TRIES TO FORCE JERSEY CITY WATER ON ARLINGTON.

Department Called Out When He Goes There at 1 A. M. With Court, Lawyers, Police and Laborers to Connect Pipes-Fuss May Be Settled To-day.

A battle was imminent at Arlington, N. J., at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, and while valor was displayed on both sides, discretion prevented a clash. It was a fight between Jersey City and the Suburban ater Company, which is an offshoot of the East Jersey Water Company.

Jersey City wants to supply Arlington, Kearny, East Newark and Harrison, whose mains it owns, with water from the Rockaway River system. These towns are supplied by the Suburban Water Company from the Pequannock River and the upper Passaic. There is a point in Arlington there the Suburban mains can be easily cut ff and the Jersey City mains connected so as to deliver water to the towns menioned, and these towns are a unit in preerring to have the present supply uninterupted. Mayor Mark M. Fagan of Jersey ity is deeply interested in the plan to comel Harrison, Kearny and Arlington to uy their water from Jersey City.

On Saturday night a trolley car was engaged in Jersey City and loaded with Mayor Fagan's forces, the Mayor himself in command, with Corporation Counsel George I. Record as his lieutenant and adviser; Street and Water Commissioners Kane and hippler of the newly appointed board, Lawver William A. Davis of Harrison and Justice of the Peace Edward A. Ransom. Assembled in Bergen county was a force of laborers in charge of William Green, a Kearny contractor, and Hugh Gilligan, a foreman for B. M. & J. H. Shanley. A lot of 24-inch iron pipe and connections had been hauled to the spot during the

The special car reached Arlington from Jersey City at midnight and at a signal the laborers were set at work digging a ditch where the new connection was to be made At the same time Judge Ransom prepared to hold court in the car.

Almost at the same instant three coaches arrived from Jersey City bringing ten policemen armed with nightsticks and revolvers. They were in charge of Police Commissioner Mitchell. It is said that the men did not know their destination until they arrived and that Chief Murphy had no knowledge of the detail of his men.

Patrolman McClurg of Kearny was probably the first to scent the hattle and went ably the first to scent the battle and went to the town hall for instructions. Mrs. Griffen, the wife of the superintendent of the Suburban Water Company, lives within sight of the place where the workmen gathered. In the absence of her husband she telephoned to the Chief of Police to send a force to stop the work. General police and fire alarms were sent out and a riot call followed. Chairman James J. Donnelly of the Kearny Common Council led the town forces and before 1 o'clock all the police and firemen were at the scene of the apparently impending struggle.

men were about to turn on stream the firemen were about to turn on streams from the hose when a truce was called. A conference followed in Mayor Fagan's car and it was finally agreed that the laborers should fill up the trench and retire and that a formal application should be made to-day to the Kearny Street Commission to dig the trench. Mayor Baylis of North Arlington agreed to the digging of the short trench necessary in his borough. Then the Jersey City officials went home in their car, leaving behind a contract to supply Kearny with water at $60 a million gallons. The town is now paying $90 a million gallons to the Suburban Water Company.

Take Care of His Mother's Hoard. WAVEBLY, N. Y., April 10 .- A jury yesterday declared William Gardner incompetent to manage money that was acquired by his mother in New York in a peculiar way. Sixty years ago Gardner was horn in Waverly. He was not a bright child and his mother left him in charge of his grandmother and went to New York. There she became a beggar on Broadway. After a few years she became insane and was sent to a hospital. Later an old bureau found in her squalid quarters was overhauled, and beneath a false bottom of a drawer was found $5,160 in cash and securi-

Before her death she often spoke of large sums of money; but this was supposed to be simply ravings, and little attention was paid to it. E. C. Snow, a Brooklyn attorney, heard of it, and on the woman's death investigated and found small sums of money on deposit in every savings bank in New York. The aggregate was $16,800. When the crash came the clergyman was standing up in his carriage. He was thrown to the roadway, but fell upon his feet and escaped injury. He grabbed his own horse by the bridle and held on until the animal became origine and need on unit the animal occarine quiet. A policeman held the other horse. Mrs. Gardner kept her head and sat still until the policeman helped her out.

SQUASH AT CEDARHURST. Blagden Wins in the First Round From

Decks have been cleared for the semifinal round in the squash racquet tournament at the Rockaway Hunting Club, to be played next Saturday, by the victory of W. P. Blagden over F. Childs and two defaults.

In the first match of the semi-final Herbert Harriman will play Blagden and in the second Fincke meets Postlethwaite.

