BROWN ARRAIGNED AGAIN

He Pleads Not Guilty to Two New Indictments.

Charles H. Brown, former clerk of the Ames poor department, was arraigned this morning before Judge Elliott, on two indictments, one charging him with "fraudulently presenting a claim and bill to a public officer for payment," and the other charging grand larceny. Both bills are based upon the alleged padding of the poor department bill presented by Joseph Steffel, grocery dealer in Minneapolis, and corrections of the two indictments upon which Brown was arraigned at the close of the W. H. Johnson trial.

The defendant pleaded not guilty in each case and trial was set for May 23.

BRAINERD-MARX MATTERS

Judge Lochren Will Pass upon Them Next Monday.

Judge Lochren will pass upon the parts of the tangle of the Brainerd-Marx bankruptcy matters Monday. Marx's trustees, John Sheehy, asked that all of the Brainerd assets be turned over to him, alleging fraud in the transactions between Brainerd and Marx. Marx had transferred to Brainerd the bank located at Montgomery street, which Brainerd subsequently "made E. losing" on. The request was denied by Referee O. C. Merriman. Sheehy's attorney has asked that Judge Lochren review the findings, and Monday has been agreed upon as the day for the review.

Sutton, the complainant in the case, appeared as his own counsel, and attacked the county attorney with considerable vigor. He charges that Carr was improperly interested in a county ditch contract. Senator R. B. Brower appeared for Carr, who was an interested listener to the proceedings. The governor took the case under advisement.

RUTZATZ WAS SENSITIVE

A Fight Resulted, and He Paid a $10 Fine.

Wm. Rutzatz didn't like the way the clerks stared at him when he went into L. W. Fuel's grocery store, so he made disparaging remarks about them, and drew Fuel into a fight. Rutzatz, who owns the building, said that the clerks made faces at him when he went there on business. Fuel, according to his own admission, received a good thrashing and Rutzatz willingly paid $10 in police court this morning.

A SUAVE SUSPECT IS UNDER ARREST

REPRESENTED SATURDAY EVENING POST, DON'T YOU KNOW

He Has Been Operating Snap Advertising Schemes Among Prominent Business Men for Some Weeks—The Police Are Now Looking for His Partner.

After swindling several business men and being royally entertained by his victims, F. L. Jenkins, alias Ben Smith, put under arrest by Detective Oscar Hicks, is at the central police station marked "held." It is understood that a charge of forgery will be placed against him. Jenkins came here several days ago and represented himself as a member of the editorial staff of the Saturday Evening Post. He called upon several head men of the big milling companies and upon prominent business men, explaining that he was assigned to write up the leading interests of the city. He secured photographs and was royally entertained when he explained that there was no expense involved.

After spending several days in the city he made several graceful "touches" with varying success, and having realized several hundred dollars, was about to leave when arrested.

Jenkins is said to have had an accomplice, who is now in Chicago, but the county attorney will not issue a warrant, as there is no money to pay for bringing him back.

WHOSE BID IS LOWEST?

"Coincidence" in Bids for Federal Building Ice Supply.

Bids for furnishing ice for the federal building were opened yesterday. The contract will be let to the lowest bidder but this may cause some scratching of heads in Washington. By a singular coincidence every dealer in the city who submitted a bid named the same price of 25 cents a hundred pounds. During one "good old summer time" five or six years ago ice was purchased by the government at 3 cents a hundred pounds. About thirty tons are used every year by the government representatives in Minneapolis.

NECROLOGICAL

DEATH OF HENRY OMEN

Removes Young Man of Promise—Funeral To-morrow.

Henry Omen died Tuesday night at the home of his parents, 2710 Bloomington avenue. In his death the community suffers a distinct loss. While he was only a young man, 22 years of age, he gave promise of becoming one of the strong young men of the city. He had completed the grammar school course in the Minneapolis public schools, and his school work was always of the highest order. Beginning his business career with the Northwestern Knitting company, in one of the most subordinate positions, he steadily advanced by sheer force of ability until he was appointed assistant superintendent of the manufacturing department.

About one year ago his health appeared to be failing and he was granted leave of absence which he spent mostly in California and other points in the west. After two months he returned to his work, but it was soon apparent to his friends that his health was seriously impaired, and in a short time he was obliged to resign. He was a young man of most exemplary habits, generous, kindly, always mindful of his duty in every sense. The funeral will take place Friday at 9 a. m. from St. Elizabeth's church.

Early in the week a Mrs. Nelson was held up in Northeast Minneapolis and robbed of her purse. She described her assailant and an hour later Malone was arrested and brought before her. She identified him, she said, by his voice, but admitted that she did not see his face, and Judge Dickinson refused to convict him on suspicion.

BODY NOT WISE'S BUT E. T. OLSON'S

Remains Recovered from River Are Those of Man Missing Since October.

After his friends and relatives had searched the countryside for six months and in a vain effort to find him, the body of E. T. Olson, 408 Fourth street S., was taken from the river at noon to-day. Identification was made by letters found in his pockets. This was the body seen yesterday and believed to be that of the missing Joe Wise, Olson, who was employed by the North Star Woolen Mills company, left his room on the night of Oct. 10 last, and no trace of him could afterwards be found. Olson had been ill for three weeks but as his body was not found, his relatives believed him still alive.

EXAMS FOR CADETS

Commissioned Officers and Sergeants Put Thru Yesterday.

Examinations for promotions in the cadet corps are in progress. About twenty-five commissioned officers and sergeants took examinations yesterday afternoon and the freshmen and corporals will take their tests to-morrow. The tests were severe and several left without making any attempt to answer the questions.

The number of candidates is less than the number of offices which will be vacant unless more men show up. It will be necessary to reduce the number of companies in the battalion next year.

