THE OLD HOMESTEAD.

BY MS. ANN S. SETTIESS,
Author of "Fashion and Famine."

We are now enabled to commence for SATTLEDAY, the 30th Inst.

A new book, by the author of "Fashion and Famine," which attained, in three months, a sale of forty thonsand copies, and witch was republished in Leipsic, St. Petersburg, Vienna, and in three editions in London, is a matter well calculated to excite more than ordinary interest.

The "Old Homestead," while not so tragle and intense in its character as "Fashion and Famine," is, if anything, of profounder interest, and appeals with greater force to the sympathies of the reader. The story opens in the city of New York, where there are many scenes of pathos, suffering, and tragle power, but as the book progresses, the clouds disperse tragle power; but as the book progresses, the clouds disperse-we are introduced to the "God Homestand" among the Ca-skills of the Hudoon, where we are presented with some of the most delightful and graphic rural pleinress ever given in an American book. Mrs. Stephens displays, in many places in this book, a humor that rivals that of Delens, and a dramatic force, grasp of thought, power of expression, and vividness of description, of which she is peculiarly the master—superior, we think, to any of her contemporaries.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

MORE OFFICIALS INDICTED.

Recorder Smith Refuses to Receive the Presentment of the Grand Jury.

The Presentment Ordered Back to the Grand Jury.

OFFICIALS IN COURT, &c.,

Yesterday all the officials about the City Hall were in Vesterday all the officials about the City Hall were in a state of excitement, it being understood that the Grand Jury would make a presentment and a presentment of importance, to—they having been in session the night before till a late hour. Interested parties and the curlcus came peeping into Court from time to time, waiting for the Grand Jury to make their appearance.

During the day, Henry Hart, who was sent to prison by the Recorder the Cay before for refusing to answer a question propounded by the Grand Jury, was brought into Court and discharged, upon the certificate of Mr. Henry Erben, the foreman of the Grand Jury, stating that Mr. Hart had appeared before them and purged himself of the contempt charged.

self of the contempt charged.

The Recorder kept his seat upon the bench all the day, not knowing at what minute the jury might come in. By 2 o'clock all the visiters had got tired of waiting, and during the afternoon there was no one in the Court, but the Recorder, Clerk and reporters.

At ten minues past four o'clock in the afternoon, the door of the Court room opened, and Mr. Etben made his appearance at the head of his fellow-jurymen. The news of the arrival of the jury into the Court within the space of five minutes spread throughout the City Hall, and immediately the crowd came pouring in, till the Court room was pretty well filled with councilmen, aldermen, justices, policemen, heads of the departments, and Mr. Vandervoort called the roll of the jury, and sigh one having answered to their names, Mr. Henry Erben, the foreman, arose and handed to the Court some six or eight indictments, which the Court examined, and turning to the jury asked if there was any further business?

Mr. Henry Erben then handed a document, apparently of about twenty pages, to Mr. Vandervoort, the Clerk of the Court, and a ked that it be read as the presentment of the Grand Jury. Mr. Vandervoort, in obedience, commenced reading this paper, which opened with a reference to the labors through which the Grand Jury had passed, and then stated that knowledge had come to the Grand Jury of corruption in several of the heads of departments of the city government, sufficient to justify the presentment of the Street Commissioner, Collector of Taxes,

City Inspector,
Commissioner of Repairs and Supplies, and Commissioner ot Lamps and Gas.
Here, as the Clerk was continuing, seemingly to read the names of other officials, he was suddenly stopped by Recorder-It is very questionable, Mr. Foreman, whother there are not matters connected with these present-ments that should not be read publicly.

Mr. Erben—We have consulted with the District Attorney, and present these names, against whom charges exist. We take the responsibility of giving the parties to the public. and it is very questionable of these names should be made

Mr. Erben-We don't give the names of any of the parties indicted, but speak of the departments against which charges of corruption exist.

