Opinions in Regard to the American Crisis.

AFFAIRS AT GAETA.

Feb. 16, 1861.

The London Times, in a leader on the question of the India cotton supply and the conference to be held at Manchester, repeats the opinion that Manchester must be prepared not only to agitate, but to act.

According to the correspondence of the Constitutionnel, Cavour intends asking a vote of confidence from the Chamber on the four following points:—

- 1. On a loan of from three to five millions—the exact amount is not yet determined.
2. Proclamation of Victor Emanuel as King of Italy.
3. On calling under arms all the military reserves.
4. Absolute investiture of the King with all power for an unlimited time.

A despatch from Rome dated Jan. 26, says:—

The Pontifical Zouaves, favored by the night, attacked the Sardinian volunteers at Corrose. Two Sardinians were killed, six wounded, and fifty made prisoners and conveyed to the Roman garrison.

A Copenhagen letter says that public opinion approves in every point the energetic measures of defence which the Ministry have ordered, by sea and land, in resistance to the Prussian ultimatum.

The Berlin letter of the 16th has the following:—

Great activity is displayed in advancing the equipment of the Prussian army, which, as is well known, has been considerably increased.

Princess Petrarca, Ambassador of King Francis II. at Vienna, has received an autograph letter from Gaeta, in which the King declares that he intends to fight to the last.

According to the Paris correspondent of the London Times, the chances of peace are very far off.

A Berlin letter says the King of Prussia is permitting the old retrograde party to influence him more and more every day.

The steamship Nova Scotia, from the Italian port of the 15th inst., arrived here at eight A. M., and landed all her mail.

The North Atlantic Telegraph.

The scheme for establishing telegraphic communication with America by means of submarine cables was discussed last evening at a meeting of the geographical society.

A paper, by Sir Leopold de Clinton, stated that it would be an easy matter to lay down the cable between France and Iceland.

The second paper was written by Captain Allan Young, who is now at the head of the expedition.

It is read in his view by Sir Charles Bright, in his opinion the cable should be laid beginning from the east coast of Iceland towards the Faroe Islands.

THE ANNEXATION OF CANADA.

Our Toronto Correspondence. TORONTO, G. W. Feb. 11, 1861.

In the great events that agitate the American Union there is much to interest the minds of Canadian politicians. Our provincial, dependent position is looked upon by some as an evil that can be best removed by a union with the States...

Another advantage that may see in the anticipated connection is the great influx of American capital that would ensue, and the opening up of all our facilities for manufacturers. Although British capitalists invest their money in our railways, mines and steamships, they leave us to our own resources in manufacturing enterprise...

The Canadian press, for the most part, in order to keep up appearances, affect a devoted loyalty to British conceptions. It can easily be understood that our public opinion may be called a revolution—it will be very cautious in their public expression of opinion against the status quo when there are no pressing grievances to demand a change...

At this most critical moment, when Canadians are balancing in their minds the advantages and disadvantages of annexation, a deliberate insult is offered to the country by an attempt to interfere with the independence of our colonial justice, and to cherish the sections of our country by an English order of any coercive means to oppress her Americans in their efforts for independence...

Canada and the Northern Confederacy. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD. MONTREAL, C. E., Feb. 11, 1861.

The recent overtures made by some leading journals and politicians in the United States to a union between Canada and the Northern States are exciting a good deal of attention in the province; not that we have much to complain of in our present relations with England, but for many reasons of a local as well as national character...

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

SATURDAY, Feb. 16—P. M.

The money market continues dull, with a good demand for choice names. Foreign exchange closed steady. We note to-day an increased demand for Treasury notes and an advance in the price.

Some of the stock operators who have been buying for a rise thought that this was a good day to sell, and accordingly realized on a large proportion of their stocks. The market gave way under the supply, and lower prices ruled on several of the speculative stocks.
