Steps Out of War Picture to Be Interviewed By Mary

Maj. Jan Hay Beith, Hero of Fighting in Flanders, Talks of Work "Over There" to Miss Law.

Miss Law, Maj. Jan Hay Beith, the godson of President Wilson and a Thirty-Fourth Machine gunner, was a guest of honor at a dinner in honor of the British Sphere of America at 801 Fifteenth Street this evening. The dinner was given by the British Sphere of America, a group of American women's organizations who have done much to raise funds for the British war effort. The dinner was attended by several prominent American women, including Mrs. Henry A. Kissinger, Mrs. William F. French, and Miss Edith Milliken. The evening was a great success and served as a reminder of the continued efforts of the American people in supporting the war effort. The dinner was held in the beautiful parlor of Mrs. Henry A. Kissinger, who is a member of the British Sphere of America. The table was beautifully set with flowers and candles, and the food was excellent. The evening concluded with a speech by Maj. Hay Beith, in which he spoke of his experiences in Flanders and his hopes for the future. The evening was a great success and served as a reminder of the continued efforts of the American people in supporting the war effort.
