Arbiter's Announcement Puts Stop to Brilliant Game and Causes Commotion

By Grantland Rice

deliberate as the game dragged along through two hours and forty minutes of play.

Shawkey, after a stunning blow from Irish Meusel in the first inning, rose to brilliant heights after the second inning, when he checked the Giants with three widely scattered hits over the remainder of the way.

Groh and Frisch had just nicked the Yankees star for two clean hits when Meusel came up waving a big war club in the golden air.

The prodigious punch scored three men and left the Yankee contingent along roster's row gasping for air in the blistering heat that beat upon the scene.

But the Yankees proved they could come from behind as well as the Giants. Shawkey, after slipping a trifle in the second round, began to pump increasing speed over the plate as he stopped the Giants in their tracks.

There was no getting by Shawkey after that first round and his stout defense backed up his fine pitching in flawless style.

The Yankees got a start in the first inning when Bancroft proved the power of his arm by throwing Dugan's grounder far over Kelly's lofty spine.

That was the first one. Barnes then plodded along at an even stride until Aaron Ward broke under his guard.

The aroused Yankees kept firing away with all they had, but the brilliant infield support of Frisch and Groh helped Barnes to suppress each threatening rush.

Against this combination of Barnes, Frisch, Groh and the Yankees' defense found that one run now needed a hard one to get.

Ruth was at the bat with one out when Jess Barnes attempted to baffle the Bambino with a slow one.

The Babe fell heavily against the plate, but he was not hurt.

The Yankees had to end the count, then made a last desperate attempt to break through in the ninth.

Barnes faced the big moment with rare skill and courage.

As the tenth began, the sun had dipped back but still fairly clear.

It was here that the umpire failed to agree with their judgment.

Another inning might have been played without any great trouble.

The crowd had its ground for complaint, but this complaint in no way affected the game.

Andy Ketchell, the sensational bantamweight of the 14th Coast Defense, will meet Danny Howard, of the 9th Coast Defense, in the ten-round semi-final.

High Lights in Yankees-Giants Thrilling Tie Contest at Polo Grounds Yesterday

one of the most thrilling hurling duels ever seen in a world's series game. At the right below, Frank Frisch, of the Giants, is shown safe at third in the fifth inning, and at the left below, Aaron Ward is shown crossing the plate after having lifted the ball into the left field bleachers for his home run.

Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Anna H. Reidy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius J. Reidy, of this city, and Wilfred ("Rosy") Ryan, the Giant pitcher, who held the Yankees scoreless in the last two innings of the first game of the world's series.

Play-by-Play Account of Yankees-Giants Tie Contest

By Joseph Val

Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, world's series comedians extraordinary, held the center of the stage at the Polo Grounds yesterday throughout the early afternoon and up to the very minute when play began.

Altrock and Schacht carried the house with their final act, a slow-motion pitching and batting feature, which was absolutely the best trick in their repertoire.

There was the usual conference of the umpires at the plate, following which the arbiters went to their posts. Hildebrand taking his place behind the plate as umpire in chief.

GIANTS—Captain Bancroft opened the game with a grounder, on which he was tossed out, Ward to Pipp. Groh kept intact his perfect batting average by getting his fourth hit of the series.

GIANTS—Bancroft popped to Pipp. Scott broke Groh's perfect batting record by tossing him out at first.

GIANTS—Young rolled to Scott and beat the throw to first. Kelly forced Frisch, Shawkey to Ward and Cunningham and Snyder lifted to Ruth. No runs, one hit.

GIANTS—Frisch hit five fouls and drew two balls before he finally fouled out to Dugan. Pipp got under Meusel's fly in foul territory. Young's fly was easy for Ruth. No runs, no hits.

GIANTS—It was an easy inning for Shawkey. Ward retired Barnes, Pipp handled Bancroft's grounder and Frisch got under Groh's twisting fly ball.

GIANTS—Frisch hit five fouls and drew two balls before he finally fouled out to Dugan. Pipp got under Meusel's fly in foul territory. Young's fly was easy for Ruth. No runs, no hits.

GIANTS—Barnes also got by easily, flashing some of his best curves. Scott rolled to Kelly. Shawkey fanned three pitched balls and Witt also struck out. No runs, no hits.

Royalty Is Guest Of Yankee Owner At Polo Grounds

Lord and Lady Mountbatten were the guests of honor at the box party given by Colonel Jacob Ruppert at yesterday's game, but they were not the only well-known personages on the list of Yankee boxholders.

The athletes themselves were represented by the names of Babe Ruth and Miller Huggins. Other prominent boxholders were Sam Harris, Colonel E. Pipp, George Stallings, James E. Guiney, J. Conway Toole, Commissioner Landis, Governor Miller, Gen. Pershing, Judge Levine, Justice Neuberger, William F. Friedman, Ben J. Sison, Harry Stevens, Ralph Pulitzer, Cornelius J. Sullivan and George Chalmers, secretary to President Harding.

Gill and Gardner Win

E. C. McGill and Gus Gardner were winners in yesterday's matches in the interborough billiard tournament at the Brooklyn Recreation Academy.

Giants 4 to 5 Favorites to Win the Series

But Few Wagers Being Made on Outcome; Plenty of Money for Yanks Today

The betting situation is unchanged over yesterday's drawn battle, though the Giants would seem to have gained an advantage in that the second game of the Huggins staff has been called without gaining a victory for his team.

A little more Giant money made the appearance last night, and at John Doyle's a few $500 bets were laid at 5 to 4 on the Clon McGraw to capture the pennant.

The odd part of the betting is that there is so little of it. With no game packed away in the icebox and four games needed to win, the Giants should be overwhelming favorites.

Only twice in the history of the autumn baseball classic has a team led the series after winning the first game, and that includes those struggles where five games were needed to clinch the bunting. However, the McGraw pitching staff is such a gamble all in itself that canny bettors would like to see Scott, McQuillan and Ryan work against the Yankees before they risk their simoleons.
