district several days ago for a mandamus to compel the judges of election to place the names of certain citizens on the registry of voters. The Court to-day, through Judges Olin, Fisher and Wiley, delivered separate plnions, all arriving at the same result, namely :- That the mandamus could not lie until after the expiration of the poll lists. The particular circumstances of the four or five cases presented were discussed including that of Dr. Boyd, who had heretofore been convicted on two indictments of aiding and assisting the escape of slaves, and sentenced to imprisonment in the eighteen months of the term, was pardoned by President Lincoln. Dr. Boyd, on being denied by the Judge the privilege of having his name registered, on the bound that he had been convicted of an infamous them sufficient evidence of his right to vote. the pardon restored Dr. Boyd to the possession of his civil rights, but Judge Fisher held that the fact of pardon would not permit him to vote if the onence of which he had been convicted was infamous. ### THE PARK.

The Visitors Yesterday-Additions to the bor and Playground for the Little Folks-The Base Ball Ground-The Saturday Concerts. &c., &c. Our beautiful rus in urbs-our great city garden-is once more donning the gay attire of summer after emerging from the clammy and icy embrace of winter. Though the latter seems yet "lingering in the lap of spring," and though an October-like wind was waiting its cool breezes across the island yesterday, the Park, in its numerous throng, gave full earnest of the popularity which it is more than ever to enjoy. Few of flower-bearing shrubs have as yet disclosed to view their floral secret, but the delicate buds and sprouting tendrils were interesting and attractive, like beauty in despite the chilling drafts that blew athwart the Park. As the day waned the throng might be called dense for the time. It was a promise of what the crowds will be when the atmosphere is more genial for visits to this most attractive resort. A constant stream of vehicles, many of the most stylish models, wound around the roads amid troops of children and groups of adults, who lingered by the roadside or delived and strolled in the adjacent rural thickets.

The presence of children is one of the expanding features of the Park. They were there in troops yesterday in charge of delighted mammas, romantic nurses or dignified borns. The latter chattered French and gave our democratic Park quite a Bois de Boulogne look, what with their prim black dresses and matronly lace caps. The practice of sending children to the Fark is a commendable one. They certainly enjoyed themselves. They darted among the trees and raced along the paths. Their ringing laughter and merry prattle rivalled the chiping joyousness of the birds that filted about and around and above them. It was no place for oid bachelorhood. Benefictism would have met a stern rebuke in their artless pleasuress. And then, the healthful results. Better an hour's romp in the mazes of the Ramble than a doctor's prescription for little Tom. Better the tired slumber after a day's frolic in the Park than the drowsiness of paregoric.

The visitor who has not been at the Park since last

The visitor who has not been at the Park since last season will find many new and interesting features. The Museum, which occupies the old Areenal building, bids fair to be one of its most attractive places. Another story is now in course of preparation to receive, it is understood, a large and choice mineralogical and geological collection from the Historical Society. This collection will subsequently be removed to a building which is to be erected in the Park by that body. The ground has been designated by the Commissioners, and is located in the space east of the old reservoir. Many judicious changes have also been made in the arrangement of the articles in the gallery, which is now much more commodious. A thermometrical and barometrical record is kept in tull view of visitors, so that those who are anxious about the weather, and who do not read the Histaria, may prognosticate for themselves and lengthen or shorten their stay accordingly.

Among the numerous additions is an arbor in the usual rustic style, which is to be set apart as a resort for the juveniles. It is a large, circular structure, a hun-dred feet in diameter, conveniently near the lower en-trances, and is to be smoothly paved with Philadelphia brick. It will be called the Rustic Arbor—though the brick. It will be called the Rustic Arbor—though the name Nursery would perhaps be more appropriate, and may in time become the popular one. Near by a playground is to be laid out, in which the young folks may indulge their propensities for outdoor sports and games. The base ball around has not as yet been thrown open for use, but it is thought that playing will be permitted to begin about the lst of June. The rule of last year as to permits for each club will be kept in force.

permitted to begin about the 1st or June. The Fune of last year as to permits for each club will be kept in force.

Two beautiful drinking fountains have been placed in the space at the head of the mail. Made as they are of bronze and scotch granite, they are a handsome addition to the ornamentation of the vicinity.

A mineral water spa is among the contemplated novelties this summer. The building will be located on the westerly side, near one of the lower Eighth avenue entrances. The impecuations valetudinarian who cannot afford the expense of a trip to Saratoga or Ballston will be delighted at this establishment of a spa so near home. The Saturday concerts will not commence for a couple of weeks yet. The railroad companies evince their usual parsimonious spirit in refusing to contribute to the expense of an entertainment which indirectly largely increases their gains. It is considered almost certain that there will be no Wednesday concerts this season.

JEFF DAVIS.