Recorder—The point in this matter is, that this publicity may prejudice the public mind. A document of this kind will be much read and commented upon by the public, and it would be almost impossible to find a jury to try these cares who had not had their minds influenced by these presentments. The question to be put to a petty juror is, "have you formed any opinion in this case," and if he had, I could not allow such a juror to sit. With all respect to the jury, I think I ought not to sit. With all respect to the jury, I think I ought not to sit. With all respect to the jury, I think I ought not to sit. With all respect to the jury, I think I ought not to sit. With all respect to the jury, I think I ought not cover, and he open to all. This act on your part, gentlemen, goes beyond a simple indistment for trial, which is the proper limit.

Mr. Erben—The Court is talking about a document which has not yet been read. The document explains itself. When the document is read we think the Court will be ratisfied it is a proper document. It gives some information which we think it necessary to give. (The Recorder here took the paper and examined it.) We will suppose a case:—Suppose that word came to us of corruption in various departments; witnesses knswing this to be the case, escape to Jersey, beyond our reach, and when reached they have to be forced into Court to be compelled to answer our questions. The reach, and when reached they have to be forced into Court to be compelled to answer our questions. This being the case with us we want that document read Recorder—The law protests the Grand Jury in this respect, sufficiently. The contumacions witness might be imprisoned thirty days for every contempt, and thus be subject to a constant imprisonment. I have read this document, and find that it contains sweeping charges that ought not to be made public. I may be the error, but it does seem to me that putting this document before the public would have the effect I have suggested, which it is my duty to prevent.

Mr. Frben—I am requested to ask this question by a Grand Juror:—Suppose that every man of the Grand Jury was satisfied that corruption existed in a certain department, and witnesses had been spirited away, should we not make such corruption and such facts public? Suppose the District Attorney says to as, "You are justified in aupposing a certain man guilty, but the evidence will not justify you in coming before a court for tial. In this case you may present the guilty parties, but not indict them."

Recorder—As regards the sufficiency of the evidence, trial. In this case you may present the guilty parties, but not indict them.

Recorder—As regards the sufficiency of the evidence, you are the sole judge, and alone responsible for that. I am sorry to differ with the learned bistrict Attorney, but I do not think this should be made public, inasmuch as I foresee the embarrasment in which any court would be placed before whom these cases came for trial.

Mr. Frben—We will retire then for ten minutes and consult with the Hatrict Attorney, and then come into Court again. (The Jury here extired.)

During the absence of the Jury, the Recorder asked if there was any business before the Court?

Mr. Merwin R. Brewer, counsellor at law, said:—May it please the Court, public rumor says that the Grand Jury have found an indictment against a client of mine, Mr. Joseph E. Ebling, Commissioner of Lamps and Gas; liwish to know if this is so, and if it is, we are prepared to enter securities for our appearance.

Recorder—Is the party you appear for now in Court?

Mr. Brewer—Yes, sir, he is, and ready to give security. Recorder—Is his ball in Court?

Mr. Brewer—It is.

Mr. Brewer-It is. In about twenty minutes the jury again came into

In about twenty minutes the jury again came into Court.

In about twenty minutes the jury again came into Court.

The roll of jurors was again called, when Mr. Erben said—The Grand Jury have come to the conclusion that this should be handed to the Court as their presentment, and the Grand Jury ask to be discharged. Recorder—Gentlemen, I cannot alter the views which I first tock of this matter, and must hold this to be an improper presentment. If I should give publicity to this paper, I should feel that I was doing great injustice. I therefore instruct the Clerk not to file this presentment, but to return it to the Grand Jury.

Mr. Erben—What are we to do with it? Recorder—That remains with you.

Mr. Eleen—We have been instructed by the District Attorney to hand this to the Court as our presentment, and we said unanimous in taking this course.

Recorder—I order the Clerk to return it to you again. You ask what you are to do? Perhaps you ought to hand this to the District Attorney and allow him to apply the remedy. I think this paper should be placed in the hands of the District Attorney, and not upon the records of the Court, so that the Histrict Attorney may have an opportunity to ferrer out this corruption, and that the parties may not be placed upon their guard by the publication of it.

Mr. Erben—We then hand this to the Clerk, with instructions te hand it to the District Attoriet, with instructions te hand it to the District Attoriet.

parties may not be placed upon their guard by the publication of it.

Mr. Erben.—We then hand this to the Clerk, with in structions te hand it is the District Attorney.

