TENT LAWS IN CHICAGO
Some of the 4000 additional street wardens, employed under the tent laws, were on duty in Chicago yesterday, when Mayor Kilby, of that city, officially opened the summer season of the municipal office of sanitation. The mayor said that the city was in much better shape than it had been at any time during the last three years. The water was very clear, and the streets were clean. The mayor also said that the city was in much better shape than it had been at any time during the last three years. The water was very clear, and the streets were clean.
