THE BRUTES CAUGHT.

The Five Negroes who Murdered Borun and his Wife, and Burned the Callares, Arrested.

The Columbus (Miss.) Index informs t- readers that Captain Kincannon, of Verona, who was in this city Sunday, gave us the gratifying information that all except one of the murderers of the Borum family at Shannon, had been captured. They are all negroes, and their names are as follows: George, Bill and Gus Hussary, Burrell White-sides and Bill Nease. There may be ome mistake in the names, as Captain Kincannon is not positive. One of the murderers informed on the others, and, according to his statement, the flends went to Borum's house late at night, broke the door down with an ax, and when Borum appeared and asked if they intended to kill him, they did not answer, but fired upon him, killing him instantly. They then mur-dered Mrs. Borum, rifled the room, and retired after firing the house in the doorway and in one corner. They locked the door behind them, leaving three children, one black and two white, slive in the house; and they waited outside until the building under arrest at Shannon, to which place crowds of infuriated citizens were flocking from all directions. Haverly's talented band of minstrels continue to advance in public favor at very performance, and their audiences increase in number, while the ladies turn out in force each evening. Last night at the Memphis Theater there was quite a full and fashionable house, and the "ladies of society" crowded the dresss-circle, and even invaded the parquette. There was an entire change o programme, and the bill of fare of last night comprised many tit-bits." in part ballad and solo singing. Several of the good old plantation melodies, that used delight young and old previous to the late srtuggle were introduced Particular mention may be made of Mr. Barlow's "Juba," which had all the smack and mellowners of the oldentimes. It was inimitable, and was received with a perfect burst of spontan-eous cheers. The Californ a Quartette club introduced the good old past song of Come where my Love Lies Dreaming, and from the hearty encore with which it was greeted, it was evident that the quartette had lost none of the charm of former days. Messrs. Freeth, Dixon and Welling were all in splendid voice, and rendered the ballads set down for them with exquisite taste and feeling, while Messrs. Barlow and Wilson interspersed the first part with comic songs, comic stories, and comic sayings and doings that were excrutiatingly funny. The olio was full of good things, with Primrose and West in their silver-shower clog; and the entertainment, a most pleasing one, concluded, with Morris's very laughable sketch of the Employnent Office.

Mayerly's Minstrels,
