Two 'Lions,' One a Roarer,
Add to Capital's Gayety

Jellioce and Bryan Warmly Greeted in Washingon as Official Social Season Really Starts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18

Two of the men who were a trio, Arthur Jellioce and Bryan, whose names would soon be in the headlines, the names of the North and South, are in Washington, where they expected to be the center of attention. They are here to attend the inauguration of the new President, and are expected to make a big impression on the political world.

Jellioce is expected to be the living embodiment of the new era, and Bryan is expected to be the embodiment of the old.

The two men were known as the 'Lions' of the political world, and their appearance in Washington is expected to cause a sensation.

But this is not the only news from the capital. The social season is also in full swing, and the city is abuzz with gossip about the various social events.
