Potato Rot.

Plunge your foot in scalding hot water, and the skin will be scalded. Keep it in scalding water, and I expect the foot would mortify. Put a potato in water from 80° to 90° Fah., or steam, it will scald. Keep it there and it will rot. As far as twenty-five years back, I have had potato rot on my farm. Upon my place it always required so much heat with so much moisture at the same time, to rot my potatoes. When we would have a week or ten days of rainy weather about the first of August, with the thermometer standing from 80° to 90° my potatoes would still rot. The rot with me, in place of beginning in the stalks, commenced in the tubers—(probably commenced all over the plant at the same time, but showed themselves to me in the tubers first.) In 1848 I think it was, after several days rainy weather, with the thermometer ranging at 80°, I went out to see a field of potatoes I had, on the 12th or 13th of August. From the state of the weather I expected to find the whole field past redemption—a mass of rotten potatoes.—On looking at the tops they looked pretty fair to the eye, but upon pulling a stalk to which the potatoes adhered, I found the rose or point end rotton from a third to a half, while the stem end or that which was more matured, was sound. The first stalk was a specimen of all I tried over the whole field. I left the field calculating that the crop was lost, the more so as after plunging the thermometer in the ground after sundown, it got up to 85°, and a hot steam would strike your face when you held it down to near the earth, as if from a swath of rotten grass. The same night after I had made my examinations and my calculations, the weather set in dry, with a considerable of a wind, which continued for several days. Three days from this the ground was very much dried up, and was cooled down from fifteen to twenty degrees. Upon examination, I found the potatoes about the same as they were three days previous, and as the weather continued dry, when I examined days afterwards I found the rot entirely stayed. Tops that I had spread on the rows, and also those in the ground, I found the rotted part dried up to the unrotted part, which was sound and about the same as if the ends had been sticking out of the rows and got frozen, leaving what was unfrozen sound.

During the worst years of the rot, I had a good many acres planted upon old ground heavily manured with old rotton manure in the row. I found that on the knobs where the ground was poor and yellow, the crop generally was sound and good, while in the low rich parts of the same field they were all rotten. I reasoned (whether correctly or not,) that the yellow poor ground absorbed less sun-heat than the black rich low ground. It ripened its crop sooner, and being a knob, no water set in the rows but was drained off into the rich lower ground where the potatoes all rotted. I would as soon think of going back to the old signs of the moon, wet or dry, in place of selecting good weather to put in the crop, as take any "sure remedy" that I have seen against the rot. Who ever heard of potato rot in a dry year?

Top Dressing for Lawns.

A fine grass lawn is one of the greatest ornaments to the pleasure-ground, & should have some little care bestowed upon it at this season. Grass long laid down, and constantly kept closely shorn, if not naturally very fertile land, wears out, and should have a dressing each winter of well rotted manure. Poor sandy soil requires it more especially, and on which it can be laid without stint. If the grass is already very thick and a close bottom, such material should be selected as would pulverize very fine and work completely into the sward. But if yet rather rough, it is not of so much consequence, as what such lawns require, is something fresh for the grass roots to work up into. On lawns away from the dwelling, or not much seen in the winter season, it may be allowed to remain undisturbed and nearly covering the ground. Prominent places, on the contrary, should have fine dressings, and work in if the weather continues open. When the frost leaves the ground in the spring, everything likely to get in the way of the scythe, must be cleanly raked off; and, if not well set with blades, should have some red top and white clover sown and worked in with the rake. Rolling has much to do with an even surface, and especially in the spring it cannot well have too much of it, both for the looks and the facility of mowing.—Country Gentleman.

Self-appreciation is a slow and gradual process. At first a child thinks he can do everything. I remember when I thought I could lift a house if I would only try hard enough. So I began with the hind wheel of a heavy old family coach, built like that in which my Lady Beautiful carried little King Pippin, if you happen to remember the illustrations of that story. I lifted with all my might, and the planet pulled down with all its might. The planet beat.

After that my ideas in reference to my will and my muscular force were more accurately defined. Then came the illusion that I could, of course, "lick," "serve out," or "polish off," various small boys who might be obnoxious to me. The event of the different "set-toes" to which the hypothesis led not uniformly confirming it, another limitation of my possibilities was the consequence. In this way I groped along into a knowledge of my physical relations to the inorganic universe.

A man must be very stupid indeed, if by the time he is fully ripened, he does not know tolerably well what his physical powers are. His weight, his height, his general development, his constitutional force, his good or ill looks, he has had time to find out; and he is a fool, if he does not carry a reasonable consciousness of these conditions with him always. It is a little harder with the mind: but some qualities are generally estimated fairly enough by their owners. Thus, a man may be trusted when he says he has a good or bad memory. Not so of his opinion of his own judgment or imagination. It is only by a very slow process that he finds how much or how little of these qualities he possess. But it is one of the blessed privileges of growing older that we come to have a much clearer sense of what we can do and what we cannot, and settle down to our work quietly, knowing what our tools are, and what we have to do with them.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Hartford, Trumbull Co. O., March 7th, 1857.

I hereby certify that I have been dealing in the Graefenberg Medicines for the past year, and can truly say that I have never offered any medicines to the public that have met with the decided approbation of the people like these, particularly the Pills and Catholicon. They will readily perform all and more than is promised for them. I have sold about fifty bottles of the Catholicon the past season, and I bear the best results in every case. J. H. C. JOHNSON, Medical Agt.

