr. Billig in the defendant's room while the latter was dressing.

"I was in Mrs. Stokes's room with her, assisting her in getting dressed," said Mrs. Groeger. "The door was closed. She had on her underclothing, shoes and stockings. Mr. Billig opened the door. She said, 'Wait a moment,' and Mr. Billig walked right in and shut the door behind him."

"Was Mr. Billig fully dressed?" asked Mr. Littleton.

"Yes," replied the witness.

"What did Mrs. Stokes say? What was said by either of them?"

"Nothing. She went over to the closet and got something to cover her—a light kimono. Then I left her and went to my room."

Justice Finch asked Mrs. Groeger what it was that fixed the time of this occurrence in her mind. She said it was the first time she saw Mr. Billig enter the room of Mrs. Stokes when she was not fully dressed. The justice asked the witness whether she charged at the time that she saw Mr. Billig enter the room of Mrs. Stokes, and Mrs. Groeger said, "I thought they were kind of affectionate to each other."

The witness said that one day she saw the two playing cards, while Mr. Stokes was sitting up in bed and Mr. Billig was sitting on a chair beside the bed.

Mrs. Groeger testified that sometimes when Mrs. Stokes went out for a walk she would lock the door of her room to make her husband believe she was asleep.

Mrs. Groeger admitted that she still was receiving $55 a month from Mr. Stokes. She said that Mr. Stokes agreed to pay her this when she was leaving the employ of Mr. Stokes, and that she was in bad health and expected to leave the state. She said she was told it was necessary for Mr. Stokes to have her on hand to testify at the present trial. The trial will be continued to-day.

Three-Year-Old Goes Subway Riding--Lost? Not Much, He Says

Parks Kiddie Car at Tube Entrance, Lands at Times Square, Struts About Rialto Until Man Takes Him to Children's Society Rooms

George Francis Mahoney Jr., who is three years and eight months old, issued a statement last night denying that he had been lost. His kiddie car had been and still was, he said, but he wasn't. He just went for a ride in the subway.

His mother and the police and everybody who thought he was lost are mistaken, George said. He took the subway. It was Tuesday afternoon that the notion struck George to go for a subway ride. He had taken one last summer, and it ended at Aunt Nellie's in New Milford, N. J., which George found to be a most entertaining place.

His mother, who lives in Fifteenth Street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, Brooklyn, had taken George to the butcher's Tuesday and something about the butcher reminded George of New Milford. He turned his kiddie car around and straddled right out of the shop.

Parks Kiddie Car
As his mother had told him not to cross the street alone George turned aside resolutely first at one crossing and then at the next, which brought him face to face with an entrance to the Fourth Avenue subway.

It was a pleasant, expansive expression to the subway entrance and George went in, lugging his kiddie car. The man inside told him kiddie cars weren't allowed, so George laboriously toiled up the stairs with it and parked it on the sidewalk. Then he went in again.

"Two ladies were just going in to get on a car that was there," he said, "so I walked between them and got on."

Sweeping Changes In State Narcotic System Predicted
Act Embodying Essentials of Fearon-Smith Bill Assured, Says Dr. Prentice, of New York Co. Medical Group

Repeal of the Whitney anti-drug act, abolition of the State Narcotics Commission and enactment of a law embodying all the essential features of the Fearon-Smith bill are practically assured, in the opinion of representatives of the New York County Medical Society and other supporters of the bill.

Dr. Alfred C. Prentice, of 226 West Seventy-eighth Street, a member of the New York society's legislative committee, who attended the hearing on narcotics bills on Tuesday, said that the following statement yesterday:

"An almost unanimous sentiment developed at the hearing which seemed to demand repeal of the Whitney act. Of the speakers, only two were in favor of the retention of the law. They were Commissioner Herrick and Judge Cornelius J. Collins, who drafted the Whitney act."

"If the Whitney law is repealed, some provision of law must be made to enable the State of New York to enforce its police power over the illegal traffic in narcotic drugs and to provide for the treatment of narcotic addicts at public expense. The Fearon-Smith bill has been carefully drawn as a constructive measure, containing the necessary provisions to make the State of New York comply with the Federal Harrison law and to provide for the treatment of addicts at public expense."