Mr. Henry A. Hurbut, one of the Grand Jurors—I should like to know if that document is to be made public? If it is, I want my name to be taken of the Mr. Erben.—I will erase your name for you then, (and he took the document to do so.).

Recorder—This paper, of course, is beyond my control; but I should suppose it would not be made public.

The Recorder then dismissed the jury as follows:—Gentlemen.—It is but a very short time since you were empanueled. You have done a greater amount of business than I have ever known to be done in so short a time. Thirty-eight or forty indictments have been found by you. You are dismissed with the thanks of the community.

Mr. Wieser then came forward and because half is the INTERESTING FROM SIGILY.—L Eco d Ralio, contains an important proclamation, issued by the people of Sicily. It advocates an immediate revolution and unity with the Fardinian government. It will be remembered that the Ficilians were foremost in the European revolution of 1848, and judging from their past conduct, it is very probable that the next steamer will bring as news of an Italian insurrection. Gavanzi writes to the Cruador that Italy is on the point of a popular revolution.

Movement of the Old Line Whigs of Albany.

(From the Albany A'las, Oct. 20.)

DECLARATION OF THE WHIGS OF ALBANY AGAINST FUSION, AND RESTONSE TO THE CALL FOR A WHIG

STATE CONVENTION.

We, the undersigned citizens and electors of Albany, deem it our duty to make this public declaration:—

That we are now, as we always have been, national and not sectional whigs;

That our supreme attachment as citizens and Americans is to the constitution of the United States, just as the fathers of the republic framed it, and to the Union of these States just as it stands under that constitution;

That we are bound by every sentiment of our nature and every scared obligation, to defend and maintain the constitution and the Union, by our votes, our influence, our substance, and by whatever energies we can conmand:

That we receal and demonstrations the energies we can con-

our substance, and by whatever emerges are can conmand:

That we repel and denounce the attempt recently made to transfer us and our associates of the national whig party of this State to a strange alliance and a new political combination, which is purely sectional in its character and objects, and which, so far as it has or can have success, boldly menaces the unity and integrity of our common country.

And we do heartify respond to and approve of the call which has been made in the city of New York, for a State Convention of the national whigs, to be held at Constitution Hall, in that city, on the 23d of October instant.

movement in its editorial columns as follows:—
We have seldom seen a more respectable array of names than those which are signed to the profest of the whigs of Atbany, against the merger of the whig party in the sectional and unconstitutional party of fusion.
The signers are not merely or principally what have been known as the silver gray whigs. Nor are they old men, or the mere spectators of party affairs. The list comprises the most active working whigs of the city, young and old, men of varied business and pursuits—of great influence over the masses of men.

Police Intelligence.
THE JOSEPH WALKER CASE—ARREST OF WALTER R. JONES AND OTHERS. Yesterday morning Walter R. Jones, John Kinney, John C. Winters and D. S. Briggs were arrested on board the wreck of the ship Joseph Walker, by officer Murray of the Lower Police Court charged with having appre priated a chain cable, belonging to Charles T. Barnes, to their own use, without either the knowledge or consent of the owner. The accused were busily employed in raisof the owner. The accused were busily employed in raising the sunken ship, when the officer, having a warrant for their apprehension from Justice Connolly, made his appearance, and demanded their instant appearance at the pofice court. Mr. Jones remonstrated with the officer, saying that a delay of half an hour or so would probably be the means of their raising the ship in a few days, as they had her nearly pumped out, and were about plugging up the holes; but the official would not listen to any such proposition, and caused the accused to accompany him forthwith. The consequence was that the water flowed back into the vessel, and in less than half an hour after their departure it was hard a ground on the bottom. The accused on appearing before Justice Connolly were held to bail to answer the charge. An examination in the case will come off this week, when Mr. Jones and his associates confidently expect to be honorably acquitted of the charge imputed to them. The complainant in the case. Mr. Barnes, were the former contractor for the raising of the Joseph Walker, and values his chain cable at $50.

