(Continued from page one) experience and initiative of the teaching body in the conduct of the schools and the recommendations of such councils should be made a matter of official record. When consideration is given the effective part played by the Prussian school system in the development of the habit of instinctive, unthinking obedience on the part of the masses of the people, the vital importance to American institutions of breaking away from Prussian methods in our school system is driven home. 7. Your committee believes that the most effective guarantee of democracy in our schools is the affiliation of the teachers of the country with the great democratic force of organized labor. This committee joins with the Committee on Organization in urging that the American Federation of Labor and all affiliated bodies give every support to the American Federation of teachers in the work of organizing the teachers. 8. Finally the committee asks that the Executive Council be instructed to send copies of this report to all affiliated bodies with the request that Educational Committees be created. INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION The Buffalo Convention having the subject of industrial education and vocational training under consideration, urged that in view of the enactment of the Smith-Hughes bill as an educational measure of outstanding importance, affiliated bodies are urged to see that their respective states qualify for participation in the availability of funds for the above purposes. It is urged that safeguards should be provided to adequately guarantee that the federal funds shall benefit genuinely democratic education and not be diverted to pervert industrial education to the purposes of exploitation. The convention declared the chief safeguard to be equal representation of organized labor and employers on all boards, state and local, which control the expenditures of such funds. We urge increased facilities in public normal schools for men and women in the trades who desire to prepare themselves for teaching industrial and vocational subjects. The convention made the following declaration: Vocational and pre-vocational training whenever given shall be for educational purposes only, and under no circumstances shall it be commercialized through the manufacturer of products for sale. We insist that in all courses of study and particularly in industrial and vocational courses, the privileges and obligations of intelligent citizenship must be taught more vigorously and effectively than has been done in the traditional civics. And we further insist that at least in all vocational and industrial courses, an unmasculinized industrial history must be taught, which will include an accurate account of the organization of the workers, and of the results thereof, and will also include a summary of all legislation, both State and Federal, affecting the industries taught.