"It is to be expected that, as a result of the hearing, the joint committee will report out a bill providing for repeal of the Whitney law and containing the essential provisions of the Fearon-Smith bill, namely, prohibiting the prescribing or dispensing by physicians of narcotics to addicts and providing for the necessary care of addicts at public expense."

"If such a measure becomes a law it will insure preventing drug addicts securing narcotic drugs legitimately. The illegal traffic in narcotic drugs then becomes strictly a problem of enforcement of law by the police and the courts."

Opponents of the Fearon-Smith bill charged at the hearing that the bill was enacted to increase the business of narcotics sanitarians by forbidding physicians to prescribe drugs for addicts.

Bedtime Stories
Peter and Jumper Get a Great Fright
By Thornton W. Burgess

The bravest may be put to flight by wholly unexpected fright.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit went back to look for his cousin, Jumper the Hare. He found him not at all from the threat of windfall under which they had been so sure Buster Bear had spent the winter.

Peter hastened to apologize to Jumper for having doubted him. "I've seen Buster Bear," said he, "and it is true that his coat is just as it always has been, as black as black can be. And he told me that you were right about where he spent the winter. He said he had been near the great windfall since early last fall. And he said, too, that he doesn't intend to come near it. Why do you suppose he doesn't intend to come near it?"

Jumper shook his head. "I give it up," said he. "I haven't the least idea. There is a mystery, a great mystery, about that windfall, and I don't know the answer. Did Buster say that he was afraid to go near it?"

"No," replied Peter. "No, he didn't say that. He only spoke of it, he acted as if he thought he would be helped out of it if he kept away. And he advised me to keep away from it, too. He said I would be likely to live longer if I didn't go near it. Now that you suppose he meant by that?"

Again Jumper shook his head. "I—," he began. "What's that?" He jumped and ran back a few steps, then sat up to stare at the great windfall which had startled eyes. Peter did exactly the same thing. There they sat staring at the great windfall.

Peter nodded. "I certainly did," he whispered back. "There it is again!" Once more they ran a few steps, and then sat up to stare at that old windfall.

For a few minutes they heard nothing. It was as still as it can be only in the heart of the Green Forest when not even a leaf moves. They could hear the beating of their own hearts. Then from that great windfall came a sound that there was no mistaking. It was a deep, grumbly-rumbly growl, such a growl as they had never heard save from the throat of Buster Bear. It was followed by a whine, and that whine was just such a whine as they never had heard, save from the throat of Buster Bear. And they knew Buster Bear

Tartoue Says Wife Had Two Other Husbands

Artist, in Answer to Suit for Separation, Charges She Was Not Divorced When He Married Her

He Alleges Intimidation

Asserts She Abused Him, Causing Him Damage and Impairing His Health

Pierre Tartoue, portrait painter, answered the separation suit of Mrs. Claudia Windsor Tartoue, formerly of California, in the Supreme Court yesterday by denying her allegations of cruelty and charging that Mrs. Tartoue was already the wife of two other men when she married the defendant, and that she had not been divorced from either. The couple were married in October, 1919, and the artist alleged that his wife abandoned him on November 10, 1920.

Mr. Tartoue said that besides fraudulently representing that she was never married before the plaintiff also gave false information about her age, for instead of being twenty-four years old, as she is alleged to have stated in her application for her marriage license, she was thirty years old. Relying upon these representations, Mr. Tartoue said he married the plaintiff.

Alleges Two Other Marriages
Since then, it is alleged by the defendant, he has learned that his wife married Louis Roth on January 6, 1906, at Pendleton, Ore., and that on June 26, 1912, she became the wife of George Jackson Bush at New Westminster, B. C. The artist asked for an explanation from his wife upon learning of these alleged facts, but Mrs. Tartoue, her husband said, refused to explain.