Despairing probably of being able to enjoy at the New York Hotel, or any other place where he was publicly known to be staying, the quietude and rest so necessary to the recuperation of his health, Mr. Davis, it is re-ported, privately left the New York Hotel late on Friday night and removed to Mr. Charles O'Conor's residence, near Fort Washington, where he has since reeneral Joseph Davis. The fact of his removal has been called to see him since have either been informed that to General Davis. From the time of his arrival Mr Davis has exhibited great anxiety to make his stay in the city as unobtrusive as possible, and has several times stated that he thought it only proper, viewing his history during the past few years, to avoid all annoyed at the efformous rush made by his former adherents as soon as they heard of his arrival, and as the herents as soon as they heard of his arrival, and as the evil has not seemed to diminish, he has sought refuge in a pica of sickness and removal from the hotel.

Among a numerous crowd of visitors at the hotel yesterday the irrepressible Jack Rogers, whose positical death and wake were recently reported, made a prominent figure. With a face all aglow with the joyful anticipation of again seeing his friend, Mr. Davis, he presented his card to the clerk and requested an interview. As Mr. Davis was not in the hotel it was, of course, impossible to comply with his wishes, and he was referred to General Davis.

Towards the middle of the afternoon quite a crowd gathered in Eighth street, opposite the private entrance of the hotel, attracted by a rumor which had been circulated that Mr. Davis was about to leave for Montreal. A number of carriages standing in the street gave color to the report; but after an hour or so of patient expectation the crowd reluctantly relinquished all hope of beholding the fallen chief of the great rebellion, and dispersed.

ANOTHER EXTENSIVE FORGERY.

The Broadway Bank the Sufferer-The Amount $17.500-A Clue to the Perpe-

One of the boidest and most extraordinary forgerle that has obtained publicity for many years came to light yesterday. It appears that about a month ago check was presented at the Broadway Bank, payable to - or bearer, for $17,500, purporting to be incompensation for work done on a public schoolhouse in Twenty-sixth street, where there is no building of the kind. President and Clerk of the Board of Education and the chairman of the Finance Committee. It was not one of the checks of the Board, but a very good lithograph of the figured checks, which are not accessible to any but the very few who have the right to fill them. It was, however, about an eighth of an inch shorter than the checks of the Board. After being presented and paid at the bank, it appears that it lay in the safe until yesterday, when it was sent to the office of the Board of Education among the genuine drafts and was noticed by which probably only requires a little time to unravel to an unbroken end.

The check was made, as already described, payable to bearer, which is a very unusual thing with checks sent from the Board of Education to the bank for payment. Again, checks for such large amounts are seldom drawn, the money for repairs and other work on school buildings which are under the charge of the Board of Education being paid in smaller instalments. There might be other points of difference noticed also in this forgery and the checks of the Board of Education, but enough has been said to show that better management would do our city banks no harm.

There are various theories as to who the perpetrator of this bold and skilful forgery is, and there is only one opinion on the point. The simplicity of the circumstance, which the perception of a keen man turned to the advantage of the detective officer in starting him on the true trail will be probably one of the most interesting developments ever made in an affair of this nature when the time comes to lay it before the public. Until the, however, patience must prevail.

Until, however, patience must prevail, e ignorance of the whole affair which prevailed at police headquarters late last evening in regard to the e matter was not the least singular feature of this ardinary affair. The Fushionable Season Still at Its Height-Banquets, Balls and Opera-Receptions by the Foreign Ministers-The Barbers' and Hairdressers' Strike-Robes, Mantles, Rib-bons, &c.

PARIS, May 2, 1867. That chronic fever called the Paris season will no abate this Exposition year. We have gone through the usual run of balls, masquerades and operas, we have undergone the infliction of more parlor music than we cared for, but still we are re-balling it in a continued circle of endless sau'euses and we are re-banqueting it in high places at the rate of six Lucullian outspreads per his first official dinner to one hundred and twenty guests this week, and a large ball on the 9th.

The foreign Ministers, including General Dix, hold their receptions on their stated days, and what with foreign princes coming or going, the little we have left to put on our backs has to be renewed very often. Husbands do not, fortunately, complain; for wives have Whenever dear Oscar says a word about the money as he deserves," said Pauline de B. to a friend, as she

Nothing could be so convenient as embroidered satins and the high price of fowls, both acting simultaneously, as it were, for the bliss of families."

Could other simultaneous blessings attend us in the course of our pligrimage on earth we should all be very thankful, doubtless; but since undertakers have entertained serious ideas of getting up a strike, like the tailors and hairdressers, my opinion is that we are in a very false position.

The confears blave done for themselves. Their fifst todjection was to be treated like waiters by their shaven customers, who, on leaving shaving premises, deposited two sous in a tin box for the presiding gentleman of the strop. Their natural pride was indignant; they made their wish known to be treated like clerks, and have their "remitances" at the end of each quarter. The heads of the principals of the firm were averse to quarterly payments. They preferred the payments volunteered by their customers, and the strike ensued. I hear a few meetings have taken place, and that a few speeches have been delivered by the shaving corporation.

