Do We Overeat?

Since the war began in Europe there has been a good deal of talk concerning the conserving of food in various Euro-pean countries. Peasant and aristocrat alike have learned to eat less elaborate food, more nourishing food. State banquets and hotels have shortened their

Aunt Chatty's Mothers' Club Conducted by Mrs. Charity Brush

PARTIALITY.

"HIS is a real Mothers' Club, for the benefit of mothers everywhere who are struggling with questions of discipline, training, education, clothing, for the children. Write to Aunt Chatty of problems are vexing you, and she will advise and help you to a solution of Write to her, too, of your own discoveries, of methods you have found successful in smoothing the rough paths of life for the tender, childish feet, that through the Mothers' Club your experience may be of benefit to other mothers who are still tangled in the web of perplexity you have so happily unraveled.

Co-operation is the secret of success in any business; so why not in the business of motherhood, that highest and holiest calling which always has been and always will be woman's crown of glory, no matter what other avenues of usefulness may be opened to her? Address Mrs. Charity Brush, care of this paper.

The mother tries in every way to atone for the father's neglect to the unhappy child who is left out, but she cannot prevent his feeling that has been superseded in his place by the second child.

The circumstances are rather peculiar. The father is interested in agriculture—is a professor in the agriculture—is a professor in the agricultural department of a great state university and has much to do with the breeding and the care of animals. When his first child was born, this father was exuberant in his rejoicings that it was a boy. Now he would have some one to share his tastes and his interests, he said. And so for two or three years he petted and played with and spoiled the boy. He talked with and sponed the time when Frank would ride of the time when Frank would ride to very young babies and the quantular the boy was only two years of when the boy was only two years of when the bought a small Shetland pony grows older.