In the first game Childs made a good defence, but he could do no more than carry out the contest to twelve hands, for the champion was at his best. This was demonstrated in the next game, when Blagden made 14 in the second hand, a number in service. The scores: FIRST GAME.

SURPRISE IN SPEEDWAY SPORT. D. A. Loughman's Jeannette Beats John F. Coekerill's Swift.

The going on the Speedway yesterday morn ing was heavy and sticky for the early arrivals but by noon, when the sport was at its height, the road was safe and fast. The best contests of the morning brought together the gray trotter Jeannette, 2:27%, driven by D. A. Loughman and the bay trotter swift, 2:07, with John F. Cockerill at the reins. Jeannette had met and defeated every trotter of prominence on the drive before Mr. Cockerill arrived. Swift is high in flesh and many seconds away from his best form, but the crowd expected to see him an easy winner and this fact made the victory of the gray mare all the more popular. The first heat between Swift and the gray nare was rather tame, as after the horses had passed the end of the iron railing and Mr. Cockerill saw that he was beaten he took had passed the end of the iron railing and Mr. Cockerill saw that he was beaten he took Swift back to a jog and finished two lengths in the rear. The second heat was an improvement, both owners driving from start to finish. When the end of the iron railing was reached and the gray mare had no perceptible advantage, it looked as if Swift would win, for this spot has always been his winning point. When the owner called for the final raily, Swift could not respond and Jeannette drew away and beat him by three parts of a length. The third heat resulted in a thrilling finish. As far as the eye could determine the two horses came as a pair in double harness. As the two neared the finish the crowd surged out into the drive, while each owner helped his favorite with voice and rein. As the horses swept between the two posts that mark the finish, the gray mare had one-half the length of her neck in front.

The pacing contingent produced good sport. Alfred Epstein behind Crescent won from Lady Eugenia, 2:14%, driven by J. T. Schaffer. Then Crescent was sent to tackle Johnny Agan, 2:05-4, driven by Charles Weiland, and this time he had to accept second place. Better Luck, driven by Samuel Newberger, was third, owing to an unfortunate break. Then Johnny Agan beat Crescent again single hand. Better Luck also scored a victory over Lady Eugenia, 2:14-4.

The lower stretch was in fine order for the afternoon meet, and the crowd was much larger than in the morning. Michael Reid, behind the chestnut trotter William E., 2:22%, was among the prominent winners, his best brush being that in which he finished in front of Annie Little, 2:12½, driven by John F. Cockerill.

C. H. McDonald, behind the bay trotter Mary, Steele, 2:20%, opened the sport in a all the police and firemen were at the scene of the apparently impending struggle.

Six pieces of fire apparatus were drawn up and 180 men prepared to man them and flood out the laborers. On behalf of Kearny Chairman Donnelly demanded that the work be stopped and Chairman Davidson, of the street committee, declared that the work must not be done on Sunday. After a discussion Chairman Donnelly ordered the arrest of Foreman William Greene of the Jersey City forces, and the latter demanded to be taken to the nearest Justice of the Peace.

Judge Ransom was on the soot. Recorder Kelly of Kearny protested against the prisoner must be taken to the town hall. This brought about another wrangle, and Greene was released. The Jersey City men ordered him to proceed with the digging. The Kearny people ordered that no more work should be done and threatened to arrest any one who got into the foreman, sprang into the ditch and called upon the hundred Italians to follow him. Some obeyed but others held back.

The Kearny police jumped into the ditch and there was a general wrestling match for a few minutes. A single shot would have precipitated a riot at that time and the firemen were about to turn on streams from the hose when a truce was called. A

as Young Corbett, returned to town yester day after an absence of nearly six months. Corbett is looking well, but did not seem as chipper as usual. His defeat by Britt still rankles in his mind, and he admits that he is much cast down over the unexpected Immediately upon his arrival here Corbett went to the Hotel Metropole, where he will remain while in the city. Last night THE SUN reporter had a long and interesting chat with him. Of course, Corbett's plans for the future were discussed. "Naturally it may not be amiss at this time to say something about my recent battle with Jimmy Britt," Rothwell said seriously. "Well, you know the result. When I say that I was robbed I mean it. No puglist was ever deprived of his just deserts as I was in that scrap. I don't blame Britt in was in that scrap. I don't blame Britt in the least. He is all right and a great fighter, too. He tried his best to win, but did not It was Eddy Graney who won for him.