"But she abused and attempted to intimidate the defendant," Mr. Tartoue continued in his answer, "and told him she would ruin his career as an artist by creating a public scandal in action for separation which she would institute. She said she would make scandalous accusations against the defendant, charging him with concealing and participating in fraudulent schemes of extortion, and further charging him with inducing her to participate in such schemes, and that upon the defendant's refusal to accede to the demand of the plaintiff that he remain quiet and continue to live with her the plaintiff left the home of the defendant."

Denies Threat to Kill
Mr. Tartoue expressed the belief that after his wife left him she caused the publication of certain scandalous statements about him, which have caused him damage, and because of this he has become lame and impaired and he has been unable to engage in his profession as an artist.

Mr. Tartoue denied the charges of adultery, but he admitted that he had been unfaithful to his wife, and that he had been unfaithful to her for some time. He said that he had been unfaithful to her for some time, and that he had been unfaithful to her for some time. He said that he had been unfaithful to her for some time, and that he had been unfaithful to her for some time.

Slayer-Suicide Identified; 4-Day Bride Disappears
Discharged Soldier Who Killed Merchant and Self Married Brooklyn Woman Saturday

Arthur W. Dawson is the name of the man who shot and killed Morris Beaklin, a merchant of 26 Greenwich Street, Tuesday evening, after shooting and killing himself when cornered by the police after a chase.

Edward L. Dawson, of 138 Amity Street, Brooklyn, brother of the dead man, positively identified his body at the morgue and verified police information that he had been married last Saturday to a Brooklyn woman, whose name the police informant did not reveal. Dawson had been living with his bride at 1072 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, for the last four days. Mrs. Dawson remained at that address until yesterday morning, when she disappeared and did not return. The police believe she is with her parents, whose address is at present unknown.

Dawson also was identified by Sergeant Frank B. Hastings, of Fort Wood, Bedlow's Island, where he was dismissed from the service five days ago. He received an honorable discharge.

Sergeant Hastings told the police that Dawson had been in the army six years and that for some time past he had been talking to his friends about getting married as soon as he received his discharge. Nothing known by any of the dead man's former comrades furnished the slightest clue to his motive in killing Beaklin.

Weather Report
Sun rises at 6:17 a. m. Sun sets at 5:57 p. m. Moon rises at 6:28 a. m. Moon sets at 7:08 p. m.

Local Official Forecast—Fair and colder to-day; fair to-morrow; fresh west wind.

Local Official Record—The following official record from the Weather Bureau shows temperature during the last twenty-four hours, in comparison with the corresponding date of last year:

1921, 1920. 3 p. m. 41° 39° 4 p. m. 42° 40° 5 p. m. 43° 41° 6 p. m. 44° 42° 7 p. m. 45° 43° 8 p. m. 46° 44° 9 p. m. 47° 45° 10 p. m. 48° 46° 11 p. m. 49° 47° 12 noon 50° 48°

Highest, 64 degrees, at 1 p. m.; lowest, 35, at 6 a. m.; m. average, 58; average since date last year, 58; average same date for thirty-three years, 55.

Humidity
5 a. m. 44 p. m. 78 p. m. 54

Barometer Readings
5 a. m. 29.951 p. m. 28.853 p. m. 29.75

General Weather Conditions
WASHINGTON, March 9.—Pressure in the Gulf of Mexico extending from the Gulf of Mexico to the Gulf of Mexico, the east Gulf of Mexico, and it is low and falling rapidly over the north Rocky Mountain region. The pressure is high in the Gulf of Mexico and it is high in the Gulf of Mexico.

The temperature continued abnormally high during Wednesday in the Atlantic states, and it has risen decidedly over the Gulf of Mexico and the north Rocky Mountain region.

The weather became much cooler during Wednesday in the Gulf states, the Ohio Valley and the region of the Great Lakes. The outlook is for a cold day Thursday and Friday in the states east of the Mississippi River, except that rain is probable Thursday morning along the south Atlantic coast and snow Thursday night or Friday in the upper lake region.

The temperature will be lower Thursday in the Atlantic states, and it will rise somewhat in the Ohio Valley and the region of the Great Lakes.

