JIM VAUGHN, HE WAS IT

SPED PARTING DETROIT GUESTS WITH A SHUTOUT.

Highlanders Played Well Behind Him and Got to Donovan in Last Two Innings—Athletics, Bostons and Washingtons Other American League Winners.

Jim Vaughn was it on the hill yesterday, and the Highlanders saw to it that the Detroits were laved in whitewash. The Illinoen took two out of three from the champions and for the second time this year beat them two in succession. The invincible Athletics won again from the Clevelands, while the Bostons made it three straight from the Browns. The Washingtons won a ten inning game from the White Sox, the East therefore making a cleanup on the day. The results:

New York, 6; Detroit, 0.

Philadelphia, 3; Cleveland, 1.

Boston, 5; St. Louis, 2.

Washington 3; Chicago, 2.

NEW YORK (A. L.), 6; DETROIT, 0.

By way of speeding the Detroit guest, who will not be with us again until next aphelion or thereabout, the Highlanders administered an artistic flaying to the champions yesterday. The honors of war, the whole season considered, are still very much with the Tigers, but in this particular clash the carnivorous ones were made to walk a chalk line and take a lashing which brought a large amount of balm to the Highlanders for conquests in which the boot was on the other foot.

The New Yorks shut out their Detroit opponents and made their own runs by a strong finish. They peppered Bill Donovan energetically in the last two innings. Their attack when it did cut loose was clean cut, skilful, done with precision. The hits fitted in snugly with the movements of the base runners, and no part of the charge was wasted. For that reason six runs were made from six hits, four in the seventh inning and two in the eighth.

Vaughn and Donovan had a splendid duel for six innings. The difference between Jeems and William was that the New York moundsman kept up his effectiveness to the end, while Donovan couldn't stand the pace and toppled in the last two innings. Vaughn pitched one of the best games he has pitched this year. He kept the ball on the pentagon, varied his pace and mixed up his curves so that the Detroit batters were guessing all along and couldn't grind out more than one hit an inning.

Ty Cobb tried all his arts and wiles with a view to making a hit, but the home team had his number every time. Sam Crawford, with less subtlety, but with singleness of purpose, did better, walking up and swinging away and getting two hits. Good support attended both pitchers, Vaughn's being the faster only because chances for faster plays came New York's way. The New York fielding was sharp as a razor edge, mechanical accuracy being fostered by a frame of mind in keeping. In short the New Yorks were keyed up to an unbeatable game and never showed to better advantage.

McIntyre opened for the Detroits with a single through Knight, but on the throw in he undertook to take second, the ball going in to Vaughn. Vaughn popped on it and fired it to Laporte in time to nip McIntyre at the midway. Chafing somewhat at the indignity of the opposing hit Vaughn struck out Delehanty and Cobb. After disposing of Crawford and Moriarty in the second inning, Crawford's demise being accomplished by a spectacular stop by Vaughn of Sam's venomous smash, the hilleress bosman relaxed and passed Bush and Coles in rapid order. Stahl's grounder, which would have been absorbed by Laporte, Stanage therefore getting a technical hit.

The Highlanders popped three ties in the first inning, but Knight made a hit in the second. He was doubled up after Laporte had struck out. Dodging walked to the left field works in the third, but the latter were still on ballooning bent and tied out between passes. In a moment of carelessness Vaughn allowed Stanage to make a two bagger in the fifth inning, there were two out at the time of this outward occurrence. The liberty taken by Stanage moved Vaughn, and in Stanage's temerity Donovan had to suffer vicariously. All the beseechings and cross chucking of Hughey Jennings couldn't get a better response from Donovan than putting ribbons in the adjacent air.

Delehanty made a hit in the sixth with one out and was captured stealing after Walter had trampled out Cobb's life. My New York's second hit of the game was a single to right by Daniels in the sixth, but Donovan caught Daniels napping, which was something of feat, for Daniels is no commanbulist on the bases. Crawford opened with a hit in the sixth, but so immediately and effectively did Vaughn threaten to that Samuel never moved his encampment. Moriarty, the sweet singer of Michigan, clipped a fly to Knight. Bush sent one on a gentle parabolic flight to Laporte and Jones rolled a lukewarm grounder to Chase. Not a wallop past the infield to assist Crawford.