Read what Dr. Bushnell says of the Graefenberg Medicines. Dr. B., is a physician of extensive practice, and one of the most successful in the county (Trumbull,) to which he resides.

Hartford, Trumbull Co. O., March 7, 1857.

Dr. H. W. BUSHNELL.

I am a physician of thirty year's practice. My principal study has been disease of females. They have generally baffled my best efforts. Obtaining the materials composing Marshall's Uterine Catholicon, I was pleased with them; gave them a fair trial, and found myself abundantly successful in my former practice I could only mitigate the symptoms of about half the cases and could not cure one in ten. Now I can radically cure at least seventeen in twenty and mitigate the rest. I consider Marshall's Uterine Catholicon the greatest blessing to females I have met with.

J. H. WILLIAMS, M. D., Charleston.

West Bedford, Coshocton Co., May 24, '57.

Mr. H. B. Kingsley, Sir:—I have been selling the medicines of the Graefenberg company for the last ten years, and have invariably found them to give good satisfaction; and the pills I have sold to a great many families as regularly as their tea and coffee; and with my trade they have become a staple article. Marshall's Uterine Catholicon is a medicine that has done a great amount of good in female diseases. One lady I sold it to told me she had received more benefit from one bottle than she did from a long course of medical treatment by the most skilful physicians. Yours truly,
JAMES WILSON.

For consultation upon all diseases of the Throat, Lungs Heart, Liver, Stomach, Bowels, Kidneys and Spleen; also Dropsy, Gravel, Rheumatism, Nervousness, Debility, Dyspepsia, Female diseases, Ague and Fever, Fits, Impurities of the Blood, Eruptions, Cancers, Ulcers, and all other varieties of long standing complaints, both private and informal.

For more ten years Dr. T. has devoted his entire time to chronic diseases, treating thousands annually, many of whom had exhausted every other resource within reach. In no case are mineral or other poisons employed, nor does he make sick to well, or four doors to hell, as many do again. The medicine can be taken with safety by the most delicate, and patients may remain at home, and continue, with prudence, their ordinary diet and exercise. Many hundreds have recovered under the treatment, whose friends and physicians had given up all hope the indisputable evidences of which can always be furnished. invalids, now reduced or despairing, are invited to call, and may be assured that no encouragement will be given or expense incurred, without a corresponding prospect of recovery

DR. H. TUBBS—Sir: I am glad to add my testimony to the number of those you are receiving. It was after much persuasion that I consulted you. Perhaps this may influence some other benefiting invalid to seek relief at your hands. During the Winter of 1855, I was so reduced as to be confined to the strongest, to sit at the table. My affection was said to be a disease of the left lung, heart and stomach. The cough was very severe, attended with shortness of breath, night sweats, and swelling of the feet and ankles digestion was of feeble that I could eat but little more than shelter during the Winter, and for two successive weeks, subsisted on rice water or gum arabic water alone. Sinking turns came on nearly ev'ry day, a occasionally several in one day depriving me of speech, and sometimes of sight. Also Palpitation was distressing. The heart appeared to stop at times, causing a death-like sensation as though the breath was gone, and the circulation arrested. Thus suffering indescribable, and to all appearance balancing between life and death, I lingered until relief was obtained under your treatment. I was at that time residing in North field, Summit Co., where the circumstances here given were known generally. I am now enjoying comfortable health, and though not as vigorous as many, am able to perform my ordinary duties without inconvenience, and have walked over two miles with suffering nothing more than fatigue at the time. The great benefit derived from your treatment, and the interest you have manifested for me, shall ever be held in grateful remembrance. Respectfully, Yours,
MRS. MARY A. BATEMAN.

DOCTOR MORSE'S
INDIAN ROOT PILLS

CAUTION.

Merchants and Traders will be on their guard and not be imposed upon by a counterfeit of Morse's Indian Root Pills, signed A. B. Morse. All genuine Indian Root Pills have the name and signature of A. J. White & Co., on each box.

DR. MORSE, the inventor of MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS, has spent the greater part of his life in travelling, having visited Europe, Asia and Africa, as well as North America—he spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was on this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depends upon this vital fluid.

When the various passages become clogged, and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action, becomes thick, corrupted and diseased; thus causing all pains, sickness and distress of every nature our strength is exhausted, our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to reflect we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountainous cliffs in Nature's garden, for be health and recovery of diseased man. Take off the stagnant from the blood and secrete Nature in throwing out the useless parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectorant, that opens and unclogs the passage of the lungs, and thus, in a soothing manner, relieves the fever of the lungs, throwing off phlegm and other humors from the lungs, so on the sailing. The third is a Diuretic, which gives ease and double strength to the Kidneys thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is thrown out in our urine, thus relieving the liver or watery passages, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accomplishes the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood; the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the other outlets are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills not only suffer the stomach, but become united with the blood, for they find its way to every part, and completely root out and cleanse the system from all impurity, and the life of this body, which is the blood, becomes perfectly healthy—hence currently all sickness and pain is driven from the system, for there cannot remain or exist any pain where there is no disease.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine, which will pass to the affected parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to leave the system. Ninety out of one hundred of
