Triennial Convention.

The General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States which assembles every three years, is now in session in New York City. Several of the Southern States will not be represented.

It is reported that no action whatever will be taken with regard to the absentees from the Southern dioceses, but that the Convention will proceed with its labors in the same manner as if the members from the rebel states were in their places, and that no attempt will be made to introduce any question foreign to the ecclesiastical character of the body.

The following are present at the Convention from Ohio: Rev. Erastus Burr, D. D., Rev. George Watson, D. D., Rev. W. A. Smallwood, D. D., Rev. Lawsen Carter, J. W. Andrews, General Charles B. Goddard, Kent Jarvis, Larz Anderson.

The Colored Defenders of Cincinnati.

When the "Black Brigade" were dismissed at Cincinnati, from their work on the fortifications south of the river, they were so grateful for their kind treatment by Judge Dickson—in contrast to the rowdy and semi-traitorous behavior of the Mayor—that they presented him with a sword. His answer was eloquent and touching. He said:

"You have labored faithfully. You have made miles of military roads, miles of rifle pits, felled hundreds of acres of the largest and loftiest forest trees, built magazines and forts. The hills across yonder river will be a perpetual monument of your labors. Organized companies of men of your race, armed and equipped at their own expense, have tendered their services to act in defense of our city. In obedience to the policy of the Government the authorities have denied you this privilege.—In the department of labor permitted, you have, however, rendered a willing and cheerful service. Nor has your zeal been dampened by the cruel treatment you have received."

The same papers that deny the power of the President to free the slaves of rebels, admit that the army, when it penetrates the enemy's country may do this, as it has done it in many instances since the war began. Can not the Commander-in-Chief of the army free slaves as well as the army Generals, Colonels and privates—his subordinates?

Complaints of the Rebel Congress.

The Richmond Dispatch, speaking editorially of the rebel army and Congress, doles forth in the following melancholy strain:

We again take occasion to implore the Congress of the Confederate States to pass a law for the recruiting of our army.—They have been here now six weeks, and have literally done nothing but talk. The very spirit of the miserable old "Logocracy" from which we have separated, seems to animate them. The House has passed one conscription bill, and the Senate has passed another, and the provisions of the two are so discordant that it would take the most acute lawyer in the Confederacy to reconcile them. They seem utterly incapable of comprehending the spirit of the age. While everybody outside is painfully anxious for the safety of the country and the cause, they seem to be intent on nothing but securing their own popularity at home. We hope they are better than they appear to be, but to an outsider they seem to think it quite as great a misfortune to lose a vote as to lose a country.

Have these men forgotten the experience of last session? Have they forgotten the disgraceful hurry with which, after utterly neglecting the public safety for months, they fled from Richmond upon the first approach of McClellan's army? Do they wish to repeat that disgraceful exhibition? Will not one suffice? If they are not satisfied, we tell them that they are taking the best possible steps to bring on the necessity of another stampede. If they will not recruit the army, and that shortly, there is nothing more certain than another armed invasion.

Was there ever such criminal folly as that in which the Confederate Congress is at present indulging? Last year, while they were talking and wasting time, the enemy raised, armed and disciplined a force of 700,000 men. We all recollect the terrible consequences. Now the enemy is doing the very same thing. Still they appear to have forgotten all about the last session, including that stampede.

Our armies want recruits. They have fought most valiantly and most successfully; but their losses have been heavy; they must be recruited if we expect them to continue their victorious career. Still, so long as the enemy is at a distance, we can see no hope that it will be done.

Extension of the Conscript Act.

The rebel Senate on the 23d passed the following bill:

Section 1. The Congress of the Confederate States of America do enact, That the President be and is hereby authorized to call out and place in the military service of the Confederate States for three years, unless the war should have been sooner ended, all white men who are residents of the Confederate States, between the ages of thirty-five and forty-five years, at the time the call or calls may be made, and who are not, at such time or times, legally exempted from military service.

A colporteur at Nashville, passing through one of our hospitals, distributed his tracts hurriedly among the invalids, without looking at their titles to see the fitness of the selection. One poor fellow who had lost both legs got a tract on the "Evil effects of Dancing," and enjoyed quite a laugh over the mis-applied document.

A Visit to the New Iron-Clad Shipyards.

[From the New York Tribune.]

Our naval reporter yesterday visited the yards in which iron-clad ships are building for the Government. In them all the utmost energy and industry were visible.—The following is a rough estimate of the number of hands employed in the different places named:

Delamater Works,	1,000 men.
Greenpoint,	2,000 men.
Jersey City,	1,200 men.
Dry Dock (Whitney's ship,)	500 men.
Mr. Webb's,	500 men.
Total	5,200 men.

