FINE LEGAL POINTS IN STREET VACATION SUIT

Case of Vanderburgh Against the City and the Great Western Railway Involves Arguments of Interest to Lawyers—Case in Supreme Court.

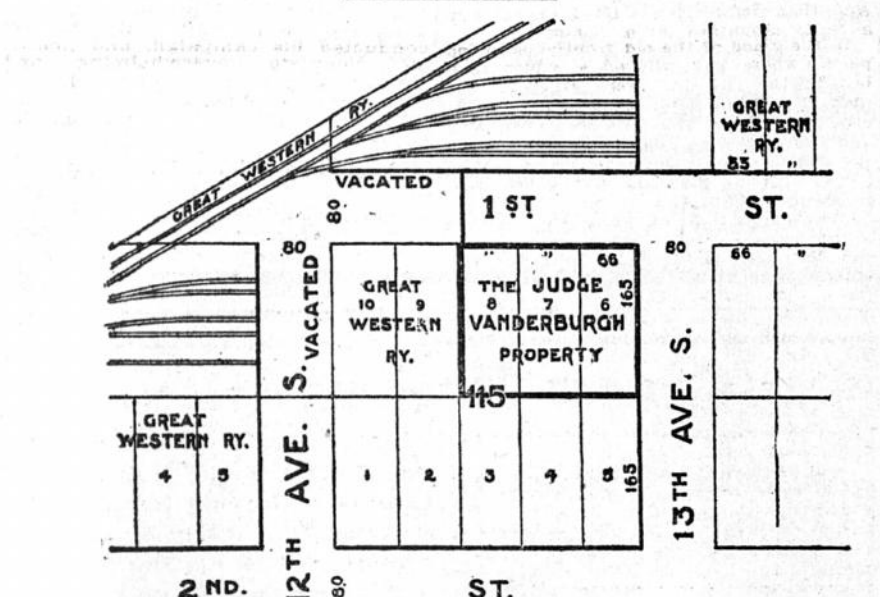

DIAGRAM OF THE VANDERBURGH PROPERTY

Few questions have come before the courts of the larger cities in recent years, of greater practical interest than those growing out of the construction of railways in streets. What are the rights of the abutting owner in the street, and how he may protect them against the encroachments of corporations with the authority of municipal councils have excited the gravest debate, and have been the subject of the most careful judicial consideration.

For the first time the case of W. H. Vanderburgh vs. City and Chicago Great Western Railway Company brings up this question in Minnesota, where it has been hitherto totally undeveloped. It is one of the greatest equity cases that ever came before the supreme court. The plaintiff is carrying it on single handed and has prepared a most exhaustive brief.

The accompanying plat shows how First street and Twelfth Avenue South were vacated by resolution of the city council without payment to him, and that it leaves plaintiff's property deprived of principal access, and cooped up on a blind court instead of on a thoroughfare. And for the destruction of his property rights as well as the substantial depreciation in value (the value of the property is a secondary matter. It may be stated the railway lately paid $150 a foot for adjoining property.) Mr. Vanderburgh brought suit for injunction and invoked the aid of the new amendment to the constitution (1897), "that private property shall not be taken, destroyed or damaged for public use without just compensation first paid or secured therefor"; claiming that the people by inserting the words "damaged" and "destroyed" proclaimed a new rule liability for consequential damages, from which municipal corporations were hitherto exempt.

Points in the Case.
The three principal points to be discussed in the supreme court are: First, what constitutes the "damaging" in the above provision? Whatever permanently prevents owners the free use of the street for ingress and egress, and whatever interferes with a street and permanently diminishes the value is as much a damaging as the taking of the land itself. The up-to-date interpretation of the courts in other states who have inserted the word "damaged" in their constitutions exploded the old theory that the vacation or obstruction must be in violation of the lot to entitle the owner to compensation. If the street is vacated on

Normannaheimen BOBRIKOFF'S END NOT UNEXPECTED

SLAYER OF FINLAND'S GOVERNOR GENERAL A HERO.

The Assassination, However, May Cause Additional Suffering for the People—Story of the Awful Conditions that Prevailed Under Dead Ruler's Regime.

The end of General Bobrikoff, governor general of Finland, who was assassinated yesterday, has long been predicted, not openly, of course, but in the privacy of the home, the office and the club. Young Schaumann may not have rendered his country a service by his rash act, for unless the Russian nature has been changed, the death of General Bobrikoff will be followed by reprisals in which the whole people will probably suffer. Still, he will be added to the list of Finland's heroes, and no matter how brutal the next governor may be, he can hardly equal the hated Bobrikoff, and he is very likely to be much more humane. Undoubtedly the young patriot was wise to commit suicide, as the most terrible punishment Russian cruelty could devise would have been meted out to him.

