ANDY GUMP HAS HECTIC TIME AT RED MEN'S INITIATION W.L.DOUGLAS

Idolized Congressman-Elect Hollers Head Off for "Min" While $5 $6 $7 & $8 SHOES AND WOMEN Oange Tribe Degree Team Is Giving Him the Whole Works-Has No Wind Left to Make Speech.

Andy Gump was initiated into Osage Warrior. But upon glancing into the mirror on yonder wall, it appears that I am paler now than before the initia-Tribe No. 113, Red Men, last night. "Ho, there's Andy Gump," some one elled as the candidate was led before Edward Sanner, sachem of the tribe. the conducted the initiation, assisted by Dr. James McMouagle.

Andy, that being the name conferred upon the new warrior of the tribe, apparently got "cold feet" while waiting of in the arteroom and hid in the basement of the tribe clubhouse, at Broad and Catharine streets. When the degree team was ready to receive him, a searching committee was dispatched to find the candidate. He was discovered crouching in a coalbin. was discovered crouching in a coalbin.

While members of the lodge decline to so into details as to what happened during the initiation, persons living in the neighborhood of the clubhouse heard the war whoops of the warriors, mingled with shieks, which, they said, sounded very much like "Oh, Min!"

"Congressman, how do you stand on the proposal to give poor children of the elity a treat on Christmas?" was one of the first questions put to the newly made member of the lodge.

"I'm one hnudred per cent for the kiddies." replied Andy, slightly modifying his campaign slogan in the recent election, which was "One hundred per cent for the people."

As is customary in lodges, the newly initiated member was called upon for a speech, but his oratorical abilities, so well developed in his recent campaign, and to which his election has been attributed, had temporarily vanished.

Stroking the place where his chin ought to be, he stood awkwardly, trying to think of something to say. After some moments he proceeded.

"Gentlemen." he began, "before being initiated into this lodge I was known to members as a paleface. Now I am supposed to be a Red Man and a