Besides these, in nearly all first-class foundries and smitheries contracts have been obtained, thus necessitating the employment of more hands. In the Navy Yard there are nearly 4,000 men, and, working on the wooden vessels in course of construction hereabout, there must be at least 5,000, so that it would hardly exaggerate the fact to state that nearly 20,000 men are now employed in the vicinity of New York, whose wages the Navy Department will pay ultimately.

The Wechawken will probably be the next iron-clad vessel launched. She is building at Colwell's foundery in Jersey City. Planking has already begun, and the deck-floor is being laid. On the upper part of the hull, the first iron plates were laid yesterday. They form, with the wooden portion of the bulwarks, a defense quite as wide and far stronger, than the generality of "stone walls," so common in the suburbs. The lower part of the hull is being planed and prepared for the mail. It is expected that by the 1st proximo, the Wechawken will be afloat.

In the same yard with this vessel, the Comanche, intended for California, is being built. She is all iron. Work on her is advancing rapidly.

Greenpoint is like a human beehive.—Ears are worthless when once you get inside the bounds of the Continental Works. The Montauk, Kaatskill and Passaic, of the nine-Monitor fleet, and the Onondaga and Puritan of the special fleet, are in hand. The Passaic, launched and "engined," is preparing rapidly for sea. The Montauk and Kaatskill will be afloat in a month. They are very much like their sister ships. The Puritan is the Great Eastern of the lot. She is only in frame. The Onondaga is further advanced. She is all iron and will have two turrets.

The Dictator is going up at the Delamater Iron Works.

Whitney's iron ship is more advanced than any save the Wechawken. The Moodna is the name given to her by Mr. Welles. The hull is finished, and a good portion of the armor on. The entire "shell" of the vessel is complete, and, if it were of wood, would be in launching condition. The turrets are two in number, and are nearly ready. Before the expiration of October the Moodna will be ready for floating out.

Mr. Webb's ram has just been commenced. She will be 7,000 tuns burden. All other ships on the iron system will be mere catamarans to her. At present she looks too unlike any thing to be described. In two months she will be a great ram able to go to sea, and accommodate a larger ship's company than the Niagara. Her name has not been mentioned yet, but people think it ought to be "Washington," as we have no man of war of that name.

Our Present Dangers.

Colonel Forney writes to the Philadelphia Press:

"I know that there are those in the free States who will resort to every artifice to turn the President's proclamation into a means of injury to the common cause.—God help our country in this her last trial! Attacked by traitors in the South, betrayed by ingrates in the North, she now, more than ever, needs the service and support of her children. Will not her many sufferings awake the fire of affection in the hearts of those who have heretofore been deaf to her appeals? A strange nation, in the condition of the free people of this country, would excite the sympathy of these sympathizers with treason. But they are indifferent to the cause of the mother country that bore them, on whose broad breast they have grown rich and great.—Out of every act of the Administration to protect and preserve the Government, these wretched partisans fabricate new elements of strife and dissension. There is—there must be—a limit to this atrocious treachery in our midst. The people should see to it, or they are lost. If the authors of the rebellion, the advocates of Breckinridge in 1860, and of his treasonable doctrines of 1862, are now permitted to sow the seed of a new revolt—in fact, to lay the groundwork of a peace that would breed unending war—six months more will find the loyal States broken into a dozen fragments, the dependents of a united South, and a prey of the jealous monarchs of the Old World. There is a way to crush and anticipate this great danger. The people must rebuke the shameless demagogues who, under the cloak of loyalty, are toiling on the side of rebellion; and who, in opposing [Mr. Lincoln's Administration, expect to see that of Jefferson Davis taking its place. The President's proclamation will give these sympathizers with secession in Pennsylvania and elsewhere another chance to show their hands. May it also teach the people that the toleration of such treason is the certain forerunner of the overthrow of the Republic!

Heinrich Heine's Impressions of London.

I have seen the greatest wonder which the world can show to the astonished spirit; I have seen it, and am still astonished. Still there remains fixed in my memory the stone-forest of houses, and, amid them, the rushing stream of faces of living men with all their motely passions, all their terrible impulses of love, of hatred, and of hunger. It is London that I mean. Send a philosopher to London, but, for your life, not a poet! Send a philosopher there, and set him at the corner of Cheapside, where he will learn more than from all the books of the last Leipzig fair. Whilst all the billows of human life roar around him, a sea of new thoughts will rise within him, and the eternal spirit which moves upon the face of the waters will breathe upon him; the most hidden secrets of social harmony will be suddenly revealed to him; he will hear the pulse of the world beat audibly, and see it visibly. For if London be the right-hand of the world—its energetic, strong right hand—then we may consider the route which leads from the Exchange to Downing street as the world's pylorie artery.