The custom of stretching was no sooner over in the seventh than Chase welcomed the first ball pitched with a single over second. He was able to make second on Knight's infield out because it was a hit and run play. Laporte singled through short and scored Chase. Again the hit and run was a medium of profit. The signal was given after Donovan had sent up a real ball and was likely to put the next one over. Roach singled along the causeway to Cobb and Laporte beat Ty's throw to third.

Austin tapped to Donovan and Laporte started for home. Donovan had the latter by the hollow of his hand, but instead of throwing to Chase, who had Laporte back pedalled, Bill chased Frank to the bag. The result was Laporte beat him to the goal. With three on bases the squeeze was tried. Criger hit to Donovan and the latter's throw to Stanage collared Laporte at the plate. However, Vaughn retrieved that misstep. He clouted hard through the box and brought in Roach and Austin. Criger, trying to make third on the play, was caught, Cobb to Donovan to Moriarty.

A triple by McIntyre in the eighth went for naught. There were two out and Delehanty struck out. The New Yorks added three more runs in the eighth on a base on balls to Daniels, an infield single to Wolter on a sacrifice by Chase, a three bagger by Knight and a long sacrifice fly to Cobb by Laporte. Laporte's contribution was so far out that Cobb didn't try to get Knight in the ninth a two bagger by Crawford and Wolter's miss of the same put Crawford on third with one out, this after Austin had made a lightning play on Cobb's bunt. Vaughn threw out Moriarty and Bush made his doom at first. His drive was close to a hit, but a combination jump and reach by Knight throttled it.

The score.

Ames Too Much for Cardinals—Reds Blank Brooklyns.

The Giants finished their season's series in St. Louis yesterday and with Ames at the helm defeated the Cardinals, taking two out of three. The Brooklyns didn't fare so well. They were shut out by the Reds in a ten inning game. The Cubs made their pennant prospects brighter by lambasting the Bostons simultaneously with a defeat for the Pittsburgs at the hands of the Phillies. For the present at least the race is for second place. The results:

NEW YORK (N. L.), 4; ST. LOUIS (N. L.), 2.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24.—Having fallen into the habit of losing ball games in the ninth inning St. Louis this afternoon lost the last game of the series to New York after holding the lead for eight innings. The cause of the Giants' victory was in Lush's failure to locate the plate in the last inning when Red Murray was passed. Then the Giants, who had found great trouble in getting but one man around to score, soon discovered that Southpaw Johnny and his teammates were about the easiest marks in the business and scored three runs, giving them a lead of two runs. The Cardinals were unable to overcome the handicap in their half of the last round, being retired almost without effort.

The Cardinals gained a lead by scoring one run in the fourth, which Ellis opened with a strikeout. Mowrey followed with a line single to centre. Ames apparently could not locate the plate for Konetchy. Just as Umpire Johnstone called a third ball Mowrey was sent down to second, with the result that Mike was tossed out, Schlei to Doyle.

With two out Konetchy was passed. Evans tripled to the centrefield fence, scoring Konetchy. In the New York's fifth Merkle doubled to right. At that the Giants' first sacker would never have scored had not Steve Evans made an entirely uncalled for play by capturing Schlei's foul fly. The capture gave Merkle a chance to hike to third. Ames came along with a single to right, scoring Merkle. Had Evans allowed the ball to fall foul Merkle would have remained on second and there is little possibility that he would have attempted to score on Ames's hit.

The Cardinals in their fifth again took the lead. One was down when Bescher got a life on Ames's wild throw to first on a little infield bounder. Lush fanned. Huggins singled to centre and Bescher scored. Huggins stole second. Ellis flied to Devore.

Murray started the ninth by walking. Red stole second. Bridwell was forced at second, Murray scoring. Devlin stole second, Merkle beat out a tap to Lush, Devlin taking third. Merkle stole second. Bresnahan was of the opinion that Schlei would hit a short fly to left and called from the bench to Ellis for the latter to play well in behind third. Roger certainly had the wrong dope. Schlei lifted the ball far over Ellis's head for a triple, scoring Devlin and Merkle. Ames popped to Konetchy and Becker sent a roller to Konetchy, ending the round.

The score.