"I am very much disappointed over my, defeat. If I had been knocked out I couldn't have feit worse. It would have been better for Graney, the game and myself had I been decisively beaten, for there would be no occasion to say anything. I am not making any excuses. I am not a hard loser, but when a person is actually deprived of something that really belongs to him it is only human nature to make a kick.

"I do not intend giving up the effort to fight Britt again. I will meet him on the same terms as in our recent encounter and will be satisfied to bet him $10,000 on the side that I will win. If this is not to his liking I will waive the side wager and fight him, winner take all. I am going to take a long rest now, but will be able to take him on, say next fall or winter. I am booked to sail for England on the St. Paul next Saturday in company with my manager. I will be away at least three or four months."

"Will you entertain a match abroad if one is offered?" was asked.

"As I have said, I need a long vacation and intend to get it," Corbett replied. "I have been doing a lot of fighting lately and a rest is due to me. But you know, money will entice any one, and if an offer worth while is made I may not reject it.

"Ben Jordan has been challenging me a lot during the past two years. When I get to England I will face him if he will bet say from $5,000 to $10,000 on himself. He is an excellent drawing card in England and we ought to play to a big house."

Corbett denied that he was broke or financially embarrassed. He declared that he had dabbled with Dame Fortune at the racetracks in California and won as often as he had dost.

Corbett was to have appeared at a Brooklyn theatre this week in sparring exhibitions, but cancelled the engagement because he sprained his back recently while exercising and also for the reason that he is going to England the least. He is all right and a great fighter, too. He tried his best to win, but did not

GOLF ASSOCIATION CENSUS.

COMMITTEE TO REPORT ON THE STATUS OF ALLIED CLUBS.

May Result in a Change of Constitution and but One Class of Members-West and East Recognized by President Windeler in His Appointments.

After the meeting of the United States'Golf Association committee on Saturday, President Windeler announced the committee to investigate the standing of the allied clubs in accordance with the resolution passed at the annual meeting in February. The resolution, which was offered by E. P. Martin of the Chicago Golf Club, followed the reading of a petition from thirteen allied clubs in the Chicago group for the right to vote corded to the associate clubs, and, to gain this end, the petitioners asked that the constitu-tion and bylaws be so changed that there shall be but one class of clubs, the respective dues and voting power to be determined by the standing and membership of each club. Martin's resolution, which was adopted dues and voting power to be determined by the standing and membership of each club. Martin's resolution, which was adopted by a unanimous vote, was:

Resolved. That the president shall appoint a committee of seven representing all sections of the country and both associate and allied clubs, which committee shall carefully consider the present status of associate and allied membership, and shall at the next annual meeting present their report, including any amendments to the constitution recommended by the unanimous vote of the committee; the president of the association to be exofice ochairman of this committee.

President Windeler appointed on the committee representatives of four associate clubs, Warren M. Whitney, Oakley, Mass., Country Club; S. Y. Heebner, Philadelphia Cricket Club; L. H. Graham, Baltusrol Golf Club, and D. R. Fargan, Onwensia Club, Lake Forest, Ill., and of three allied clubs, C. T. Atkinson, Midlothian, Ill., Country Club; S. A. Foster, Des Moines, Ia., Golf Club, and B. Crowell, Euclid Country Club, Cleveland, The three allied clubs in membership and the extent of their holdings in buildings and land, are equal to any of the associate clubs in the country, so that the interests of the class of members they represent seem in good hands. Midlothian, until last year, was an associate member and it was one of the thirteen signers of the soling declaration of independence read at the annual meeting. The representatives of the associate clubs have all a special knowledge of the clubs in their territory gained in the organization of their sectional golf leagues.

Investigation may disclose that the allied members, now 250 in number, are content with the present constitution of the U. S. G. A., which gives to them all the privileges of membership for annual dues of $10, and that the allied clubs are not desirous of increasing either the amount of yearly dues or to undertake the burden of government, which is now vested in thirty-two associate clubs, each paying $100 in annual dues. That the baseball cranks of Greater New York want Sunday games by a big league team was shown beyond doubt yesterday when the New York Americans played the Ridgewoods at Ridgewood. Though only an exhibition game and though the weather was cold and rain threatened, there were 12,000 persons present to see the New Yorks play the Ridgewoods after the latter had played the Philadelphia Giants, a team of colored players. Though big, the crowd would no doubt have been bigger had the game been a championship one, such as the New York American League Club was prevented from giving the people on Sundays at Ridgewood.