STABBING AFFRAY.
Two men, named John Baird and Peter Boyle, got into a dispute in Park street, near the Mission House, which ended in a fight between the two parties. Baird beoming very much excited from the hard knocks and bruises he received from Boyle, drew a large bladed pocket knife, and stabbed his opponent in the side. The wound is said to be of a very dangerous character. The man was carried to the City Hospital. Sergeant Kinney, man was carried to the City Hospital. Pergeant Kinney, of the Mayor's Office, who happened to be passing at the time, heard of the transaction, and hurried to the scene. As soon as Baird saw the officer approaching, he immediately took to his heels, and fled away as rapidly as possible. Sergeant Kinney pursued him, and after an exciting race overtock him at the corner of Anthony street and Broadway, and brought him before Justice Oeborne, who committed him for examination.

THE LAYS SUPPLY DEATH IN MULBERRY STREET, -- Corone O'Donnell concluded an inquest yesterday, upon the body of the boy, William Wood, at the residence of parents, No. 189 Mulberry street, who, it will be his parents, No. 189 Mulherry street, who, it will be recollected, died, as was supposed, from the effects of a kick in the back from one l'unchey, a playmate of the deceased. The jury came to the conclusion that it would be unjust for them to implicate the boy l'unchey in the matter, as no evidence until be elicited going to show that he assaulted the deceased, and, therefore, in rendering a verdiet declared that death was caused by injuries to the spins, but in what manner was to them unknown. There is not much news to send by this mail. The allies are making themselves combritable in their new quarters at Sebestopol. The Russians are still on the north side, and a few compliments are daily exchanged in the shape of shells or a long range cannon ball. The allies have sent large reinforcements to Eupstoria, chiefly of cavalry; and if the Russians do not soon beat a re-Treat on Simpheropol, an engagement must ensue.

The Emperor Alexander has been inspecting Nikolaies, and has, it is said, left for the headquarters of his army. The whole of the imperial family have been to Moscow.

When I say Austria and Germany, I of course mean the rolling powers and the armies at their disposal, not the people, who hurn to throw off their yoke.

It is needless for me to say what a universal shindy this would be.

The conclusion I come to, consequently, is, that negotiations will again shortly be opened to prevent this voltance cruption, the end of which it would be impossible to foresse.

We are still full of strangers, who, notwithstanding the unmistakeable indications of approaching winter, yet linger to cast fold looks over our monuments, churches, palaces, and museums of art. The streets resound with a Babel-like confusion of tongues, but that of the Anglo-Saxon is uppermost; and it is clear that in spite of the failure of a good many, who raised their hopes to an unconscionable standard and espected to obtain fabulous prices, the season of 1855 will receive a white mark in the diary of the large majority of Parisian tradesmen, and a numerons class connected with them. The theatres have just reason to cry, "Vice V Especition," and most unquestionably have the hotels and restaurants. The magazines of bijouterie, of beautiful presents, and of articles in bronze, have reaped a rich harvest. It is only the summer apartment letters, who, in common with those speculators who set up bureaux de location for the purchase of duplicate articles displayed in the Exhibi-tion, look grave. They have indeed, from first to last, reckoned without their host. People who came to visit the Exhibition did so on route to see other things. For the Exhibition did so on route to see other things. For the most part they contemplated a temporary sojourn in Paris, and probably an extension of their continents: trip, and under such circumstances to encumber them-selves with purchases was out of the question; neither was it found that the denizens of the provinces of France were so multten with foreign importations as to desire to invest their money in them; consequently the bureaux de location, on which such rest sums had been expended, may be ranked among the other failures of the minuteently may be ranked among the other failures of the nine century. Many of these reasons apply with equal force to the spartments which are only let by the month. No ne hundred and fwenty steps, came to be thought a triffe by those who at home never ascended twenty, was all that was required. In Paris on deni pariout. It is the land of liberty, in this respect at all events, and with the fair portion of creation conduces immensely in preserving its popularity. English ladies, who know nothing of a coffeeroom except by hear-say, who would as soon think of entering one in London as a pest-house, or something worse, suddenly find themselves quite at home in rooms brilliant with mirrors, and gild, and painting, where obsequious waiters receive their bonnets and shawls, and where, while they eat the profoundest deil-cacies of the French cuisire, they can see the hand-aomest cavaliers, and, what is still better, he seen by them. much to do in the way of accommodation for man and a

The English have shown such readiness to fool