"But send a poet to London! This downright earnestness of all things, this colossal uniformity, this machine-like movement, this troubled spirit in the midst of pleasure itself, this exaggerated London, smothers the imagination and rends the heart. And should you, above all, send a German poet thither—a dreamer, who stares at everything, even a ragged beggar woman, or the shining wares of a goldsmith's shop—he assured he will find everything going wrong with him.

THE LONDON TIMES.—The Duke of Wellington very clearly expressed his idea of the honesty and fairness of this "leading journal," when he wrote in reference to its abuse of him:

"The truth is, I refused to employ a relative of the editor of the Times in my family and that is the reason he has accused me of corruption."

TELEGRAPHIC.

[THIS MORNING'S DISPATCHES.]

REPORT OF SIGEL'S RESIGNATION DOUBTFUL.

THE ENEMY IN STRONG FORCE AT WINCHESTER.

A Large Quantity of Iron on the Way from England to the South.

Views in Regard to Letters of Marque.

FROM NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.

The Governor of North Carolina, Colonel Vance, delivered his inaugural at Raleigh on the 8th ult. It is moderate in tone generally, though when speaking of the treatment received by North Carolina at the hands of the rebel Government it is quite bitter and sarcastic.

The following is from the special correspondent of the Times:

SHARPSBURG, Sept. 30.

Yesterday Farnesworth's brigade of cavalry, accompanied by Gibson's and Tidball's United States batteries, crossed the Potomac into Virginia below Shepardstown The force reconnoitered the country for a distance of five or six miles from the river and discovered that the enemy still holds his position in the vicinity of Winchester.

Major Medill, of the 8th Illinois cavalry, with 3 squadrons took the road leading from Shepardstown to Martinsburg and met a regiment of the enemy's cavalry four miles from the former place. The enemy had two pieces of artillery and fired a few shells, but without effect.

The rebel videttes which were at Shepardstown and along the roads in the morning, retired as our cavalry advanced.

Farnsworth of the 8th Illinois took the road to Winchester. In houses along the way he took prisoners over 20 of the rebel wounded, including Colonel Magill, of Georgia, all of whom were paroled.

At Shepardstown General Pleasanton's provost marshal paroled nearly 400 rebel wounded. Our artillery was not brought into action.

Griffin with the 14th New York, 62d Pennsylvania, 32d Massachusetts and 2d District of Columbia, crossed the river and proceeded a mile and a half beyond. They took over 40 wagons which they brought in at night loaded with forage. They also picked up 25 muskets.

Times' Washington correspondent says, we have the best authority for contradicting the statement telegraphed from here last night to a Philadelphia journal, to the effect that peace commissioners had been sent here by the rebel Congress to propose a compromise of existing troubles. The Government has no knowledge of any such action, and it is believed the rebels are too well informed of its temper to suppose that it will entertain any proposition except one of unconditional submission to the constituted authorities.

Washington correspondents of the evening papers say that the declaration of Secretary Seward through Minister Adams to England, of which we have news by a recent steamer, of the purpose of the Government to issue letters of marque with a view of checking hostilities now carried on by southern pirates on United States commerce, has caused no little sensation among the representatives of foreign powers and students of international law, here, who regard it as tantamount to an official recognition by the United States, of the rebels as belligerents.

There is intelligence from England that 15,000 tons of iron, to be used for plating vessels, is on the way to the South. But even if the blockade is successfully run, our iron-clad vessels will be ready before those of the rebels.

FROM COLUMBUS.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 1, 1862.

To the Press of Cleveland:

TO THE GALLANT MEN OF OHIO:—I have the pleasure to announce that authority has been given this department to raise three (3) regiments of cavalry and ten (10) companies of sharp-shooters, for the term of three (3) years or during the war. The usual advance pay and bounty will be paid.

The State will be divided into districts, so that each county may have its just quota in this favorite branch of the service.

Applicants for recruiting commissions are requested to bring testimonials as to character and fitness, from the Militar Committees of their respective counties.

All worshippers of our glorious form of government, are requested to aid me in redeeming my promise to the Secretary of War, that this force shall be promptly raised.

[Signed.] DAVID TOD, Governor.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.