Finland is in a deplorably pitiful condition in consequence of five years of Bobrikoff rule. The taxes have been piled on the people at a frightful rate in spite of the fact that industry and commerce have been diminished as the result of misrule. The revenues of the country formerly were sufficient for all purposes, but also education and public works have been greatly neglected. The Russians have been able to extract large amounts for extra expenses.

Where the Money Goes.
The department of the police has drawn most heavily upon the Finnish resources. Its added expenses during the period under consideration amount to no less than 2,855,000 marks, and represent an increase of 188 per cent! The next in order is the Russian treasury, which has been enriched by 2,000,000 marks. Then comes the department of instruction in the Russian language, for which $50,000 marks have been expended; then the governor general's department, which has received 172,000 marks; and the department of expenditure of 18,000 marks; and finally, in the list of large sums, the gubernatorial and provincial departments, whose accounts have been increased by 443,000 marks.

Of smaller sums expended during the same period we have, first, the senate, which has received 172,000 marks; then the means placed at the czar's disposal, 150,000 marks; the department of literary censorship, whose purpose is to prevent the publication of enlightenment, 95,000 marks; Russian school inspectors, 55,000 marks; gratuities, 14,000 marks; and, finally, the czar's picture, 11,000 marks. At least 9,000,000 marks have been expended without the slightest benefit, and in many cases, with incalculable injury to the country.

Heavy as these burdens have been, they are only experiments in the work of pressing out money. During the present year, in addition to the ordinary expenses of the government, must pay nearly 1,000,000 marks for the Russian gendarmerie, 3,000,000 marks for the Russian treasury, and 1,000,000 marks into the war fund, which, the collected by force, is advertised as a gift.

Education Stifled.

Commerce and industry have been at a standstill during this period, and in consequence of the stagnation, decay has set in. If the entire street were vacated, Finland must eventually reach the pitiful condition of unhappy Poland. Already libraries and reading-rooms, established by the voluntary contributions of the young people's societies of Finland, have been closed under the pretense of purging them from "unwholesome and dangerous literature". In addition to the books, periodicals and newspapers from abroad have been prohibited because they might contain principles antagonistic to the political code of Russia; the teachers and instructors have been continually watched and interfered with by the Russian school inspectors and gendarmes (some of them have already been sent to Siberia); while the usual allowances to institutions for public instruction and recreation have been gradually cut down, and many of the schools closed altogether, "because there is no more money in the treasury for such purposes."

In the main, all the things of which the people complain have emanated directly from Bobrikoff.

PASTEBOARD AS ARMOR

Interesting Tests Made by Swedish Army Officers.

Swedish army officers have recently conducted a series of rifle tests for the purpose of testing the usefulness of pasteboard as a protection against bullets. The trials were conducted on the wharves of the Swedish navy in Karlskrona and the target used was a prepared one of millboard, against which the rifles, revolvers, rifles, carbines and machine guns were directed.

The pasteboard, which was three inches thick, resisted completely the bullets fired from the small arms, but was perforated by the projectiles from the machine guns. The experiments may be said to have been successful. Bullets from the carbines were able to penetrate wooden planks five inches in thickness, but they could not penetrate the pasteboard, which was only three inches thick.

SKIN DISEASES The Outcropping of Bad Blood.

While not always painful these are aggravating beyond expression. With few exceptions they are worse in spring and summer, when the system begins to thaw out and the skin is reacting and making extra efforts to throw off the poisons that have accumulated during the winter months. Then boils and pimples, rashes and eruptions of every conceivable kind make their appearance, and Eczema and Tetter—the twin terrors of skin diseases—Nettle Rash, Poison Oak and Ivy, and such other skin troubles as usually remain quiet during the cold weather, break out afresh to torment and distract by their fearful burning, itching and stinging. A course of S. S. S. now will purify and enrich the blood, reinforce and tone up the general system, and carry off the bodily impurities through the proper channels. The skin, with good blood to nourish it, remains smooth and free of all disfiguring eruptions. Send for our book on diseases of the skin, and write us if you desire medical advice or any special information. This will cost you nothing.

Work without worry usually tends to prolong life. On the other hand, worry, with or without work, is fatal because it uses up what the doctors call the "Leitlin," a phosphorized fat which is the chief constituent of the brain, and nervous system—a waste which, if not stored in time, means complete nervous wreck. The evident moral is "don't worry"—advice easy to give, and in these days of stress and strain, practically impossible to take. The alternative is: find some way of replacing the wasted Leitlin—the phosphorized fat. This absolutely essential element will be found in its most perfect, palatable and assimilable form in Ferroleum.

An Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Phosphorus (phosphorized fat) together with iron, the recognized blood builder—making FERROLEUM the ideal nutrient it claims to be. For the prevention or treatment of nervousness, indigestion, constipation, absolutely unequalled—it is safe, sure and speedy.