Forecasts by Districts—Eastern New York—Fair Thursday; colder in south portion Friday. Middle West—Fair Thursday; Friday fair. Southern New England—Fair and colder Thursday; Friday fair. Eastern Pennsylvania—New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland—Fair and colder Thursday; Friday fair. Western Pennsylvania, western New York—Fair and somewhat warmer Thursday; Friday cloudy.

Broadway at Ninth Street, New York.
Business Hours—9 to 5.
Telephone STuyvesant 4700

Easter Frocks, Suits and Wraps for Miss 14 to 20

Four Presidents of the United States,

it is said, left these last words: President George Washington, "It is well."

President John Quincy Adams, "Independence forever!"

The first President Harrison (Grandfather of Pres. Benjamin Harrison), "I wish you to understand the true principles of government. I wish them carried out. I ask nothing more."

President Zachary Taylor, "I have tried to do my duty."

And President Abraham Lincoln, in the famous speech at Gettysburg, spoke these famous words, "This nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

The beginning of the administration of Warren G. Harding as the twenty-ninth President of the United States marks the initiation of the most portentous period in the history of the United States with its future relation to the world.

(Signed)
John Wanamaker

The entire line of the well-known
Columbia Phonographs is reduced in price, beginning today. Everybody, near and far, knows that the COLUMBIA PHONOGRAPH is one of the standard instruments of the world; and this reduction in price goes all the way down the Columbia line, taking in all the popular models and offering them in all the various woods and finishes.

First payment as low as 5 Per Cent.

These are all cabinet instruments.

Style Regular price Sale price
L-2.....$275 $175
K-2..... 225 150
H-2..... 165 140
G-2..... 150 125
P-2..... 140 100
E-2..... 125 85

Phonograph Salons.
First Gallery, New Building.

Women's $9.50 to $16 Shoes at $4.75 pr.

$51,215 worth of $22-244, divided as follows:

575 prs. were $ 9.50
2199 prs. were $10.00
662 prs. were $11.00
358 prs. were $12.00
381 prs. were $12.50
268 prs. were $13.00
57 prs. were $14.00
124 prs. were $15.00
80 prs. were $16.00

Reduced one-third
Many pieces of the old fashioned cut glass, handsome and brilliant.

Prices range from $4.25 for celery tray to $26.50 for an exquisite candy jar.

Decorated } Third to Glassware } half less

Taken from our regular stock—vases, flower bowls, cheese and cracker dishes, marmalade jars, compotes, baskets, bon bon dishes, candy jars, mayonnaise dishes, sandwich trays, ice tea sets, and many other things—some American; some from Czechoslovakia.

Prices range from 30c for a small vase to ice tea set for $16.

$4.50 Scrim
Curtains for $3 pr.

350 pairs, hand-drawn curtains of the better grade of scrim. Just the curtains many women are looking forward to putting up when the Spring days come.

First floor, Old Building. Fourth Gallery, New Bldg.

The John Wanamaker Store
Formerly A. T. Stewart & Co.

Easter Frocks, Suits and Wraps for Miss 14 to 20

3,500 yds silks below wholesale price

Printed Georgette crepe and crepe chiffon, 39 in. wide, made to be sold at $2.35 wholesale—today's wholesale price $1.65 yard.

When we found we could have these silks, in twenty beautiful designs, large and small, with each design in as many as six color combinations, at so much below the maker's price, we took all we could get—3,500 yards.

3,000 yards heavy Georgette crepe

The same grade sold for more than twice $1.55 a year ago. It is a soft, crinkly crepe, so closely woven that it will not pull or stretch.

39 in. wide; 40 shades, as well as black and white.

3,000 yards of Washable satin

Sold at $3.85 a year ago, in our own stocks; 36 in. wide; two shades of pink, orchid and white; heavy quality, suitable for sport skirts, undies and negligees.

2,000 yards of Shantung pongee

Very fine quality, even-weaved, natural tone, 33 in. wide; heavy enough for whole suits or dresses; will make fine shirts for men.

All $1.55 yard

And none of these Silks can be re-ordered to sell at that price.

Main floor, Old Building.

Cut Glass at one-half less

In the March Sale

One big table contains pieces of fine American rock crystal and engraved glass from the Sinclair factory—not many pieces of a kind but each piece bearing the stamp of originality—at one-half their former prices.