Recently Stahl's brigade, being a part of Sigel's corps, advanced to Warrenton Junction, about forty miles from Washington, without meeting an enemy. Yesterday they went to Warrenton village, about ten miles west, and took a large number of sick and wounded rebels, and some conscripts prisoners, whom they immediately paroled.

Stahl continued his reconnoissance to Salem and White Plains, but found no rebels in that direction.

Reports prevailed at Alexandria to-day that Sigel's troops had recaptured all the engines and cars which the enemy obtained from the wreck at Bristow and Warrenton Junction.

Nothing is known here, as is reported, of any disagreement between Sigel and the War Department.

FROM PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.

The Washington Star of this evening says:

Sigel moved out upon our immediate front, some days since. Sigel has just telegraphed that yesterday General Stahl's brigade took the town of Warrenton, made 1,200 rebels prisoners.

General Stahl yesterday went to Salem and White Plains, where he found no trace of the enemy. They how ver captured eight wagons loaded with quartermaster's and commissary stores, and several mules, and brought them off.

LIBERALITY OF COMMODORE VANDERBILT.

Eli Thayer to be Military Governor of Florida.

DEATH OF BRIG. GEN. RODMAN.

FUNERAL OF GENERAL NELSON.

Arrest of General Jeff. C. Davis.

HE WILL BE TRIED BY COURT MARTIAL.

FROM NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.

Commodore Vanderbilt is converting the steamer Vanderbilt which he lately gave to the United States government, into a man of war. She will carry some twelve guns of the largest calibre, and will be the fastest war vessel afloat.

The Herald's correspondent says, it is understood that Hon. Eli Thayer will immediately receive the appointment of military Governor of Florida. This appointment is made with a view to enable Thayer and those who are acting with him to carry out their scheme for the introduction into the Southern States of a loyal laboring population.

NEW COUNTERFEIT.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.

Peterson's Detector cautions the public of a new and dangerous counterfeit on the City Bank of Montreal, of Canada, of the denomination of fours. It is as follows: Vignette, Vulcan with an anvil, train of cars, &c., in the distance. Coat of arms of Canada and an Indian woman on the right end, Cupid bestriding a lion, and 4 on the left.

As Canada money is at a premium, they may be extensively shoved.

Also, spurious fives on the Mechanic's Bank of New York, are being largely circulated.

FIRE.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 1.

Two brick buildings, 186 feet long, a portion of the extensive patent leather manufactory of T. P. Howell & Co., was destroyed by fire this morning with a large quantity of knapsacks and leather. Loss $25,000, fully insured.

Hon. Jacob Miller, Ex-United States Senator, died at his residence at Morristown last night.

DIED.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 1.

Brigadier General Rodman died on Monday, near Hagerstown, of wounds received in the battle of Antietam.

FROM LOUISVILLE.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 30.

General Jefferson C. Davis in under arrest, and will be tried by court-martial.

The funeral of General Nelson took place to-day. The body was enclosed in a handsome metallic casket. The following officers acted as pall bearers: Major Generals McCook, Crittenden and Granger, Brigadier Generals Jackson and Johnson, Captain Jenkins, Chief of Staff and other staff officers. The procession was formed at the Galt House at three o'clock, and was composed of cavalry and artillery and about seven regiments of infantry. There was also one company from each regiment of the old division which Nelson commanded.

The remains were taken to Christ Church where Rev. Dr. Talbot delivered an eloquent address, and thence proceeded to Cave Hill Cemetery, and were placed in a vault, where they will remain until they can be removed to Camp Dick Robinson, in accordance with General Nelson's request.

Yesterday it was rumored that General Buell was relieved of his command. The news caused much dissatisfaction among our State authorities and prominent citizens who have the utmost confidence in Buell.

We have reliable information that Buell is still in command of the Army of Ohio.

A skirmish at Elizabethtown between Colonel Kennet's 4th Ohio cavalry and the 3d Gergia cavalry resulted in the capture of the entire force of the latter. Colonel Kennett paroled the non-commissioned officers and privates.

READY-MADE CLOTHING.

THE FAIR INEZ; OR, THE LONE LADY OF THE CRIMSON CLIFFS.

CONCLUDED.

To sermonize I'm not inclined,
If I merely touch a moral way,
"Live ever within your means,
And save for a rainy day."
And in order to save something nice,
Buy your Clothing at UNION HALL,
For there, on each suit, in the price,
You can save a sum not so small.

I would also say, "Pay your debts,"
For certainly never a man
Will enter the kingdom of heaven,
Who cheats every man that he
