

Of Interest to Women.

WHEN THE PRINCE WOODED PEGGY.

BY RICHARD B. SHELTON.

Macomber was paddling out of her sight and out of her life. "Donald!" she cried. He paddled on with never a glance in her direction. "Donald!" she cried again, and as he still gave no heed she tremblingly stood up. His royal highness gasped. "Sit down—sit down!" he urged. Peggy deliberately put one little foot on the spreader, and in a moment they were in the water. When she came to the surface she was seized by a strong arm, and a big, tender voice said, evenly: "Don't struggle, dearest; you are safe with me." And Peggy closed her eyes and was very happy.

Not so His Royal Highness of Coburg-Gotha. He was floundering about miserably, and shouting spasmodically between choking gurgles: "Help—in God's name, help! I do not swim!" The rescuers fished them out—Prince Ludwig, Wilhelm of Coburg-Gotha first, for he was far spent. And while at the inn they were rolling him in hot blankets and pouring brandy down his throat, Peggy was laughing and crying hysterically on the shoulder of the prince. "Although he was not known to the world at large by this title, it is true—and making a most absurd confession. When she had finished, Donald's face was very grave. "But if he had drowned, what then, Peggy?" he questioned. "Coburg-Gotha could have got along without a prince better than I could without you," she said.

THEY LAUGHED Arguments on the Packages. A husband of an Ohio woman at home some packages of Grape-Nuts and was much amused, but let her tell the story. Years ago I was thin and sick-suffered so from indigestion, was nervous, and could not sleep at night. I was not able physically or mentally to perform my duties and was entirely under the care of my doctor. I had tried plain living and all the remedies recommended by my doctor, but they got no better. My husband brought home yellow boxes and said, "The grocer says to try this food and report to me like it, he thinks it will help." I read all it said on the boxes Grape-Nuts and I remember how I felt at it for I thought it foolish to eat food that would help me. But the food we all ate some with cream, and enjoyed the deliciously Grape-Nuts, not because we thought it would cure me but because that time we had no idea what Grape-Nuts would be but now I am anxious to have the world know that today I am a well and strong woman physically and mentally. I gained over 20 pounds, do not suffer from any of the ailments I once had. I know that it is Grape-Nuts that have restored me. They call me "Grape-Nuts" here at home and all of my friends have the same cause of it all. I have had several of them to use Grape-Nuts and every one of them who has been benefited and I wish in my power to induce every one to try to give this wonderful food a trial. We still have Grape-Nuts three boxes and never tire of it. Name by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. This food is nourishing and completely digestible food will show any one who runs down from improper eating more than a gold mine because it means the joy and spring of life health in place of the old ailments. There's a reason! Eat each package for the famous book, "The Road to Wellville."