The New Yorks defeated the Ridgewoods yesterday, 14 to 2, and it was a good humored and orderly crowd as well as a big one. There was one fault, however, and that was There was one fault, however, and that was that the crowd was poorly handled. In the latter part of the game spectators crowded in on all sides of the playing field, interfering greatly with the play and with the vision of those in the stands. Just back of the catcher the onlookers were packed in thickly, and one of them got a hard rap over the eye from a swift foul tip.

Numerous women spectators were on hand. So were Bill Dahlen, Sam Mertes and others of the New York Nationals. Also Bill Devery. Everybody seemed to know Devery who came in for a good deal of good natured guying and took it in that spirit, and who also declined to make a speech, despite urgent requests.

The New Yorks delighted the spectators with their hard hitting. They got lively in the second inning and let loose a stream of vigorous swats. Neither Anderson nor Fultz played in the outfield. In their places Unglaub and Thoney did excellent work. Every man on the New York team hit safely and several of the long drives would have been home runs but for a ground rule.

HANDBALL.

Spirited Matches in New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City Courts.

Handball enthusiasts crowded the local courts yesterday and spirited matches were the rule. Mike Egan has not yet returned from San Francisco, but this had no apparent effect on the quality of the games at the Jersey City court. The match in which the most interest was taken was between Patrick McGovern and John McKeever. McGovern won the first and second games, but in the third McKeever scored his 21 accessible McGovern was compiling 17. McKeever's strong finish induced him to make match with McGovern, best three out of five games, which will be played next Friday

At Tarrant's Court, at Grove and Seventeenth streets, Jersey City, the fastest and most exciting match of the day was a special single handed five game rubber for a side bet of $10 between Pat Sullivan and Joe Pilkington. The latter won the first, but Sullivan took the next two. Pilkington won the fourth game by 21 to 18, then Sullivan won the deciding game by a similar margin.

At Murphy's 125th street court, there were several lively partnership matches. One of the best was between M. Hurst and John Taugney and Tom Lynch and Tom Dunn. The latter pair took the first and second games, then Hurst and Taugney won three, the final one by a single point.

Policemen William Browner and Robert Boles of the Forty-eighth precinct met in a three game match at the Brooklyn handball court. Browner won by a score of 2 to 1.

William R. Lee Defeats Teddy Billington in Opening Races at Valisburg.

William R. Lee, a blond haired youth from New York, furnished the greatest sensation at the opening races on the Vallsburg cycle track in Newark yesterday by de-feating Teddy Billington in the final of the amateur open event. Kramer, three times champion, showed signs of ability to annex the honors again this year by defeating unaided the powerful Leander-Root combination by three open lengths in the scratch professional race. The weather had prevented the work on the new grand stand being completed and many of the 7,000 spectators swarmed on the track and lined up, three and four deep, half way round the quarter-mile circuit. Hadfield caused a small flurry by threatening to protes mile open, but afterward cooled down. Five heats reduced the fifty-three starters in the mile open amateur to ten good ones, who got up in the final. When the bell range for the last lap Lee was the last man in the line, while Billington was well to the front. Lee started his sprint on the backstretch and overhauled Billington the last turn, the latter leading into the stretch. The New Yorker slowly forged ahead of Billington and won by two lengths. Sixty-six riders com-peted in the six heats of the half-mile amateur handicap, with two to qualify for the final. Lee tried to do all of the pacing necessary to catch the limit men and was "all out" before the last eighth was reached, though he led at the bell. Hartigan went to the front on the last turn and was never headed, winning from Schwab by a length. Frank was third and Billington, the lone scratch man, was fourth. Hartigan's time from the

at 130 Pounds, Ringside. Terry McGovern evidently has despaired of inducing Young Corbett to meet him again, for he has issued a challenge to meet Jimmy Britt. Yesterday at New Haven

Britt is at the present time in no condition to meet me. But I will wait a certain period if he promises that he will eventually give me a fight.

"If Britt should not care to meet me till fall, and Young Corbett wants to fight me before that, I would be willing. But in the before that, I would be willing. But in the meantime I will agree to box any feather-weight in the world from 122 pounds to 126 pounds. I can get to 122 pounds and remain strong, no matter what they may say."

McGovern further, says that the best way to settle for all time the question regarding the featherweight title is for some of the sporting writers throughout the country to select six featherweights, but them in a championship class, pair them for a series of bouts, say at St. Louis, and hold the scraps by pairs, the two men meeting in the finals being matched for the title.
