

know before the election what he promises to make public after the election.

While publications after the election may enable us to judge whether subsequent official action has been properly affected in favor of the contributor by the successful candidate, this is of very small value compared with the benefit to be derived from the publication of contributions before election.

The people have a right to know in advance of election whether those with special interests to look after are contributing sums larger than public spirit, patriotic motives and general interest would warrant.

Mr. Taft misrepresents what I have said in regard to Mr. Hughes. I called attention to some of the contributions that were made to Mr. Hughes' fund, and in view of the fact that Mr. Hughes attacked the plank presented in the Democratic platform...

On all these points I have answered for me in the published statement. I have not until now spoken of the compensation I received, because if the employment was improper, it would be no defense to show that I was a small sum, but if on the other hand the employment was proper, the compensation concerned only the company and myself.

It is only fair, however, to assume that in using Mr. Hughes' case as an argument, Mr. Taft means to say that he will not object to contributions from trust magnates, railroad magnates and tariff beneficiaries, no matter how much these contributions may be, even though he may, if elected, be compelled to pass upon questions where their demands may be on the one side and the interests of the general public on the other.

One of the early signs of the rapidly approaching winter was seen all over Salt Lake City, Thursday, it being the policeman, who appeared in winter uniform. The blue coats and blue collar coats were put on yesterday, and although several of the officers during the middle of the day had to unbutton the coats, those that are on night duty were glad orders had been issued to get on the winter apparel.

Worry is a big load to carry and an unnecessary one. When accompanied by indignation it certainly is cause for the blues.

Two years ago I made the acquaintance of Grape-Nuts and have used the food once a day and sometimes twice, ever since.

The trouble became so severe I had to leave my work for days at a time. My nerves were in such a state I could not sleep and the doctor said I was on the verge of nervous prostration.
