INVOKE CRIMINAL SYNDICALISM ACT

ROTERING FILES BELATED COMPLAINT AGAINST MAN FOR BELONGING TO I. W. W.

For the first time since Montana's iniquitous state criminal syndicalism act was enacted by a war-hysterical legislature in 1917, the act was invoked today by County Attorney N. A. Rotering when he filed an information direct in criminal court charging Thomas Kane, a member of the Industrial Workers of the World, with the crime of criminal syndicalism for alleged organization work in connection with the industrial organization.

Although the information was filed in the name of Rotering, it is understood the county attorney's action was inspired by Special Agents W. D. "Daredevil" Bolling and F. W. Kelly of the local branch of the United States department of justice. On the information the names of Chief of Police Jere Murphy, Finger Print Expert Hi Kimball, and City Detectives Gerry, Rodda and Powell are endorsed as witnesses.

The complaint as filed by Rotering alleges that in the county of Silver Bow on or about November 16, 1920, Kane, "intentionally, unlawfully, knowingly, intentionally and feloniously organized and helped to organize a society or assemblage of persons formed to teach, advocate and suggest, and which does teach, advocate and suggest, the doctrine of criminal syndicalism, sabotage and the necessity, propriety and expediency of doing acts of violence and the commission of crimes and unlawful acts as a means of accomplishing and effecting industrial and political ends, change and revolution."