With the close of the previous week there came a formal demand from laborers of different qualities, and in a few cases from classes of skilled workmen, for an increase of pay. This being refused by the employers, a strike was the consequence. The stablemen employed by the city railroad companies made a demand for $2 per day instead of $1.75. This was acceded to in several instances, but, being refused by the Second, Third, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth avenue companies, a general strike of all the stablemen employed on those lines was inaugurated on Monday last and prevailed throughout the week, although much suffering was experienced by the families of the poorer men concerned in the hopeless movement. Several acts of personal violence were committed by hot beaded strikers, who could not control their feelings of indignation on seeing their places filled by green hands drawn from among the crowd of immigrants always waiting at Castle Garden for employment at any rate of remuneration, however small. The police, however, garrisoned the railroad stables in force, and although the malcontents paraded several times in large bodies and made threatening dem-instrations, no special outbreak occurred. The strike finally, after a few days, came to an end from sheer force of necessity and the impecuniosity of the parties concerned. The organization of stablemen by a formal voic decided yesterday to abandon the movement, and accept the offer of the companies to return to their work at the old rate of compensation, and thus ended their difficulties. During the week, too, the laborers employed in the erection of houses in the city made their demand, and of course struck on its not being compiled with. This movement was supported by the Laborers' Benevolent Association, under whose auched their demands and threats were unavailing, but only one occasion was noted in which violence was added to their specious arguments in order to effect their purpose. The poli and undesturbed flow of the current of labor, provided the laboring classes can learn anything from the experience of the past.

A meeting of the journeymen plumbers of New York was held last evening at Putasm Hall, Mr. Thomas Hughes, the president of the society, in the chair. The business was astirely confined to the collection of funde to assist the Boston plumbers who are on strike, and all other matters were deferred for discussion until the next concept meeting.

RISTORI.

Departure for Europe—Last Day in America—Parting with Friends—Signing of a New Contract with Mr. Gran for Havana and the United States—An Revolr, Not Adien.
Yesterday was an eventful day in the eventful career of Madame Ristori. From an early hour numerous visitors assurb her analysis. visitors sought her residence in Sixteenth street, to bid her good bye and pay their last tribute of admiration and respect to her genius, goodness and amiable qualimens of art, were brought in, until the elegant parlors seemed to be conservatories, and the cards of our principal citizens, clergymen, diplomats, politicians, literary celebrities, artists and other friends, were sent up from the continuous stream of carriages that "stopped the way," until the fair artists became bewildered. Then an ordeal of hand shaking, of the General Grant style, and the Babel of farewells. in a half dozen languages, preceded the departure for the steamer. Yet amid this busy scene, Madame Ratori did not forget the promptings of her generous heart, for she found time to make many liberal donations to the poor. Rarely has any one been the recipient of such flattering attentions from the most distinguished citizens of the metropolis as Madame Ristori and her family were yesterday. The rich and elegant souvenirs selves. All the Italians of note, many celebrities in the art world, and many of the representatives of our republican aristocracy rode down to the steamer yester-day afternoon to see Madame Ristori off. The scene at the dock, on the decks and in the cabin, where Madamo Ristori was surrounded by the intimate friends she has made here, was unprecedented. The leave takings were warm, affectionate and enthusiastic. Her husband, the Marquis del Grillo; her son George, and her beautiful daugnter, Mile, Bianca, came in for a share in the general enthusiasm, and deep regrets were express-ed again and again at parting. But it was an revoir, not new engagement with the great tragedienne, but she wished to retire from the stage and devote herself to the care of her family. The unprecedented enthusiasm with which she was received at her farewell appearance; the flattering screnade which followed and the unvarying triumphal character of the past season determined her yesterday, and she signed a contract to appear under the management of Mr. Grau, during the next season, at the Grand Tacon Theatre, Havana, and the United with a siik American flag, on which was the single word "Souvenir." metti's new play, Marie Antoinette, will be produced for the first time, and under the management of Mr. Grau, previously expressed wish, that this work should be prought out in a republican land, as the sentiments he purposed introducing in it would prove distasteful to nonarchical ideas of liberty. Schiller's celebrated Jean d'Arc will be also one of the features of the next season in Havana and the United States. The scenery for Marie Anteinette will be painted in France and Italy, francs were deposited by each of the contracting parties with a leading banker of this city. Madame Ristori will pressed herself to those present after signing the con-tract, that she could not be induced to return to America under any other management than that of Mr. Grau.

States. The contract was signed on board of the sleamer

She used the tollowing words:—"When an artist signs an engagement with Ms. Grau, half the battle is gained." One of her last acts before the sailing of the steamer

Ville de Paris was to present Mr. Grau with a carte de visite, on which was written-"To her good friend and excellent manager, J. Grau, souvenir of Adelaide Ristori del Grillo." Mr. Grau also presented Madame Ristori with a leading banker of this city. Madame Ristori will make her first appearance next season at the French theatre on September 15.

As the lines were cast off and the noble steamer, one of the staunchest and swiftest of the popular French line, moved out from the pier, handkerchiefs were waved, adicus exchanged and each eye strained to catch a parting glimpse of the queen of the drama. The crowd on the pier was immense and every point where a view of the steamer could be obtained swarmed with human belings.