Examinations for higher degrees—master of arts and doctor of philosophy—are now under way and will be completed by May 19. There are about 160 graduate students and a majority of them are candidates.

The baseball game between the university and the Port Snelling team, scheduled for this afternoon, was called off this morning. To-day was pay day at the fort and none of the soldiers were allowed to leave the reservation.

Damaging testimony was given against Roy Malone, arraigned in police court yesterday on a charge of vagrancy, but it was uncorroborated and the young man was dismissed.

LEARNING HOW TO STOP GERMS

WATER COMMISSIONERS ARE BUSY IN THE EAST.

With Allen Hazen of New York, the Minneapolis Members of the Commission Are Visiting Filter Plants Now Operating or Under Construction.

Special to The Journal.

New York, May 5.—F. W. Cappelen and Andrew Rinker, Minneapolis members of the pure water commission, arrived in New York Monday morning last and met Allen Hazen, the New York member, at his office in the St. Paul building.

The commissioners are investigating several of the newest and best water plants in operation and under construction, and are making themselves thoroughly familiar with what is being done in eastern cities.

In the afternoon the commissioners visited the filtering plant at Yonkers, N. Y., now nearing completion. They spent Tuesday in Washington with Colonel A. M. Miller, engineer officer in charge of the plant, which will supply filtered water to Washington. Some of the filters already in service, and others are being finished from time to time, so that the whole city will be supplied with filtered water at an early date.

The filters at Philadelphia, and Washington are both sand filters. This afternoon the commission is visiting the mechanical filters of the East Jersey Water Co., at Little Falls, with George W. Fuller, who designed the plants at Ithaca, Elmira, Albany and Watertown will next be visited and afterwards probably some of the newer and better western plants.

SWIFT IS FOR HARMONY

Harmony in Politics and Labor, Says Senate's Doorkeeper.

"Harmony" is the watchword of John Swift, doorkeeper of the United States senate, who has just returned from Washington for the summer. Harmony in Hennepin county republican politics and harmony in the ranks of the labor party is what he wants to see.

Mr. Swift believes that the ability of Congressman John Lind would count for more were he representing the dominant party. He says that if Hennepin county politicians were in harmony with the national exhibition, the ranks of the labor party is what he wants to see.

"The conservative element must control the labor movements," says Mr. Swift. "Labor must be kept out of politics. It must have a spirit of honesty, integrity and fair play. The socialist element must be kept down. Otherwise it will bring the movement into disrepute all over the country. Labor has no better friend in the country than myself, but I say that the workers must be honest and fair, they must be gentlemen in dealing with their employers."

Several screamed and he was stopped, just as he was falling, clutched the window casing and held tight until he was pulled back to safety. Had he fallen he would have gone down twenty-five feet to the stone pavement below.

Glorio's Accusation Shows That He Is On Thin Ice.

He further charged that the complaining witness, Otto Glorio, had himself ridden on the sidewalk and from work clothes admitted this and was told that if he continued he would also be brought into court and would not be let off with a small fine.

WHAT WOMEN WANT TO KNOW

The Nightly Care—I am so tired when I go to bed that I have not the energy to massage and brush. Do you really think that they help one to keep fresh and young?—Elsie.

The busy woman who hurries into bed without a thorough toilet is making a serious mistake. After a weary day spent in a ceaseless round of duties the very idea of further exertion seems distasteful and yet it is just such women who stand in the greatest need of the invigorating influences of the nightly care. A trial of a week will convince the most skeptical that an hour spent in preparing the tired body for rest will yield more lasting results in the way of good than an extra hour in bed in a disheveled state. First brush the hair thoroughly to dislodge dust and dandruff, then massage the scalp for five or ten minutes, with the finger tips. Brush the hair again gently, braid it rather loosely and pin up out of the way while bathing the face and neck.

For the bath use plenty of warm water and a bland soap, finishing with a cool rinse and an application of cold cream if the skin seems dry or rough. To relieve the tired feet indulge in a warm foot bath there is nothing equal to it to soothe the tired nerves, especially if it is accompanied by gentle friction. The hands demand special consideration; trim the nails neatly and if the skin is rough or stained lemon juice will remove the stains and tend to whiten the skin. Rinse the juice off and anoint the hands with a good cold cream. Of course, the dainty woman will not neglect to brush her teeth the last thing before retiring. A hot water foot bath will be refreshing and act as a corrective if one is inclined to biliousness, but do not drink hot chocolate nor eat solid foods just before retiring. If one wishes the body may receive a thorough soap and water bath, but this should not be taken at night more frequently than twice a week, as a rule.

OFFICERS OF THE NEW "MODEL CLOTHING HOUSE"

JOHN L. LYNCH, President. J. L. DICKINSON, Secretary. G. E. CRIST, Vice President. JOHN F. NICHOLSON, Treasurer. A. M. NORDSTROM, Director.

Beginning Saturday with a splendid grand opening, Minneapolis is to have a new clothing house to add to the attractiveness of Nicollet avenue and to the retail business of the city. The Model Clothing House, owned and controlled by Minneapolis men, well known to the clothing trade, will throw open its doors to the general public Saturday morning at Nicollet and Third street, one of the oldest "clothing corners" in the city. The officers of the company are as follows: President, J. L. Lynch; vice president, George E. Crist; treasurer, John F. Nicholson; secretary, J. L. Dickinson; director, A. M. Nordstrom. All these men have been connected with leading clothing houses of Minneapolis for years past, and all are so well known that they need no introduction to the public.

There will be a grand opening of this store Saturday, when appropriate souvenirs will be distributed and when the general public will be given an opportunity to inspect it. The stock, which will include everything essential to a big, modern clothing house, will be entirely fresh and new.
