O YOUTU'S IRREVERENCE.—The Chicago Tribune relates that cas of the strongest temperance men connected with the Chicago Press has a penchant of mixing up drinks which cheer but not inebriate His latest discovery in this line is plain soda flavored with arromatic spirits of ammonia. While on Madison avenue, at the extreme west end, the other night, our journalist felt the approach of a head ache, and stepped into a convenient daug-store to indulge in his favorite tipple. He then placed a glass under a suspicious looking tap, when the journal-ist who didn't understand the business said: "Hold on there! What are you about? I want a soda and ammonia. "That's all right," said the knowing urchin." I'm giving you a little bourbon; I know what I am about. That's