Prices range from a jelly plate at $2.50 to a tall vase at $50.

Reduced one-third
Many pieces of the old fashioned cut glass, handsome and brilliant.

Prices range from $4.25 for celery tray to $26.50 for an exquisite candy jar.

Decorated } Third to Glassware } half less

Taken from our regular stock—vases, flower bowls, cheese and cracker dishes, marmalade jars, compotes, baskets, bon bon dishes, candy jars, mayonnaise dishes, sandwich trays, ice tea sets, and many other things—some American; some from Czechoslovakia.

Prices range from 30c for a small vase to ice tea set for $16.

$4.50 Scrim
Curtains for $3 pr.

350 pairs, hand-drawn curtains of the better grade of scrim. Just the curtains many women are looking forward to putting up when the Spring days come.

First floor, Old Building. Fourth Gallery, New Bldg.

Distinctive Suits for little boys, $2.75

Charming little model, built upon lines of which even the most fastidious little boy must approve.

The severely straight small trousers, of fine quality colored chambray, button on to simple waists of striped white madras, adorned only by chic little Eton collars and cuffs, edged with crisp fluting and a bit of colored hand-stitching to match the trousers, and big pearl buttons.

In soft shades of blue, tan, pink or green.

Other suits, $1.95 to $7.95. Sizes 2 to 4 years.

Third floor, Old Building.

Dainty Cotton House Dresses, $4.85

A very modest price. Two simple models.

(1)—fine printed voile in effective design, with becomingly fashioned vestee, roll collar and cuffs of crisp white organdie, prettily hemstitched in color and unusual braided buttons and crush girdle. In Copenhagen, navy or black.

(2)—white dotted Swiss, much-favored long, slenderizing lines of Tuxedo collar and vestee in organdie. Cleverly designed shoulders built with yoke give additional fullness over the bust, and make the an especially desirable frock for large women. Short sleeves, organdie cuffs, two patch pockets.

Sizes 34 to 46.

Third floor, Old Building.

Satin Robes-- Unusual at $20

Unusual, for two reasons.

FIRST: for the lovely quality of soft lustrous satin in delicate shades of pink or blue of which they are beautifully fashioned.

SECOND: for the attractive quilted motif developed in the wide skirt border, the big patch pockets and on the cuffs.

Quilting is being much favored this spring and is used extensively on the finer frocks and wraps for the street as well as on the most charming of new robes for the boudoir.

Charmingly simple lines, long rolling collar, deep neckline; china silk lining with cozy interlining of a filmy bit of tissue.

Third floor, Old Building.

Hardwater Soap is selling so fast and the weather has been so damp, interfering with the production of the soap, that we must now ask the indulgence of the public for about a week's delay in deliveries of orders taken for the next few days. But placing your order now will assure delivery ahead of others that may come later.

—75c a dozen cakes; 45c half dozen; 74c cake.

Main floor, Old Building.

Light Reading

The bigger the work on which our minds are engaged, the lighter the reading we require for occasional rest. For example—

The Film Mystery, written by America's Sherlock Holmes—Babel. Six angles from which life is viewed—Call Mr. Fortune (and you'll solve any mystery)—The Golden Parrot, which has to do with hidden treasure (something we're all looking for)—Sons of the Sea, wild as the waves themselves are at times.

$2 each.

Hundreds of others.

Eighth Gallery, New Building.

Practical Cooking Demonstrations

In the Efficiency Kitchen, in the Housewares Store, on Thursday, from 11 A. M. to 4 P. M., we shall prepare and cook soups, vegetables, meats, etc., with the Sechrist steam pressure cooker in one-third the time allowed for the old methods.

Seventh Gallery, New Bldg.

Crepe de chine is the Parisienne's favorite material for the slip-on frock—model with narrow pleated ruffles on skirt is $39.50. The tailored frock illustrated is developed in blue Poiret twill; $59.50.

Second floor, Old Building.

It is not big type and big talk in the newspapers—but the quality, fashion and fair price of the goods in the store which make value and give lasting satisfaction.