Mrs Gus Ruhlin, founder of the Proressive Political League, a woman suftrage organization, and widow of the ex-prizefighter, who used to permit his fe's organization to meet in his saon in Brooklyn, was accused in the preme Court yesterday of threatening is secrete her property and flee the State to avoid her creditors if any one rought suit against her. Upon these charges Supreme Court Justice Lehman signed an order upon which Mrs. Ruh hank accounts in the National Nassau and Emigrant Savings banks were

The attachment was obtained by Samuel L. Frooks, a lawyer, and brother of Dorothy Frooks of Bayonne, a child ffrage speaker, who was a member of Mrs. Ruhlin's organization and inreduced her brother to Mrs. Ruhlin. Freeks is suing for a balance of $5,318 due for legal services.

Frocks says in his affidavit that for everal years prior to January 27, 1911. the defendant, Mrs. Sarah Mulrooney Ruhlin, lived with Gus Ruhlin as his wife, and on the date mentioned they went to Hoboken and were married by s justice of the peace. Four days thereafter, the lawyer says, Mrs. Ruhlin caused a will to be drawn up and executed by Ruhlin by which he left her is entire estate, valued at about $35,000.

Lawyer Frooks says that Ruhlin had ides his parents, and that the youngest brother. John C. Ruhlin, was his favorite. During the lifetime of Gus Ruhlin put several thousand dollars in the bank in trust for his brother John, the lawyer says, but within a short time after Mrs. Ruhlin married the expuzilist the trust fund was so manipulated by Mrs. Ruhlin and others that she got the money.

The lawyer also says that shortly fter the marriage Mr. Ruhlin tusured er husband's life in her favor for $20,-100 and had paid only one instalment on it when Ruhlin died suddenly in the presence of the defendant at his home 1490 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn. It was stated at the time that death was ue to a stroke of apoplexy.

The lawyer says that shortly after uhlin died rumors were circulated that Mrs. Ruhlin was instrumental in her shand's sudden death and by reason these rumors she employed him to ascertain the source and "quality" of he rumors and to protect her interests generally. He said the will was consted by Ruhlin's relatives, but by eason of the services he rendered the was finally admitted to probate. He said that the payment of the $20,000 asurance was withheld for a time beuse Mrs. Ruhlin had been accused of crime, and he aided in securing the ayment of the money. He also brought suit for $100,000 in behalf of Mrs. Ruhlin against her husand's brother John for alleging that he was instrumental in the death of her husband. He believes his services were of the reasonable value of $6,595, of which he has received $1,277 on ac

Lawyer Frooks said he learned on April 4 last that Mrs. Ruhlin is inter-ested in the Monarch Vacuum Cleaner Company, a Delaware corporation, which had no license to do business in this State, but has an office at 1151 He said that Mrs. Ruhlin s at the office constantly attending to he business of the company.

Schoolgiri Victim United With

Father at Court Room Door. Louis Segal, 19 years old, brother of Philadelphia raincoat manufacturen, was sentenced by Judge Holt in the United States District Court yesterday to nine months on Blackwell's Island for enticing a seventeen-year-old girl into white slavery.

Segal's victim. Mary Stevens, of Denton, Md. was a student in the West Chester Normal College, near Philadelphia, until a few weeks before she made the acquaintance of Segal in a restaurant in the latter city. She told the court that she came with Segal to New Settled Will Contest, Collected York under the impression that she was to become his wife.

While she was telling her story an excited man forced his way to the front of the court room.

"That's my daughter!" he cried. "I want to speak to the Judge. I want her to go back with me; her mother is waiting for her to come home."

Reuber Stevens was led out into the corridor, where he told of his futile ef-forts to trace his daughter after her disappearance last December. He wanted to stop the trial and take her back to the little farm at Denton.

As Mr. Stevens was talking his daughter came out of the court room. At the sight of him she covered her face and sobbed. Her father sprang forward and took the weeping girl in his arms.

The jury recommended extreme leniency for Segal, but Assistant United States Attorney Griffiths opposed a light sentence. With the permission of the court he called Minnie Levit, a Philadelphia girl, to the bar to tell what she knew of the convicted youth.

Miss Levit said she was once engaged to marry Segal and that he borrowed all her jewelry and several hundred dollars, ostensibly to start in business. He tried to persuade her to come with him to New York, she said, but she refused and Segal left her without returning the
