Senator Kearns Succeeds in Securing Compromise That Cuts Off Part of Delay.

BY A. F. PHILIPS.

Tribune Bureau, National Hotel WASHINGTON, D. C., April 1. The Ulntah reserve will be opened March 1st of next year, instead of October 1st, the date now fixed by law as it will be impossible to open on the date named this year. To accomplish this it will be necessary to get an increased appropriation of $5000. This will be provided in an amendment to the sundry civil supply bill.

The first information the Utah delegation had of the inability of the Government to get ready for the opening was in the form of a protest from the people of Uintah county. Gov. Wells also urged that the opening be postponed and many other prominent men. especially from Uintah county, urged restreaments of the date. postponement of the date.

postponement of the date.

An amendment had been presented to the Committee on Indian Affairs fixing the date of opening one year from October 1st. This was stricken out, through the efforts of the Utah delegation, before the bill was reported to the An effort made then to reinsert the original date was defeated. It was supposed that all danger was past and that the reserve would be opened as originally contemplated. But when the bill was sent to conference an-other attempt was made, this time by the Secretary of the Interior, to post-pone the opening. He said that with the limited force at his disposal it would be impossible to prepare the pre-liminary survey or do the office work and allot the lands in time to meet the and allot the lands in time to meet the requirements of the law. In his judgment it would take at least a year from October 1st next to be fully prepared.

When Senator Kearns learned this he wired Surveyor-General Anderson and Gov. Wells concerning the matter. The replies received were that it would require the time until July of next year to complete the work for opening.

Merciless Rain of Fire Poured on Natives by the British Forces.

LONDON, April 2.-The India office gives out additional dispatches sent by Col. Younghusband concerning yesday's battle. The dispatches state that it was the L'hassa general who fired the first shot, thereby inciting the Tibctans to attack, and show that but for the fact that the Tibetans were so hemmed in that they could not use their weapons the British loss might have been much more serious. stalled within the next few days on the 450-foot level.

Mr. James Hickey, superintendent of the mine said today that d ifting operations had been suspended some time ago, and the force was put at work cutting out a station for a monster pump in anticipation of a threatened inflow of water. In conducting the drifting Mr. Hickey found that the veins which contain the ore bodies are saturated with water, and that before extensive explorations could be conducted upon them the pumping capacity of the mine would have to be increased. The new pump will be placed in the bottom of the shaft, and the two pumps now in use will be removed to higher levels. Mr. Hickey says the tendency of the waters is to drain off, and that within the last few weeks the water has receded considerably.
